A CIRCULAR letter has just been sent out to those alumni whose subscriptions to the CAMPUS are in arrears two years and over, urging upon them the necessity for their aid in the support of their college paper. No doubt there are many who will be surprised to receive this letter, because it is their intention to keep their subscriptions paid, and it is only through forgetfulness that they have been allowed to run behind. The fact remains, however, that there are so many who have thus neglected to attend to the matter that the management is forced to do one of two things: either to cut down the number of copies issued, or else keep at the alumni until they "pay up."

It is sincerely hoped that the alumni will look at the case in the proper light, and will make the slight effort which is absolutely necessary in order to keep the CAMPUS on a fairly sound financial footing.

THE attention of the CAMPUS has been recently attracted by the further pursuance by one of the fraternities of a custom which it itself inaugurated a year ago and which as was expressed by its members, "it was hoped would be universally entered into and carried out by the other fraternities of our institution."

As has presumably already been guessed, we refer to the "smoker" tendered by Omega Mu chapter of Phi Gamma Delta to the faculty and resident alumni members at its chapter home, on the evening of February 10. The entire affair was made as informal as possible, light refreshments were served, and impromptu remarks made by various members of the faculty. Cigars were lighted and it was universally felt that much had been accomplished in reducing or lessening the barrier of formality and lack of social relationship between students and faculty which necessarily results from the division of pursuits and interest occasioned by the different departments of education.

The fraternities can do a great amount of good in this line if they see fit to adopt this custom; for, by so doing, they are able to bring the faculty in closer touch with the great majority of the students in a manner which will remove all restraint and irksomeness. The slight inconvenience will be more than paid for by the pleasure derived from such gatherings and the CAMPUS heartily endorses the movement and urges the various fraternities to give it just consideration.

THE old adage that "nothing succeeds like success," seems to have been proven to be true by the athletic association during the last two years, and the college meeting held last week should go down as a red letter day for the association. Since the beginning of athletics at the University the association has been handicapped by a small but annoying debt which it has always had since its establishment. The greatest care has had to be exercised to provide the minimum amount of material, and the amount has too often been too small, teams have been put onto the field with poor and heterogeneous suits, and the minimum amount has been allowed for coaches. The players have been poorly clothed and, in case of the second nine and members of the track team, have had to furnish their own suits.

But with the advent of championship teams and better coaches has come greater gate receipts and better support from students, faculty, and alumni. In the fall of 1903 the prospect was rather dark from a financial point of view; with the expense of two Massachusetts trips and greater expense for a coach, it looked as though the association must lose money. The books showed an existing debt of about two hundred dollars and the expenses of the fall season were estimated at thirty-five hundred dollars.

The outcome has been more than could have been expected. The expenses reached nearly four thousand dollars and the association for the first time since its organization finds itself with a small balance to its credit.

This condition has been brought about by the almost unanimous support of the students and faculty, better support from the alumni, favorable weather for games, and larger gate receipts.

While we are congratulating ourselves on the present condition we would do well to consider the prospect for this spring. Manager McDermott has arranged without doubt the best schedule ever made up here, with games with Brown, Dartmouth, Williams, Amherst and Tufts; making two trips out of the state. In order to carry out this schedule it will require a large amount of money. The receipts from games will be smaller on account of the season being shortened about ten days, the last game being played May 28.

How shall this condition be met? Shall we allow the association to go behind again or shall we do our little part to keep it in a good financial condition? The students have done exceptionally well this last season and a similar report is hoped for this term. In regard to the alumni, those who have contributed have done well; but we desire to see an interest shown by the great majority of our alumni who seem to have forgotten us—not a large interest on the part of a few, but an interest on the part of the whole.

A few weeks ago Prof. Lewis resigned from the athletic board and his place has been filled by Prof. Hurd, who is a new man at the University, coming here last fall as professor of agriculture. During his college course he was very much interested in athletics and is a strong advocate of clean athletics. It is needless to say that if the association heeds his advice it will still stand for the clean, manly athletics it has in the past.

PRISM SUGGESTIONS

In less than six weeks the last copy for the 1905 Prism must be in the hands of the printer, therefore, if you have any particular friend whose failings you wish to relate, it is time for you to begin to think. No one denies the fact that it does a man good to be reminded of his faults occasionally, and there are few of us but have them to be told about. Now the Prism is a kind of annual exposure, in which men and things as seen by the students are shown up in general. Why not expose somebody? Your neighbor may not be able to see obnoxious things about himself, things that you and everybody else can and do see every day. In that case, it is not only your privilege but your duty to enlighten him in such a way that he may remember. Every man should appoint himself a committee of one to see that all his acquaintances who are at all worthy, are suitably recognized in the "Grinds" department of the Prism.

Time and again we have been reminded that the Prism is not the book of the few who are chosen to publish it, not the book of any one class or crowd; but the book of Maine, in which every man connected with the college, especially the students, should have an active interest. If the entire book is written by a few men it will not be characteristic of the whole college. Neither have a few men the time or ability to do all that is to be done. They cannot possibly see and hear all the occurrences that are worthy of a place in the Prism.

Whenever you see anything funny, make a note of it and write it up. Paraphrase a poem, applying it to local conditions. Suggest a new idea. Your contributions will be gladly received, and your help duly appreciated by the editors; and in future years it may be a source of satisfaction to you to notice jottings from your diary in the year books of your time.

The Prism of 1905 bids fair to be as good as any that has ever been published here. We hope it may be better; but this rests in a large measure with the students themselves. The artistic work includes contributions from some fifteen or twenty individuals, and is unusually good. The liberality of subscriptions will undoubtedly make it possible to put an excellent finish on the book. The larger part of the subject matter in the beginning of the book, together with the statistical parts, is already in. There are two departments, however, to which contributions are urgently invited—the "Literary" and "Grind" departments. If every man in college did something, we should be able to compile from their five hundred contributions, a book that would thoroughly portray college life, and be characteristic in every way. Think it over.

The manager of the Colby basketball team has cancelled his dates for the rest of the season. This is due to the fact that the team has no place to practice while the repairs are being made in the gymnasium.

"BETA DORG"

The twenty-third annual reunion and "dorg" of the New England Association of Beta Theta Pi took place at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, Friday evening, Feb. 19. All the New England colleges in which Beta Theta Pi maintains chapters were represented by goodly numbers and among the hundred or more that sat down to the banquet in the evening were men from all sections of the country.

At the business meeting, held in the afternoon, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Norman Gunderson, Brown, '88, president; Clarence L. Newton, Wesleyan '02, secretary; Edward N. Lacey, Amherst, treasurer.

The banquet was served at 7 o'clock, Hon. Harrison Hume, Dartmouth, '66, serving in the capacity of toastmaster.

The toast list included Rev. E. Melville Wylie of Beverly, University of Denver, '98; Rev. Almon Dyer of Sharon, an Amherst man; Hon. Walter H. Barney, Brown, '76, of Providence; Hon. Harry E. Back, Danielson, Conn., Boston University, '92.

The University of Maine chapter, the Beta Eta of Beta Theta Pi, was represented at the business meeting in the afternoon by Frank McCullough, '04.

PROF. ALBERT BUSHNELL HART

A fair-sized audience of students well sprinkled with visitors from Bangor and Orono listened to an interesting lecture upon the subject, Washington as a Literary Man, delivered by Prof. Albert B. Hart of Harvard University, in the chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 25.

Coming very opportunely, Washington's birthday having just been celebrated all over our country, anything that touched upon this statesman, the Father of our Country, was unusually interesting. Especially was the lecturer's chosen subject interesting to those people who had never before thought of Washington other than as a statesman, planter and soldier. Washington as a literary man, however, was still Washington, and all his works and writings bear the same fearless, straightforward, unyielding stamp so plainly shown in his political and warlike transactions. Touching briefly and interestingly upon Washington's literary environments, achievements and interests, the lecturer set forth among others the following characteristic points:

Circumstances rather than preparation made Washington a literary man. He attended no college and read little; most of his knowledge was gained from his surroundings and experiences. His education differed as radically as possible from that of the youth of to-day. At the age of 16, when the modern youth is about to enter college, Washington was just starting upon his first venture in the wilderness. At 22 he was a great Indian fighter; at 25 he was married and from that age on, he was thrown loosely into the great approaching struggle for independence. But his accomplishments in his public career show him not only to be cultivated but also well educated. Washington's education was the education gained amid stirring surroundings. From the time he first entered the Virginia assembly he was brought in contact with famous men, but none outshone him and in this manner he also became acquainted with distinguished foreign statesmen.

The most numerous testimonies of this great statesman's literary ability are to be found in his letters and journal. Of his autograph letters there are twenty thousand, an enormous number for a single man. He had been compiling these from his boyhood, when he wrote forceful letters to his friends; to his more mature manhood, when his pen was called to weightier things. But in whatever part of his life these were written and on whatever subject they showed literary genius.

Few men could have written so well upon such diverse subjects. For example, he wrote military letters, brief and formal and to the point; letters to Congress begging, commanding, imploring aid and equipment, or protesting their treatment of his soldiers; and letters to his wife, affectionate, comforting and true. As was natural in the case of such an extensive letter writer, he worked out a splendid style peculiarly his own. In fact, no writer of his time except Hamilton, has ever been judged his equal in his chosen department of literature.

In other fields of literary work he shone no less brilliantly. When president he must necessarily send in the annual presidential message. These messages never contained anything unnecessary and in this quality reflected the character of the man, who never indulged in anything superficial. Among other literary odds and ends was a dissertation upon marriage, a subject in which he seemed to take a great interest.

Always interested in promoting literary work, Washington showed increased enthusiasm upon that subject during later life. He read the papers carefully, gathered about him an extensive library, encouraged young and growing authors by his patronage, and gave liberally to the establishment of educational institutions. Thus, from the man with no advantages for education other than those derived in active life we get Washington the literary man, whose influence had a beneficial influence upon the works of his and later ages and whose writings upon politics and economics of his time have become the basis for all histories dealing with that period.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS

The Musical Clubs this year have completely changed their constitution of the past years and the result is seen by all those connected with the University. The clubs were never in such perfect condition as at present, and they never in past years have done the amount of training that they are now doing. Naturally, the question comes to us: what is it that is encouraging them to work so hard? The answer is a more or less difficult one, but a few facts may throw a little light upon the matter. The main reason why there is so much work being accomplished is that the men are all putting heart and soul into their efforts and giving their leaders and manager all the support possible; another reason is, that the University has never in its history had such a high standing in the musical line as it has to-day, and the class of men that represents the University on the musical trips is of the highest type. Their new constitution, which was adopted last fall, elevated the standard of the clubs a great deal; and what is more important, their members are living up to the articles embodied therein. In the past it was a rule that members of the clubs could wear the M. M. C. caps only after playing in four entire concerts, but this year their constitution increases this to fifteen concerts. This is a step along the line of progress, and if one will only give it a moment's consideration, he will readily see that it is now almost an impossibility for a freshman to earn the right to wear the club hat, because the same set of men is not taken on every trip. The positions on the clubs are won by competition, and it is the best men who are taken each time, as is the case in athletics.

This year's clubs are planning a trip to Aroostook county, and it promises to be one of the best trips of the whole season, for it takes in towns that have never received the clubs, and covers a section of the State from which we gather a large number of our students. The start for Aroostook will be made on March 14 and concerts will be given in the towns of Patten, Houlton, Fort Fairfield, Presque Isle and Ashland. Following the Aroostook trip will come the Portland trip which will take in Skowhegan, Madison, Auburn, Kennebunk, Saco and Portland. This trip will start March 28 and will give a fine opportunity for those men living in these towns to be at their homes when the clubs are there, since these concerts in the main come during the Easter recess. The two above trips are comprised wholly of guaranteed concerts held under local auspices. When the men return to college at the close of the recess, they will give a final concert in Orono and if the present hard practice is continued the clubs should be in a condition to give a musical entertainment that will surpass any previously heard here. Arrangements are being made for a concert in Brewer, but the date is not yet decided upon. Letters have been received from Rockland, Camden, Damariscotta and Bath wishing the clubs to appear there and it is very probable that Manager Alton will arrange this trip if the faculty are willing that it should be undertaken.

It was stated in chapel at the last college meeting that the musical men should sign their names followed by the letters M. M. C. This is because every man in the clubs has agreed to pay his subscription into the club treasury before a certain date, else he will forfeit any profits to be derived from the year's work. The reason for this is that there may be plenty of money within reach and no bills outstanding. As was said in chapel, "all the bills of the athletic association are paid and a balance on hand," so with the musical clubs; all bills contracted this year are paid or there is money with which to pay them, and a surplus besides.

The music handled by the clubs this year is far heavier than that used by the majority of colleges maintaining like organizations, and the University is proud that we have one club which none of the others support, namely, the banjo orchestra.

Mr. Dorticos, who is leading the mandolin club, has been one of the most valuable men in the musical line who has ever been at the University. A word might be said concerning one piece that his club is playing—The Campus Dream Waltz. This piece was written by Blake, a graduate of Amherst and has proven one of the best waltzes written. Previously it has never been arranged for mandolin clubs, but last fall the Ditson publishers of Boston worked it up especially for our clubs and they are the first ones to present it before the public. The banjo orchestra is led by H. A. Sawyer, and he certainly has put more work into the preparation of its pieces than ever before. His club is playing music that is catchy and quick, and has that tempo characteristic of the banjo. This club is one of the most popular of the year and great credit is due to the efforts of Mr. Sawyer. The glee club is being lead by A. B. Plummer and his task has been an exceptionally hard one, for we all know that a good glee club is a very rare thing. However, his club is the best Maine has had for many years and promises to excel all previous ones by the end of the season. The clubs have been fortunate in having the help of Messrs. Sprague and Palmer of Bangor as soloists and it is not necessary to speak here of the quality of their work, or is it essential to dwell upon the aid rendered by Mr. Goodrich, whose work is evident to all and has materially benefited the clubs.

On the whole, the standing of the clubs is higher this year than it ever has been before and the sentiment toward the musical clubs among the men of the college is fast becoming as strong as that toward athletics.

DEBATES

Since the last issue of the CAMPUS the Debating Society has received the additional impetus from two successful meetings and debates. At the first, a well attended meeting of the society, Feb. 16, the question, Resolved, That Japan is Justified in Declaring War against Russia, was vigorously discussed. No happier subject could have been chosen, and those who attended were well repaid by learning the ins and outs of this question of world absorbing interest. The speakers entertained their listeners for an hour, at the end of which the question was thrown open to the house. When it came to voting upon the merits of the arguments presented those assembled unanimously favored Japan; when voting upon the merits of the debate the affirmative side was the winner, though by a small margin. The speakers and the positions taken were: Affirmative, E. Arthur Stanford and Edward S. Dinsmore; negative, Albert J. Butterworth and Rapheal L. Sherman.

This success was repeated a week later when another question of economic importance was brought before the society in the following shape: Resolved, That the Laws Governing Trusts and Corporations should be left with the U. S. Senate. The affirmative and, as was later proven when put to vote, the favorite side consisted of Francis T. Crowe and Prentiss E. French; negative, Lincoln Crowell and William E. Davis. side the engineer's beaten track, the debate was of great interest to all present. Even more satisfactory, however, was the size of the audience. Each debate boasts of a larger attendance than the one preceding it; may the next meeting claim a larger one still. The subject arranged for the debate next Tuesday evening is, Resolved, That Trusts are Justifying Their Existence.

SIGMA CHAPTER EPSILON BANQUET

Maine Alpha chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon held its fourth annual banquet at the Penobscot Exchange, Bangor, Feb. 20, a date long to be remembered by the fraternity. The tables were well filled by nine-thirty o'clock when 27 of the chapter and many of its alumni sat down to the ample banquet prepared. After having disposed of the menu and having reached that state of after dinner complacency when a short talk is best appreciated, the toast master, Prentiss E. French, announced the first speaker. Other speeches or rather talks followed, many of the needs, ambitions, and hopes of the fraternity receiving due attention. None of the after dinner speakers, however, were quite as much enjoyed as the alumni representatives who carried their hearers backward into the historic past, or again, reassured the fraternity of their loyalty and assistance. Hours passed swiftly and midnight came just as everybody had reached the highest state of enjoyment. Following is the toast list prepared by a committee consisting of Fred W. Talbot, F. R. Reed, J. R. Talbot, R. H. Porter and H. E. Packard:

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON DANCE

Maine Alpha chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon gave an informal dancing party in Alumni Hall, Tuesday evening, February 19, thus adding another to the brilliant social successes of the college season.

From eight until nine the guests of the chapter were ushered into the hall and presented to the receiving committee consisting of Mrs. E. A. Balentine, Mrs. K. P. Harrington, Mrs. G. E. Fellows, Clifford G. Chase and Ira M. Bearce. In the meantime Pullen's orchestra which played throughout the evening with unusual zest and willingness, rendered a very pleasing concert program.

Dancing began promptly at nine o'clock and continued until midnight when the party dispersed, making many agreeable comments upon the pleasurable affair, its informality, the excellence of the music and the decoration. The entertainers had indeed shown happy forethought in this latter matter of decorations and although simple, consisting only of bunting and flags—banners of fifty odd colleges being used—they were tasty and harmonious. The committee with whom lay the responsibility for the success of the occasion consisted of Joseph W. Crowe, Ira M. Bearce, Prentiss E. French, Reginald E. Lamb and George H. Hill.

THE CONCERT

The musical clubs gave their annual Bangor concert under the auspices of the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church, in City Hall, Friday evening, February 26. The attendance was large and a concert which showed the effect of weeks of hard training and a marked improvement in the condition of the clubs, amply rewarded the many friends of the collegians who assembled in their support despite the fact that this was the third of like events to take place within two months.

Much can be said regarding the work of the clubs and the credit that they reflect upon the institution when traveling through the various sections of our State, but space will not permit. Of the concert Friday evening, it is only necessary to say that it excelled by far all anticipations—the glee club sang with more vim and finish, doing complete justice to the accompaniment of Mr. Palmer's solo, "Good Night, Little Girl." The banjo orchestra and the mandolin clubs played with their customary expression and accuracy, and are the logical results of careful and conscientious training.

The soloists, Harold S. Palmer and Adelbert W. Sprague—both well-known and well-trained musicians—received that thoroughly cordial welcome for which Bangor audiences are noted. Mr. Goodrich, the reader, who made his first appearance before the Bangor public, was well appreciated; his manner of delivery and the nature of his selections contributed much mirth and pleasure to the occasion.

After the concert dancing was enjoyed until 12.30 o'clock, music being furnished by Pullen's orchestra. Many of the University students were in attendance, a special car being run to Orono at 12.45 for their benefit.

N. E. I. A. A. MEETING

At a meeting of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association held at the Copely Square Hotel, Boston, Saturday morning, February 20, it was voted to abolish bicycling races as a branch of the intercollegiate competitions.

The date set for the annual games was May 20 and 21, and they will take place, as usual, at Worcester oval.

It was further voted that the constitution should be revised and printed and a copy sent to each of the constituent colleges before the next annual meeting.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. I. Hamilton of Amherst; vice-president, R. E. Hall of Bowdoin; secretary, H. J. Mann, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; treasurer, C. J. Goodwillie of Williams; executive committee, W. I.

Hamilton, Amherst; T. R. Barrett, University of Vermont; J. T. Maynard, Dartmouth; C. J. Goodwillie, Williams; T. E. Jewett, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; C. H. Hull, Brown.

BASKETBALL

MAINE 34, ST. MARY'S 5

Loyally supported by a large number of Bangor followers, St. Mary's basketball team came to Orono, Saturday evening, Feb. 27, only to be defeated 34-5, after a most interesting and snappy game. Both teams had clean records to their credit, neither having met defeat this season; but the strength and staying qualities of the stordid collegians were too much for their lighter opponants who were fairly taken off their feet on the first swift rush. The Maine players, too, were spurred on to their greatest efforts by the thought that this game was a sort of last practice before they met Boston University. Therefore every member outdid himself Saturday evening, with disasterous results to the St. Mary's team.

Starting promptly at eight o'clock in a quick burst of play, the first few minutes were characteristic of the whole game. The visitors passed brilliantly and played desperately, but the college team was the first to gain a lead which it maintained throughout the entire game. Donald Snow of Bangor was again referee and both teams scored more or less on free chances from the foul line; but Haley of Maine seemed to have a little the best of the argument and made good 9 out of 13 shots. In field work it would be hard to praise one player without praising all. But Soderstrom's work was so much above par that it deserves special mention, while Capt. Abbott of St. Mary's proved himself a heady and resourceful player. After two halves of 20 and 15 minutes, respectively, the playing ceased and the floor was cleared for a dance. The final score stood 34-5 in favor of Maine, and every college supporter was satisfied.

Many to give their satisfaction full play remained and enjoyed the dance. True, the floor was not crowded,—only twenty five couple or so occupying the large hall—but at least there was plenty of room, good music and feeling of jolity and good fellowship abroad and not a few of the dancers looked with regret upon the close of the evening's enjoyment at 11.30 o'clock.

The summary:

BOSTON ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETS

About 50 members attended the annual reunion and banquet of the Boston alumni of the university of Maine, held Feb. 27, at hotel Bellevue. At a business meeting, which preceded the dinner, these officers were elected: E. E. Palmer, '99, president; W. N. Gargill, '00, vice-president; S. D. Thompson, '01, secretary; A. R. Davis, '02, treasurer; H. B. Andrews, '88, C. H. Gannett, '93 and M. L. Uram '96, executive committee.

At the post prandial exercises the retiring president, H. S. French, '86, was toastmaster.

Among those who spoke were President Fellows, Prof. Lewis and Prof. R. K. Jones, E. J. Haskell of Westbrook, and Hon. E. B. Winslow of Portland, trustees; and Hon. L. C. Southard, '76, of Boston.

PROF. SKINNER WILL LECTURE

Prof. Boardman has announced that the attempt to secure F. W. Skinner, of New York to give a series of lectures upon prominent engineering topics for the benefit of the engineering students, has been successful. A series of four lectures have been arranged to be given by Mr. Skinner Wednesday and Thursday, March 23 and 24. A lecture will be given each afternoon and evening, while the last of the four—on Thursday evening—will constitute the final lecture in the regular course of lectures which has been furnished by the University.

The subjects of the lectures will be as follows: Wednesday afternoon, Mar. 23, Underpinning, Shoring, and Moving of Buildings; Wednesday evening, Foundations of Engineering Structures; Thursday afternoon, March 24, Erection of Bridges on Trestle Falsework; Thursday evening, Remarkable Methods of building Long and Lofty Bridges.

Mr. Skinner, who is consulting engineer and member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, comes highly recommended by Prof. Henry Jaccosby of Cornell, at which institution Mr. Skinner has given a number of lectures similar to those which will be given here.

As Mr. Skinner is a specialist in bridge and building construction the lectures will not in any sense be of a hydraulic nature as was desired by some of the civil engineering students. An attempt is being made, however, by the heads of the engineering departments to secure a hydraulic expert for a course of lectures later in the spring.

Dartmouth Hall, built 110 years ago and the oldest hall at Dartmouth college, was destroyed by fire a short time ago. The loss amounts to $25,000.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN

Among the numerous and busy organizations which the University of Maine supports is one which has kept steadily and quietly at work creating for itself a sphere of usefulness which is in a measure unique.

Putting the fraternities out of the question entirely, the Deutscher Verein affords an opportunity for social intercourse, for recreation, for development on the culture side, which, from the preeminently technical nature of our University, its other organizations do not give. One of its chief reasons for being is that it may help to round out and supplement the arduous routine of student life.

The Verein meets from time to time with its various honorary members, which adds greatly to its social attractiveness. Its next meeting will be held with Prof. and Mrs. Harrington. The usual meeting place is the Mount Vernon House, and the meetings occur every third Wednesday. A program is always arranged consisting of one or more talks upon subjects connected with German followed by general informal discussion and music.

As this is the second season of the Verein's existence it has been decided to undertake a little departure from the old order of things, merely to show that the club is alive and growing, and that its scope is by no means limited.

Before the close of the season the Verein hopes to present to its members and invited friends a little play. The question of a selection was difficult to settle; but believing that a small beginning often results better than a too ambitious flight, the Verein has chosen Mark Twain's "Meisterschaft," a little three-act comedy which can hardly claim to be a German play at all, for the proportion of German and English is about equal. However, the mixture seems to be good as Mark Twain's mixtures usually are and the Verein intends this merely to be an entering wedge, after which more scholarly and distinctly German "Schanspiele" will follow. LOCALS

Miss Eva C. Libby of Hartland has recently registered for a special course.

Saturday night, in the gymnasium, the 'varsity will play the Taconnet Club of Waterville.

Had the Father of our Country been on the campus last Monday, he would have found himself a very popular man.

A large number of students availed themselves of the additional holiday last week for a short visit to their homes.

Dr. Fellows has recently had a sitting for his portrait to J. Carroll Beckwith, a portrait artist who is one of the world's greatest painters.

Miss Maude B. Colcord has returned from an extended visit to her home, where she was detained owing to the serious illness of her brother.

A three weeks course in horticulture and poultry management was begun last week. A number of the students are availing themselves of the course.

President Fellows was among the distinguished guests at the banquet given by the Maine Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in Portland, Washington's birthday.

At a recent meeting of the freshman class, Ernest Lisherness of E. New Portland, was elected captain of the class track team. A. B. Cayting of Brewer, was elected manager at a previous meeting.

A new system of rules for the appointment of Commencement parts, will be inaugurated this year. The sixteen seniors ranking highest will be asked to submit essays; from this number the six best will be selected.

Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28, at 2.30 o'clock, Miss Alice H. Moore of Rockland addressed the students in the chapel. This was one of the series of lectures which the Y. M. C. A. have been holding for the last few weeks.

Over 250 names were subscribed to the papers for spring term dues, a larger per cent than were signed last fall in a similar cause. This number, treasurer Conner believes, can be increased 100 by seeing the students individually.

The many friends of Mr. J. E. Burbank will be sorry to learn that he has resigned his position as instructor in physics in this institution to accept a position as magnet observer with the United States Geodetic and Coast Survey.

Invitations are out announcing the Junior Promenade, March 11. The Prom. is to be held this year in City Hall, Bangor. The committee in charge consists of R. E. Drummond, G. W. Carle, J. W. Crowe, P. R. Moody and E. O. Sweetser.

At a college meeting, held Wednesday, Feb. 24, the recommendation of the executive committee was accepted "that the spring dues be $5.00 with 10 per cent. discount if paid on or before April 15; women students and students in School of Law, $2.50."

At the regular meeting of the Agricultural Society, held in Holmes Hall, Feb. 24, Roger Haskell, '04, gave an interesting account of visits to various greenhouses in Massachusetts; and M. H. Wakefield read a paper on the growing of hot-house vegetables.

Prof. O. F. Lewis attended the annual dinner given by the Tuft's College Club, Friday evening, Feb. 26, he being an alumnus of that institution. On Saturday evening he was one of the representatives of the University of Maine at the meeting of the Boston Alumni association.

Dean Hart was absent from college the greater part of last week on a tour of some of the preparatory schools through Aroostook county. Among the schools which he visited were Houlton High, Ricker Classical Institute, Fort Fairfield High, and Presque Isle High.

Stephen J. Farrell, the new coach of the track team, has arrived and is busy with candidates for this spring's team. Mr. Farrell already has gained the confidence and respect of the track men and is destined to become as popular as was John Mack — and his popularity was proverbial.

Invitations are out for a house warming to be given Wednesday evening, March 9, by the Alpha Delta chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. The fact that the Phi Kappa Sigma house is the latest addition to the number of fraternity houses on the campus, will lend special interest to the occasion.

At the meeting of the board of the New England Intercollegiate athletic association held in Boston, Feb. 20, Maine was represented by Frank McCullough, '04. Besides other business transacted, it was decided to hold the meet at Worcester, May 20 and 21. It was voted that this year, the bicycle race should be dropped from the list of events.

Prof. H. S. Boardman, head of the department of civil engineering, has been admitted to membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers, one of the leading professional organizations of the country. Early in March, Prof. Boardman plans to make a ten days' trip to the technical institutions of the East in the interest of his department.

About twenty-five intimate friends and alumni of the Kappa Sigma fraternity were present at a very delightful affair given by the members at their chapter house, Wednesday evening, Feb. 24. The entertainment consisted of musical numbers followed by dancing until a late hour. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Three of a Kind, was the subject of an interesting talk given by Mr. R. A. Jordan, general secretary of the Bangor Y. M. C. A., in the Art Guild building, Sunday, February 21. On March 6, Prof. Stevens will speak on The Message of Parsifal; and on March 20, Prof. Rogers will give the last of the series of Sunday afternoon talks, his subject being The Rational Basis of Religion.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Junior Electrical and Mechanical society Monday evening, Feb. 15. The evening was devoted to the discussion of the interesting subject, Pneumatic Machinery. Papers were presented by W. S. Maddocks and R. W. Haskell. The meeting announced for Feb. 22, was postponed on account of the fact that all college exercises were suspended that day.

The announcement that W. D. Lambert, instructor in mathematics at the University of Maine had tendered his resignation became public last week and was received with universal regret. Mr. Lambert resigns in order to accept a position with the United States Geodetic and Coast Survey at Washington, D. C. Mr. Lambert's resignation will go into effect at once.

The members of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity gave a very pleasant party at their chapter house, Monday evening, Feb. 22. Among the guests were intimate friends from Bangor and Oldtown together with several members of the alumni. The evening was very pleasantly spent with a musical entertainment and cards, during which refreshments were served. The affair was partly in the nature of a reception to their new matron, Mrs. Richards, formerly at University Hall.

A. L. Grover, physical director, has announced the date of the annual indoor meet—March 25. Every effort will be made to make the meet this year the most successful that has ever been held. The men are already at work in the gym. under the direction of Mr. Grover practicing the various drills and tumbling exhibitions which will be given in addition to the usual inter-class track events. An effort is also being made for the annual freshmen-sophomore basketball game to take place that evening.

President Fellows attended a banquet of the University of Maine Alumni association, of New York, held at Hotel Vendone, 41st street and Broadway. Among the guests present were several prominent and well-known Maine men. After an elaborate menu had been disposed of a number of toasts were responded to by those present: Dr. Harris, ex-president of the University; Henry Lord, of Bangor; Mr. George Hamlin, formerly professor of civil engineering and Mr. McKeen, president of the Maine Society of New York, and son of a former president of Bowdoin college.

The work in the military department is being made very practical this year through the efforts of Capt. Symmonds. The new system of rifle practice is proving very popular and the range is in almost constant use. On Feb. 19, in place of the regular drill and theoretical work, the students of the two lower classes were assembled in the chapel while Capt. Symmonds delivered the third of a series of lectures which he is giving upon military subjects. The lecture was the most interesting that has yet been given. The movements and maneuvers of advance, flank, and rear guard of a moving army were explained in a very clear and concise manner. Capt. Symmonds is giving a somewhat similar course to the cadets at Bangor High school.

The new debating society is at present accomplishing something which has often been attempted in previous years, and for some unknown reason has always met with failure: it is creating a strong interest in debating at the University. The meetings are well attended, the subjects interesting, and the debates, considering the amount of experience which has been available to most of the speakers, are handled in a veteran manner. It is the intention of the program committee to introduce a list of debates upon subjects of general discussion pertaining directly to the University. In the list is one which will deal with co-education the opposing sides to be taken by the men and women students.

Since the last issue of the CAMPUS the society has held three very interesting meetings with subjects and speakers as follows: February 9, Resolved, That the best interests of both nations require the peaceful annexation of Cuba to the United States. Affirmative, E. B. Crowley, '04, F. O. Stevens, '06; negative, F. R. Reed, Jr., '06. February 16, Resolved, That Japan is justified in going to war with Russia. Affirmative, E. D. Dinsmore, '05, E. A. Stanford, '06; negative, A. J. Butterworth, '06, R. S. Sherman, '06. February 23, Resolved, That the laws regulating the trusts and corporations of the United States should be under the control of Congress. Affirmative. F. T. Crowe, '05, P. E. French, '04; negative, C. E. Davis, '07, D. Crowell, '06.

The baseball schedule which appears in this issue of the CAMPUS, is undoubtedly the best ever prepared for a Maine team. One who has not followed college baseball closely can hardly realize what such a schedule means to the University. On the Massachusetts trip we play five of the leading colleges of the country. Harvard needs no introduction. Holy Cross and Brown were last year in the same class with Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. Amherst has always had one of the strongest teams among the smaller colleges, and Tufts by her work last year assumed a position well towards the front. Dartmouth whom we meet this year for the first time, has a reputation which calls for little comment. Such teams as these can be induced to arrange games with none but worthy rivals, and the fact that they consider us as such is one of which every Maine man should be proud.

The Deutscher Verein held its regular meeting at the Mount Vernon house, Wednesday evening, February 24. The club was addressed by Prof. J. H. Huddilston, his subject being German Art. Directly before the meeting of the club the second rehearsal for the presentation of the new play, "Meister Schaft," was held. The play is progressing finely and promises to be a decided success. Meister Schaft, written by Mark Twain, is a short three-act play in which the difficulties of learning German and the course of true love are humorously mixed. The play is to be presented in the early spring before an invited audience of friends and members of the Deutscher Verein. The play will be presented by the following: Misses Florence E. Buck, '04; Lennie P. Copeland, '04; Marion B. Wentworth, '05; and Mabel F. Powell, '05; Messrs. H. M. Schute, C. S. Chaplin, '04, and R. E. Lord, '06. The play will be directed by Miss Florence Balentine.

Colby, in behalf of the faculty and students of that institution, is strong evidence of the good feeling which exists between the two colleges:

PRES. FELLOWS, PH. D.,
Orono, Me.

MY DEAR PRES. FELLOWS:—The men of Colby College have learned with deep regret of the loss which the students of the University of Maine have sustained in the fire which destroyed their dormitory. May I ask you to kindly inform me the approximate loss which has come to the young gentlemen?

We are deeply grateful that all escaped without personal harm and we trust that out of this serious interruption and affliction great good may result to your University. The ideal relations which exist between University of Maine and Colby only intensifies our personal interest at this time.

I am writing these lines in behalf of the Colby student, and will you please extend to the men of the University of Maine our profound sympathy and best wishes.

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) C. L. WHITE.

All of the students who were forced to find new quarters by the burning of University Hall have now become permanently settled once more.

The majority have taken rooms at Oak Hall Annex which was re-opened by the faculty directly after the fire. A number were fortunate in obtaining rooms at Oak Hall, and the remainder found places among the town's people of Orono. Reports regarding the heavy losses by the students were incorrect as nearly everything of any value was taken out before the fire reached the students' rooms. E. D. Brawn, '06, was the heaviest loser, having had a set of machinist's tools valued at about seventy-five dollars, destroyed by the fire. A list of the unfortunate students together with their present location is given as follows: H. S. Hoxie, '06, Oak Hall; R. F. Olds, '06, Oak Hall; A. W. Richardson, '06, Mayo block; J. P. Simmons, '06, Dr. Bayard, R. S. Bacon, '06, Oak Hall Annex; E. J. Sawyer, '06, Kappa Sigma house; E. D. Brown, '06, Oak Hall Annex; F. J. Simmons, '07, Oak Hall Annex; F. E. Maddocks, '07, Oak Hall Annex; F. J. Simmons, '07, Oak Hall Annex; A. J. Pennell, '07, Mrs. Hayes; P. A. Bean, '07, Oak Hall Annex; W. H. Russell, '07, Oak Hall;

AMONG THE COLLEGES

"How Far Ahead is Tech," is the title of an article that is worth reading in the Tech for February 18, 1904.

Our baseball schedule shows that we have added the names of Dartmouth, Brown and Holy Cross to our list.

The attitude taken by Brown regarding the permitting of her summer ball players to take part in athletic contests has caused a diversity of opinion in the college itself, besides making it a topic of general discussion among other colleges.

This year's registration at Mass. Institute of Technology shows a falling off of 80 students. It is thought that the cause of this is due to the rise in the tuition from $200 to $250.

WHAT HAPGOODS HAS DONE

During the year 1903, Hapgoods has placed in high grade positions over 500 young College, University and Technical School graduates. Our campaign for 1904 is now in progress.
