SOMERSET COUNTY CLUB BANQUET

The Somerset County club of the University held its first annual banquet at Hotel Oxford, Skowhegan, Friday evening April 21. The affair was a decided success and those present agreed that it was the most successful banquet of its nature that they ever attended. What lent additional interest to the occasion was the presence of a large number of prominent alumni. The menu furnished was of the choicest, while the toast list proved an hour of merriment, sentiment, and eloquence.

The menu enjoyed was as follows:

NEW ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

An important feature of the program at the banquet of the Somerset County club, was the organization of a new alumni association to be known as the Kennebec Valley Alumni association. The association has been formed in the center of a section where a large number of very prominent alumni of the institution are located and its growth is bound to be rapid and powerful.

The officers of the new association are the following: DeForest H. Perkins, principal of Skowhegan High school, president; Edwin A. Parker, first assistant of Skowhegan High school, secretary; Harold Cook, Esq., of Waterville, treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of D. H. Perkins, Skowhegan; D. W. Colby, Skowhegan; Harold Cook, Waterville; J. W. Steward, Skowhegan; John Burleigh, Waterville.

PITTSBURG ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

President Fellows recently returned from Pittsburg where he attended a banquet given by the alumni of the University in that city. At the conclusion of the banquet a new alumni association was formed in that city. This is the third new association to be formed this year which clearly shows the interest that the alumni are taking in the welfare of the University of Maine. As Pittsburg is a centre in which there are a large number of alumni at the present time an association there can do a great deal in keeping alive the interest in the institution as well as making it possible for the old graduates to get together and talk over old times.

The officers of the new association are A. G. Mitchell, '75, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad (Monongahela Division), president; Henry E. Cole, secretary and treasurer.

At the banquet held at the Hotel Henry, seventeen of the graduates were present of whom a partial list is given below:

A. E. Mitchell, '75, Superintendent of Motive Power, Northern Pacific Railroad Company; A. G. Mitchell, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad (Monongahela Division); O. L. Grover, '97; G. F. Murphy, '00; J. H. Bixby, '01; L. G. Varney, '01; F. E. Watts, '01; H. E. Cole, '02; R. H. Pearson, '04; E. M. Breed, '04.

THE MUSICAL CLUBS

The long successful season of the musical clubs will be brought to a close with the usual home concert Saturday evening, May 20. To making it a fitting close to what has been a record season, the clubs are making unusual preparations. Several special features are to be added to the usual program and new music will be played in almost every number. A stringed orchestra will be on the program for one or two numbers, and its appearance will be a new departure for the clubs. The concert comes on the night of the interscholastic invitation meet and it is probable that a large number of preparatory school men will have an opportunity to hear the clubs in their final concert. The musical program will be followed by dancing, the music being by Pullen's orchestra.

The closing concert will make the nineteenth appearance of the clubs for the season and at its close the "mMc" will be awarded to those who have earned the privilege of wearing it. The constitution adopted by the clubs a year ago requires that the candidate participate in fifteen concerts before he is entitled to the "mMc." A number of those that will be awarded will be given in cases where the candidate had a number of concerts to his credit from last year. In all, thirty men will be entitled to the club emblem. Of this number several have completed the number of concerts both years, while others have barely succeeded in getting in the required number in two years.

The following is the list that will probably receive the "mMc":

R. H. Alton, F. O. Alton, W. H. Burke, A. B. Plummer, R. M. Foster, C. Boyle, G. P. Goodwin, C. W. Reynolds, W. B. Alexander, F. F. Smith, A. J. Pennell, F. H. Harlow, E. B. Davidson, R. R. Drummond, B. T. Harvey, G. H. Hill, T. F. Bye, F. W. Twombly, E. J. Wilson, F. D. Southard, R. W. Haskell, L. D. Barrows, E. R. Richards, A. W. Sprague, M. Newman, J. K. Goodrich, H. D. Ross, E. O. Sweetser, E. D. Blaisdell, S. M. Bird.

THAT FRESHMAN BANQUET.

For the sake of recording an event which should not go unrecorded, as well as for the benefit of those who did not possess the necessary one dollar and seventy-five cents, or were unable to attend for other reasons, a brief account of the freshman banquet with conditions which led up to and followed it, is given below.

It was the afternoon and evening of April 13 around which the leading features of the melodrama were clustered, although the afternoon was well toward its close before the affair had any great amount of interest for the sophomores. Here the freshmen certainly scored the first point, while the sophomores were slowly waking up to the fact that something must be doing.

The conspicuous absence of freshmen at the track and baseball practice did not startle the slumbering avengers in the least, and it was not until the military battalion formed its rank with some five or six freshmen in the fighting line, that the real moment of the occasion dawned upon them. But it can be said to their credit that not much time was lost in the organization of the pursuit that followed the shock. Bangor at once became the destination of everyone, and the traffic on the local lines soon became sorely congested. But about the time that the sophomores were scrambling for electric and steam cars in fearful haste, the freshmen were quietly pulling out of Bangor in the coaches of the last train for Ellsworth.

The departure had been effected in great style. Not a member of the class, except the leaders, had known of the destination of the party until they were safely on their way. The farewells on the Campus had been affected as noiselessly and quietly as the melting of a snow bank in a warm rain. No one had shown any disposition to ask questions or in any way interfere with the departure of the prodigal children.

The sophomores showed no lack of spirit or resource once the pursuit was under way. The freshmen were located and a special train chartered in an incredibly short time, although it was eight o'clock before the railroad company had completed arrangements, and the party of some two hundred sophomores and upper-classmen pulled out of the Bangor station after the offenders.

By this time the freshmen had learned of the excitement that they were causing, and the banquet which was well under way at the American House in Ellsworth, lost a good deal of its interest for some of the timid ones. In fact the entire party found that the habit of bolting food was growing on them, and the remainder of the banquet menu disappeared amazingly quick. The speeches that were scheduled to follow seemed a trifle hurried and very little time was wasted in applause. The revelers were informed about this time that the special had arrived, and the American House was emptied in a very short space of time. Some of the more lucky ones escaped, but the greater part of them were scheduled to furnish amusement for the sophomores for the remainder of the evening.

The usual stunts were called into play and things were lively until the special train once more whistled for the return trip. Then the freshmen were left to themselves, and accounts differ about the remainder of the night. Some asserted that they were taken in by the generous natives and given the very best of hospitality, while others did not seem to fare so well. The good time which followed, the next day, put them all in good spirits. Buckboards were chartered, and the party was driven around the town, visiting all the places of interest, including the home of Senator Hale. During the drive the party met the senator himself, and all had a chance to shake hands and exchange a few words with the famous statesman. It was a happy and well satisfied bunch of freshmen that returned to college on the afternoon train, after a banquet that they considered to be a thorough success in every way, although they evidently forgot the generous entertainment which they furnished during the evening's exercises.

NEW CAMPUS BOARD

The annual elections to the Campus board were held Friday, April 14, and the following Monday the new board met and elected A. Butterworth, 1906, as managing editor for the ensuing year. The board elected P. H. Glover, 1906, and E. W. Cram, 1908, as associate editors, while A. G. Bennett, 1906, was chosen as business manager, and R. S. Coffin, 1907, as assistant business manager.

NEW ELIGIBILITY RULES AT BOWDOIN

New rules governing the eligibility of students in athletics, etc., have been issued, in brief as follows:

No student shall be eligible to membership in any of the various athletic teams of the college, in glee club or dramatic work or be a delegate from any of the fractional societies (1) during probation following a major warning (2) when admitted on probation (3) after failure to make up a condition at an appointed time.

EDITORIALS

It is with all the misgivings and apprehensions which have affected previous new boards, and with an added feeling of incompetency, that the present new staff places its first production before you.

The New Editors.

We fully realize the task that is before us, if we are to keep the paper up to the standard set by the recent editor and his associates, and we can only ask that you spare your more harsh criticisms if we fall below what is expected of us.

There has been in the past years a half interested attempt at inter-fraternity baseball and football although but one, or possibly two games are the most that have resulted from it. The idea was good as far as it went, but there is no reason why we shouldn't have more of it. Some good, lively fraternity baseball this spring, with a series of games possibly for a college championship. The advantages are evident to all of us. We have been warned against that tendency among fraternity men to associate only with their own crowd, and it is true that there is no better way to broaden acquaintances, and make new friends, than in a friendly contest.

Again, the man who plays baseball is ten times as much interested in the game as the man who hardly knows the rules. He can for the same reasons appreciate good plays and will support his team in the way that it should be done.

The attention of the student members of the University council has recently been called to a matter which they in turn wish to present to the students. It is a matter that has been regarded as trivial and in something of the nature of a joke until the actual facts were made known a few days ago.

The trouble dates back into last year, at the time when the guns from the military department mysteriously disappeared and a few days later, as quietly returned to their places in the racks. While most of them found their old accustomed places, seventeen of the more adventuresome ones failed to put in an appearance. Their continued absence, together with the disappearance of about seventy-five belts, is the cause of the present anxiety. While the whole thing has appealed to most of us as a joke, it has never been doubted but that when the actual conditions were understood the missing guns would at once take up the line of march for their former homes in the gun-racks.

The actual value of the guns used in the military department would never be placed at more than three dollars apiece, and of course the loss of a few of them would not be considered at all serious; but the guns are only loaned to the military department of the college, and as a security against loss and to insure proper usage the United States fixes the price at fifteen dollars for every gun lost or broken. This brings the price of the missing guns alone up to two hundred and fifty-five dollars. This is too big a price to pay for a few old worthless muskets for some of the students to have to fool with, as they will admit themselves when they have learned the facts of the case. The guns are really worth but very little to the students, except as souvenirs, and it would be much cheaper and more satisfactory all round if something else were selected for that purpose.

When the matter is once understood we feel sure that the missing guns and belts will realize their sphere of great usefulness in the military department and report for duty. Any of the student members of the council will gladly act as a reception committee to the wayward guns, receiving them with open arms with no questions asked.

A combination of Easter vacation, new board of editors, scarcity of news, and Fast Day exercises have somewhat reduced the size of the present issue of THE CAMPUS. It is purposed, however, to run at least sixteen pages of bright, interesting matter in the remaining issues of the year. Next fall it is the earnest intention of the board to bring about the long-talked-of change, and issue THE CAMPUS weekly. It is the next logical step in the development of the paper and is the only practical scheme that will increase the present interest in the paper.

In order to fill its mission as a newspaper, THE CAMPUS will have to bring its reading matter out fresh and up-to-date. With the present newspaper handling of the college news this is practically impossible, so that every effort will be made to effect the change.

The usual plea for more candidates for the writing and business staff still holds. The paper has got to have a corp of interested workers, who will not only publish the paper in an attractive, up-to-date manner, but who will furnish a reserve from which new men can be drawn as vacancies occur on the board. There ought to be more competition for the positions of editor-in-chief and business manager. Both of these places are worth working for, not for the honor alone, or the college spirit, although both should be strong incentives; but the positions both offer experience that is valuable to a student in any course in college. It is experience that one never appreciates until he is thrown up against actual propositions of the same nature in after life. The positions yield a financial compensation that, to the student who is putting himself through college, should be worth working hard for.

Colby has secured a track coach this spring. J. J. Smith has taken charge of the work and a decided improvement is expected to be seen in Colby's showing at the Maine track meet May 13. In the inter-class meet held April 27, the sophomores won the meet. John Coombs broke two of the college records, putting the shot out 36 feet 3 1-2 inches, and the hammer 108 feet, 6 inches.

Speakers on the subject are as follows: Aff. R. S. Sherman, '06, S. B. Locke, '08; Neg. H. M. Ellis, '08, R. L. Mitchell, '08.

A number of the faculty who are on the committee for preparatory schools, spent the Easter vacation visiting schools. Prof. O. F. Lewis was in Washington county visiting among others, the schools at Eastport, Cherryfield and Machias. Dean Hart visited the schools at Dover, Foxcroft, Monson, Thompson and East Corinth.

The first annual conference of the combined student and local Young Men's Christian Association, will be held with the Bath association, May 5 to 7. It is expected that the student delegation will be the largest part, and the four Maine colleges will send delegates, as will also the preparatory school associations. A large part of the conference will be given over to the student work, and Mr. Gilkey who visited our association several times during the past year, will have charge of that department. Maine will send several men, probably six or eight, to represent this association.

According to some attendance statistics collected by Professor R. K. Jones, librarian at the University, it is shown that during the twenty-five years of life of the Maine State College, bachelor degrees were given to 441 men. And during the eight years of the existence of the University of Maine, 461 bachelor degrees have been conferred upon graduates.

The following clipping was taken from the Belfast News, one of the Belfast dailies:

B. T. Harvey, '05, University of Maine, is doing good work on Belfast's shade trees, under the auspices of the Improvement Society. He is working along High street and has already removed several large limbs, which were offensive to an artistic eye, making a decided improvement in the looks of the street as far as he has been.

Lovett; June 4, Looking Ahead, H. L. Churchill.

ALUMNI

News of the announcement of the engagement of James Elmore Harvey, 1894, to Miss Mabel Annette Stone of East Winthrop has been received at the college office.

The announcement of Harris Perley Gould, 1893, to Miss Alive Hughes of Peabody, Mass., has recently been received. Mr. Gould is at present located with the department of agriculture at Washington.

Ernest J. Howe, 1901, has recently resigned a position with the New York, Westchester & Boston railroad, to accept an offer from the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, with headquarters in New York.

Ralph P. Plaisted received word Monday from his brother, Harold M. Plaisted of St. Louis, that a son had been born to him on Saturday. The boy has been named Harris Hudson. Harold Plaisted left Bangor 20 years ago but will be well remembered by many friends in this city. He was graduated from the Maine State college, now the University of Maine, in 1881, studied engineering in the Stevens institute, Hoboken, and was graduated there in 1883 with the degree of M. E. and then went to Milwaukee, where he entered the service of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. In 1888-90 he studied patent law in Dayton, Ohio, and then went to St. Louis, where he studied law in Washington University, graduating in 1867. In 1904 he married Miss Marjorie Hudson of St. Louis, and has since that time practiced patent law in that city with much success.

The following is quoted from a report in the Bangor News, of the meeting of the professional and business men of Bangor, held in the Board of Trade rooms Monday evening, April 24.

The address of Vernon K. Gould was purely technical in character, and cannot be reproduced with justice to the speaker in a brief newspaper extract, but was thoroughly entertaining and instructive, and was followed throughout with the closest interest. Step by step he traced the powerful mechanism by which the illuminating gas supplied by his company—and which all Bangor burns—is generated, and illustrated many of his points by various maps and screens. Mr. Gould is an admirable talker—simple, forceful and direct.

Mr. Gould who is at present Superintendent of the Bangor Gas Light Company, was a graduate of the University of Maine, in the class of 1897.

FAST DAY EXERCISES.

Fast Day was duly observed by the students, and an elaborate program carried out during the day. It was not a program in exact accordance with the previous plans of the faculty, yet it proved to be one full of interest, well attended, and hugely enjoyed.

Early morning exercises were held beneath the shade of the spruces, on the slope in front of Wingate, after which the morning parade was formed.

A delegation, composed of practically the entire student body, headed by the band, marched to the city square in Orono, where the more elaborate forenoon exercises were carried out.

The speakers for the morning were such members of the faculty and other prominent men as were available. Special music was furnished by the band, and college songs by the students added interest to the occasion. Among the speakers were the following:

From the faculty, Prof. J. S. Stevens, Prof. A. B. Aubert, Prof. J. H. Huddilston, H. A. Sawyer and S. Farrell.

From the alumni and trustees, Hon. George E. Thompson and Hon. Albert J. Durgin.

From the student council, George K. Huntington and A. J. Butterworth.

The program for the afternoon, included a parade at Bangor, with a full attendance at the matinee at the Bangor Opera House.

LAW SCHOOL, 5; HAMPDEN, 4.

The University School of Law baseball team defeated Hampden baseball team by a score of 5 to 4, Thursday afternoon, April 20. The lineup was as follows:

Keegan, c; Moody, 3b; O'Halloran, cf; Gardiner, p; Lilley, 1f; Connors, 2b; Captain DeWolf, ss.

Files, the freshmen pitcher at Bowdoin, struck out ten men in the opening game with Boston College, and allowed 4 men to take first base.

ATHLETICS

THE BASEBALL TRIP

After opening the season with a clean, decisive victory over Exeter, the Maine team went up in the air at Hanover and failed to get down in time to win either of the games with University of Vermont at Burlington.

The Exeter game seemed to indicate that we have a team which, at its best ought to keep Dartmouth guessing, and find an easy thing in Vermont, but the ups and downs of the national game are hard to follow and although the experts (?) will persist in reckoning by them, comparative scores furnish a poor key to the situation.

MAINE 1, EXETER 0

The Maine-Exeter game was exciting from start to finish, both teams putting up a snappy, errorless game in the field.

The day was cold and raw and consequently both pitchers were rather erratic. Mitchell being a trifle the wilder of the two, but redeeming himself by shutting Exeter out when she had the bases full with only one out. The summary:

DARTMOUTH 14, MAINE 1

The Dartmouth team had their batting clothes on and easily defeated Maine in a game full of costly errors for the Blue. Skillen, a freshman left-hander, was in the box for Dartmouth, and allowed but one of the Maine batters to reach third during the game. Jack Frost began for Maine, but was hit hard in the fourth and Mitchell went in with little better success. Maine got her only run in the sixth on a fumble, a steal, and a hit by Collins.

A feature of the game was a hot drive by Mitchell, which Reeves captured by a sensational one-hand catch. The score:

VERMONT 9, MAINE 6

Vermont won from Maine in the fourth inning, scoring five runs. With two out the third man was an easy out at first, but the umpire called it safe, and after three errors had filled the bases, Campbell lifted one over the right field fence for a home run. The Maine team batted well but lost through their loose fielding. The score:

VERMONT, 2; MAINE, 1.

The second game with Vermont was clean and interesting, developing after the third inning, into a pitchers' battle between Frost and Campbell, with Jack a little the stronger. Campbell, however, won his own game by another of his long hits over right field in the tenth.

Collins scored for Maine in the first and Mitchell came home on a short bunt by Lunt, but the umpire called him out, although the Vermont catcher did not come within a foot of touching him. Both teams played a good game in the field, but the Maine team was not up to her usual batting form.

The news was received as the CAMPUS went to press that Maine defeated Middlebury College at Middlebury, Vermont, Thursday afternoon. The game was an exciting one and some sensational plays were made by both teams. Lunt pitched the first two innings for Maine, but was batted heavily and replaced by Mitchell, who pitched the remainder of the game.

A meeting of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic association was held in the office of President Chas. L. White of Colby, Wednesday, April 19, and considerable routine business transacted relative to the Inter-collegiate track meet, to be held at Orono, Saturday, May 13. A new cup was purchased which will be offered this year. Those present were:

President B. A. Gotch of Colby, D. B. Andrews of Bowdoin, L. G. Paine of Bates, and E. A. Stanford of the U. of M.

Boston University has suddenly and unexpectedly cancelled her baseball game. This leaves a hole in the schedule of the Massachusetts trip which it will be hard, if not impossible, to fill. The following day comes the last game of the trip with Phillips Andover, at Andover.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE FOR 1905.

At a meeting of the faculty held Monday evening the schedule of games arranged by Manager Stevens was approved without alteration. The schedule is practically the same as that played last year, although the games will be played in somewhat different order. The Bates and Colby games will be played at Orono this year, while the Bowdoin and Tufts games come on the trips. Harvard will be the first hard team, while Brown will be played the following Saturday.

To win these games will take a better team than was turned out last year, and it's up to Maine to do it. If a good coach, a reliable, competent captain, and a hustling, energetic manager have anything to do with the results, we have the right material to start building that team on. The schedule is as follows:

Sept. 30. Kents Hill at Orono.
Oct. 7. Harvard at Cambridge.
Oct. 14. Brown at Providence.
Oct. 21. Colby at Orono or Bangor.
Oct. 28. New Hampshire College at Orono.
Nov. 4. Bates at Orono or Bangor.
Nov. 11. Tufts at College Hill.
Nov. 18. Bowdoin at Brunswick.

FORWARD PASSES TO BE LEGALIZED.

One or two radical changes will be made in the football rules before the colleges line up against each other for the start of the campaign of 1905. The Football Rules committee, composed of John C. Bell, Pennsylvania; R. D. Wrenn, Harvard; Walter Camp, Yale; Prof. J. B. Fine, Princeton; Prof. L. M. Dennis, Cornell; Prof. Paul Dashiell, Annapolis, and A. A. Stagg, Chicago, held a long and spirited meeting in New York city last week, all members of the committee being present except Prof. Stagg, who could not possibly be present. Stagg's opinions regarding changes in the rules were made known to the committee through an exhaustive communication.

"A more open game" was the special and almost only subject discussed by the committee. This theme engrossed the attention of these experts from early evening until late at night. Every representative present expressed the opinion that an open game was extremely desirable, although the majority present considered the rules as now in force sufficient for the demands of the public if properly interpreted by the coaches in this direction. The open, sensational, brilliant, winning, highly interesting and enjoyable style of game as played by Pennsylvania last year was cited as argument and proof that the present rules permit of an open and free game if the coaches would only teach the game and mould their style to this end. Messrs. Bell, Fine, Camp and Dennis were of the opinion that the present code would suffice if properly interpreted. Opposed to them were Messrs. Wrenn and Dashiell, who strenuously objected to last year's rules standing for another season.
