THE CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

MAINE 18, Bowdoin 0. It was a fitting close to the long season of hard, faithful practice, conscientious training, and clean, hard football. The victors are champions and they deserve it without qualification or grudge. Both teams in that final test were trained to the hour and the superiority of the winners was proved without question. The team that had been rated as raw, green and slow showed the men who had been wrapped up in admiration of Bowdoin's brilliant work, things that they will long remember.

It is true Maine was heavy and in better condition to play her crucial game than was Bowdoin. But is not that as much a part of the victory as the resulting score? Maine is fortunate in having among her resources heavy men who can play football, and more than one for each position. It was all a part of the magnificent triumph of Coach McCoy who had every position on the team well backed up, not with one substitute but with two or three men, any one of whom was as good a man as the man wearing the suit. Maine's resources were not to be exhausted by any unexpected accidents or misfortunes. Another full team waited on the sidelines of Whittier field ready to take up the fight when the men on the field weakened. It was a great and glorious game for Maine and a fierce, plucky, but disappointing game for Bowdoin. From the Lewiston Journal we clip the following, which, we believe, represents the situation fairly :

The game was won on its merits. Maine was superior, in the steady consistency with which she played the game, and she made her greater weight count to splendid advantage during the greater part of the game. To her belongs the credit of a victory well won over a resolute and determined foe.

In justice to Bowdoin it may be said that she was much handicapped by the loss of the star halfback, Hafford, who so far this season had equaled Chapman in both offensive and defensive work and whose assistance when Bowdoin had the ball would have so splendidly supplemented the remarkable work of Capt. Chapman. Hafford was called home by the death of his father. Stacey out at tackle was also a big loss, especially as he was depended on to carry the ball to a great extent. But with these out, Bowdoin was like a ship with one sail on the offensive; and after a little while the Maine men knew too well what that sail was.

But these things are the fortunes of football. Maine won. She won and she won fairly, by splendid football and magnificent team work. She had exactly what has been said of her—a well-balanced, strong and well-coached team. And what was more, she played with the steadiness that counts. Bowdoin played remarkable offensive and defensive work part of the time and at others she was weak. And it was these weak spells that gave Maine her touchdowns.

The game was good to see. It was not one-sided. The score might indicate that, but it was not. Maine got her first touchdown with the greatest ease, after five minutes of play. But after that, through the long first half and 15 minutes of the second half, Bowdoin surely equalled the work of Maine in all departments, and the game through this time was the struggle that the prophets had forecast.

In the second half Bowdoin equalled Maine for the first part, but as time wore on Maine showed stronger and stronger, while Bowdoin slowly but surely weakened. And this with Maine's getting after the fumbles, and then straight line hammering, netted the two other touchdowns. The spectator could see that the thing was settled when Maine got her second touchdown. Before that it had been an open question. Bowdoin supporters hoped and almost expected to see Chapman or one of the other backs get loose on some of those sensational end plays and get a touchdown, and then a tie or possibly a victory.

THE SPECIAL TRAIN.

The long train which drew out of Orono in the early morning carried the largest number of students that ever attended a game away from home. It was an interesting crowd of college men and women and a happy, triumphant, tired band of Maine supporters that climbed down from the long special late Saturday night. Of that Maine crowd between the going and coming we quote the following

"Maine raised her colors in victory, but to the everlasting credit of the young men who represent the institution it may be said that she did it in such a manner as to call forth the warmest praise for the consideration of the feelings of Bowdoin in defeat.

The Maine contingent left Whittier field as though they were the defeated instead of the victors. They made no attempt to cross the Bowdoin campus. The band didn't strike a single note until it got below the "Congo" church, almost to the railroad tracks. Then they let out, the students swung in behind, and singing their regular college war song they marched to the train.

They were courteous in the extreme, and reflected more credit on their university than would have 50 victories on the football field.

THE FOOTBALL BANQUET.

On arriving in Bangor Saturday night, the team was escorted by the students and band to the Penobscot Exchange, where the team was given an informal banquet by the Athletic Association. Those present were the team, substitutes, Coach McCoy, Steve Farrell, C. L. Bailey, captain 1904 team, and Judge Clarke, '76, Bar Harbor.

Manager Stevens was toastmaster for the evening and many enthusiastic and hearty toasts were responded to. The toasts were as follows: Judge Clarke, for the alumni; C. L. Bailey, Capt. Bennett, Higgins and Moore for football, Steve Farrell and Coach McCoy.

Before introducing Coach McCoy, Toastmaster Stevens presented a handsome silver service set to the coach, as a present from the students in appreciation of his work and to show in a measure their respect and esteem. McCoy was taken entirely by surprise and could hardly express his thanks. The speech that followed was enthusiastically applauded and in all the occasion was a most successful one.

THE CELEBRATION.

Maine celebrated her victory over Bowdoin and the winning of the championship Monday night. It was in the nature of a huge bonfire, speeches, college songs, cheering, marching, and the band. Not a wild celebration of the kind where self-respect and discretion are thrown to the winds, but a good, vigorous overflow of enthusiasm and elatement over the outcome of the season's work.

A huge bonfire in the open before Oak Hall made the center piece, and in the ruddy glow, five hundred students listened to the enthusiastic speeches that were delivered from the hall steps, or joined in the college songs with the band, cheering long, loud and lusty for everyone and everything that could possibly excite a cheer. Of the speakers, Coach McCoy was given the ovation and he warmly responded. It was late when the party broke up, but the celebration had been complete.

THE BOWDOIN MASS MEETING.

The last speaker on the program was Charles T. Hawes of Bangor, one of Bowdoin's most loyal sons and a member of the athletic council. Mr. Hawes is very popular with the student body because of the interest he takes in athletics and he was given a very hearty greeting as he was called upon to speak. His remarks made the hit of the evening and were in part as follows:

"Now Maine is very confident. It has nothing to base its confidence on except a lot of heavy men. Maine is nothing but a gigantic beef trust anyway. The Maine students have put the whole Maine team on the All-Maine team to cap the climax. They even think that they have several candidates for the All-America eleven and that Walter Camp is following up the work of their men like a Diogenes. So if you see a man that looks like Walter Camp on Whittier field Saturday, you will know that he is looking up candidates among the Maine men for his All America eleven.

"There is a Bangor newspaperman," continued Mr. Hawes, "that thinks he is quite an authority on football. He even thinks he can make up All-Maine teams, but the way he does it is to look over the work of the different men in the papers, and then he puts all the big men on his Maine eleven."

Here Mr. Hawes quoted from a Maine Campus editorial in which the editor of that publication was much wrought up over the fact that Bowdoin had engaged Dr. Sullivan of Lewiston to coach the team for a few days. "That is downright silliness," said Mr. Hawes. "After this we will have to get the consent of Maine to hire a coach anyway and then after that we shall have to ask the Bangor News if that is satisfactory to it.

"Now Bowdoin must win that game Saturday as a tribute to one of the best football men that will have ever graduated from Bowdoin—Capt. Chapman. We want to win it to round out his career and besides we want to get the freshmen used to football victories.

THE MAINE MASS MEETING.

The last speaker on the program was H. A. Emery, a senior at the University. His speech was direct, forceful and full of enthusiasm and spirit. He voiced the feelings of the whole student body and hit the key note of the evening. He said in part:

"Fellows, we must win that game to-morrow, if clean, straight football by eleven staunch supporters of our beloved University can win. We'll stand behind them to the last man and cheer them on to victory.

But in victory or defeat, fellows, let us remember that we are Maine men, and gentlemen. When we have won that game let us respect Bowdoin's campus and everything that is Bowdoin's. We would not let any college march across our campus, and Bowdoin has a perfect right to expect the same treatment from us.

To the men on the team: We expect you to fight to the last ditch, but remember, that winning or losing, we expect you to play clean football."

GENEROUS AND GRACEFUL IN DEFEAT.

Brunswick, Me., Nov. 20. — It was Maine's beef and strength that won the game for the Orono college rather than her good playing. In generalship, skill and science, the two teams were very evenly matched, with a slight advantage in favor of Bowdoin. But in weight, strength and luck Maine had all the advantage Saturday.

EDITORIALS

At a recent meeting of the board of editors, the resignation of A. J. Butterworth as managing editor was accepted. As his successor, the board was unanimous in the choice of Walter L. Sturtevant.

New Managing Editor.

Now that the football season is over and the compliments are being passed out, the writer wishes to add a word of commendation for the efficient manner in which our team has been managed this season.

Recognition.

aged this season. Maine never had a football manager who did his work more conscientiously, or more thoroughly, than has Manager Stevens. It is a difficult position to fill and one entailing an amount of work little realized by the average student. We owe to our recent manager a hearty vote of thanks for his efficient work during a long, successful season.

The student body has every reason to feel elated over the news that we are to have Coach McCoy again next year. What he has accomplished this year seems almost incredible. For many years Maine had not had so gloomy a prospect at the opening of the season. The team, which had been a tail-ender last year, was badly broken up and demoralized. It seemed almost hopeless to expect anything for two or three years, until a new system had been established and some new material developed. Yet McCoy went quietly to work, trying out the various candidates, giving every one an equal show, and yet working with a definite purpose and system. The result we well know, and we repeat, Maine is fortunate in having Coach McCoy again next year.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The concert scheduled for Brewer last Friday evening, was postponed until Tuesday, Nov. 28, owing to several difficulties which came up for the first date.

Manager Goodrich is planning for several concerts. An early concert will be given in Oldtown, probably during December.

Mr. Cochran is conducting several rehearsals with the Glee club, in preparation for their special parts in the Crusades.

The College Orchestra is rapidly getting in shape for the first assembly, as they are to furnish music for that occasion.

THE WEARERS OF THE "M."

At present there are thirty-six men in college who can wear the "M." Of course the only freshmen that have earned it so far are those on the football team.

The technical students seem to lead, having seven-ninths of the number. There are nine electricals, seven mechanicals, seven civils, three chemicals, three agies, three foresters, two scientifics, one classical and one from the law school.

The following have earned two "M's": W. D. Bearce, A. G. Bennett and A. P. Weymouth in football and track; R. A. Quint and Daniel Chase in football and baseball; W. J. St. Onge in basketball and track and W. R. Sawyer in baseball and track. There are fourteen seniors, ten juniors, seven sophomores, four freshmen and one law student.

The seniors are: F. A. Banks, W. D. Bearce, H. W. Bearce, A. G. Bennett, C. E. Currier, W. H. Burke, C. F. Forbes, W. O. Frost, F. H. Harlow, G. S. Owen, R. H. Porter, F. R. Reed, D. N. Rogers and A. P. Weymouth. The juniors are: J. H. Burleigh, C. E. S. Burns, F. P. Hosmer, E. Lisherness, R. A. Quint, W. J. St. Onge, W. E. Stone, P. S. Swift, R. F. Talbot and A. P. Wyman. The sophomores are: Daniel Chase, H. L. Gordon, C. P. Meserve, H. L. Miner, R. H. Moody, W. R. Sawyer and H. B. Smith. The four freshmen are: Elliot, Farwell, Higgins and Ray; and the Law School student is C. D. C. Moore.

THE BASEBALL COACH.

E. G. Butman of Somerville, Mass., has been engaged as the baseball coach for the seasons of 1905 and 1906. Mr. Butman comes very highly recommended and has had many years' experience in baseball. He played first base on the Thomaston team during a part of the season of 1896, and then went over to the New England League and finished the season there. He has also played through the western and southern states. For the past two years he has been captain and manager of the Newburg team of the Hudson River League in New York state.

Mr. Butman will come to Orono, Feb. 12, when work will begin in the cage.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BASEBALL LEAGUE.

At a recent meeting of the committee on the organization of an Interscholastic Baseball League, the state was blocked out into sections, and the various preparatory schools enclosed were considered. In round numbers 150 schools will be asked to compete, but it is thought that the final number will be reduced to about fifty, and possibly lower, when the schedule is ready for completion. A circular letter is being drawn up and all of the schools will receive a copy early, in order to give each school ample time to properly consider the advisability of becoming one of the league.

PITTSBURGH ALUMNI SMOKER

A "Smoker" was held by the Pittsburg Alumni Association, Saturday evening, Nov. 18. Of it the secretary, H. E. Cole writes as follows:

"In accordance with arrangements we met and had a very pleasant evening. Following is a list of those present. Mr. A. G. Mitchell, F. J. Kimball, G. W. Hutchinson, W. T. Brastow, J. Wilson Brown, W. J. Burgess, G. W. Murphy, W. A. Weston, C. D. Harvey, J. H. Bixby, A. R. Davis, H. E. Cole, N. A. Chase, C. H. Leighton, E. N. Hunting, A. C. Jordan, L. A. Lawrence, C. W. Weeks, C. J. Moody, H. W. Bachelder, W. S. Maddocks.

Much enthusiasm was aroused by the receipt of a telegram announcing the winning of the Bowdoin game, 18 to 0, which meant the championship.

The Association will endeavor to hold at least three meetings each year. The Association now has thirty-four members and expects to enroll several more in the near future.

LOCALS

The regular meeting of the Deutscher Verein has been postponed until Wednesday evening, Dec. 6.

Prof. J. S. Stevens delivered a lecture on The Aims and Ideals of American Education at Camden, Nov. 24.

A committee appointed to have charge of the arrangements for the Sophomore declamations, has been appointed by the class as follows: F. F. Smith, H. D. Yates, P. J. Robinson, C. A. Brownell, A. S. Hanscom.

Miss Frances Drinkwater of Bangor, was special chapel soloist last week, and the able manner in which she sang won praise from every student. Her voice is particularly suited to the chapel, and it is hoped that she may sing again during the year.

A chemical club has been recently organized with purposes similar to those of the other technical clubs. The officers are the following: president, W. L. Sturtevant; vice president, F. P. Hosmer; secretary, R. E. Clayton; treasurer, W. B. Alexander.

During the presentation of the "Creation" in Bangor, the football team will attend a performance as guests of Mr. Cochran. On the same evening it is planned to reserve the main floor of the theatre for those of the student body who may care to attend, and have a general "Maine Night" performance.

At the last meeting of the Electrical and Mechanical Engineering Society, officers were elected as follows: president, C. H. Leckbey; vice president, L. J. Reed; secretary and treasurer, J. T. Bates. About fifty under-classmen were present and the society promises to be very flourishing through the winter.

COMING THEATRE ATTRACTIONS.

Nov. 27 — Week, Clara Turner.

Dec. 4 — Week, Adam Good Co.

Dec. 11-12 — White Sheep and Black, (local.)

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN ELECTED.

The members of the football squad met at Chalmers' studio Tuesday afternoon and had the team picture taken. After sitting for the picture the men cast their ballots for captain of next year's eleven and elected John H. Burleigh of South Berwick to lead Maine's gridiron warriors next season. Burleigh is a member of the class of 1907 and entered the University of Maine from Berwick academy. He is 22 years of age and weighs 145 pounds. He played sub-end on the 'varsity in his freshman year and played regular end in 1904. This year he has played a consistently strong game at left end, making up in speed and aggressiveness what he lacked in weight. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and is one of the popular men in college, having been president of his class in his freshmen year. In "Jack" Burleigh the men feel they have a good man to lead them next season and will rally around him and strive for another championship.

Those who were included in the picture with the privilege of casting a ballot were the men who have earned the "M" this fall. There are 19 of them as follows: F. A. Reed, A. G. Bennett, W. D. Bearce, A. P. Weymouth, C. F. Forbes, and W. H. Burke, seniors; R. L. Swift, R. A. Quint, A. F. Talbot, J. H. Burleigh, W. E. Stone and C. D. Moore, Juniors; H. S. Miner, H. B. Smith, and D. Chase, sophomores; Elliott, Farwell, Higgins, and Ray, freshmen.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ARBITRATION BOARD.

The meeting of the intercollegiate arbitration board at Lewiston Saturday morning was attended by three of the Maine representatives in addition to the alumni member, Hon. L. C. Southard of Boston. The meeting accomplished the object for which the board convened and not only is the Colby incident of last spring finally settled but provision has been made by the board for future action should such cases occur. The matter of the Colby game last spring was threshed out thoroughly and while neither side felt itself to be in the blame in the matter the affair served as an excellent test case. Future provision for such cases was fully covered by the following set of resolves:

"All games must be concluded, and while all unfair conduct may be protested, the game must be finished.

"A committee of the three alumni members of the board shall deal with all such protests.

"The committee has the power to ascertain such knowledge of the facts as they may require by affidavits from disinterested parties or in such a manner as they may deem best for the two colleges involved.

"The sub-committee shall have the power to impose such penalties or otherwise deal with the cases as it may see fit and the decision shall be final. The power of this committee can be revoked at any meeting of the arbitration board."

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Southard, Maine's alumni representative, stated that he thoroughly approved the action of the committee at Maine in the Colby game but that he heartily regretted that no other method of settlement was open than by withdrawal from the game. The provisions which have been made will necessitate the playing of every game to its end. As the sub-committee which has the matter of protest to settle is composed of the three representative alumni all in Boston it will be easy to call meetings of the committee at short notice.
