SOME FOOTBALL FIGURES.

For the fourth time in the last five years the football championship of the State comes to Maine, the solitary exception being in 1904.

Up to 1901 Maine had never been strong in football, but beginning with that year a radical change was made in its athletic policy, and J. W. Farley was secured as coach. In 1900 Maine won only one out of five games with the other colleges of the State, yet the following year, under Farley's lead, with practically the same material, it won all its Maine games.

The record for the last five years is worth printing, especially in view of the statements sent out from one of the Maine colleges which might lead the unwary to believe it had the only team that has a record worth printing.

To summarize, during the last five years the University of Maine has played 18 games with the other colleges of the State, of which it has won 13, tied one, and lost four. The total number of points scored is 208 against 61 by opponents.

The record with Colby is six games won out of seven played, with a total of 97 points for Maine to 22 for Colby. Bates has been the closest rival, the record standing three games for Maine to two for Bates; one game resulted in a tie; Maine has scored 39 points to 12 for Bates. Bowdoin has been defeated four times and has won only one game, the record by points being 72 for Maine to 27 for Bowdoin; Maine has shut Bowdoin out three times, while in no game has Bowdoin been able to prevent Maine from crossing the goal line.

FRESHMEN, 6; SOPHOMORES, 6.

On Saturday morning, November 25, the football season at Maine closed with a game between the Freshmen and Sophomores. While the score of 6 to 6 does not show it, there is no doubt in the minds of all who saw the game that the Freshmen had the superior team.

The Sophomores kicked off to Hodgins, who was downed almost in his tracks. By a series of steady rushes the Freshmen carried the ball to the Sophomore's 5-yard line. Higgins was then given the ball, and everyone was looking for a touchdown, when suddenly, Sawyer emerged from the pile carrying the ball, and ran the length of the field for a touchdown. Miner kicked the goal. The half ended with the ball in 'og's possession, near the center of the field.

In the second half the Freshmen kicked off to the Sophomores, who, after a few rushes, were held for downs. After nine minutes of play the Freshmen carried the ball over the line for a touchdown. The Sophomores received the next kickoff, and tried to carry the ball down the field, but were held. The Freshmen began to carry the ball steadily toward the Sophomore goal, and when time was called the ball was on the 15-yard line.

BASEBALL TROPHIES

A week ago, the Lewiston Morning News started a move in the right direction by announcing through its columns that it would present a loving cup to the team and fob watch chains to the individual members of the championship team of the Maine Intercollegiate Baseball League for the season of 1906. This offer is a liberal one and will be greatly appreciated by the students of the four Maine colleges. Formerly the championship team has had nothing substantial to show for a season's hard practice. This is the original offer:

"The News is especially interested in school and college sports, and will give much space to reports of their baseball, football and track teams. In order to show the interest of the paper The News has decided to offer a handsome, valuable loving cup to the college team which the coming year wins the most games in the Maine Intercollegiate Baseball League; and, in addition, to present to the manager of and to each member of the winning team gold fob watch chains. The cup and the chains will be ordered from one of the foremost jewelry houses in New England which will furnish a guarantee that they are just as represented. The cup will become the permanent property of the college association which wins it, and the chains will be marked appropriately. The cup and the chains will be presented to the men who are members of the winning team, and will become their personal property. The News feels certain that the offering of these trophies will add to the keen interest which has always characterized the annual games for the Maine Intercollegiate Baseball championship. The rivalry between the University of Maine, Bates, Colby and Bowdoin has ever been keen, but has always been fair, honorable and sportsmanlike. The entire State is annually interested in the games of the Maine College League, and will be more than ever so in 1906, when the teams which represent the four colleges will certainly be faster than ever before."

It might be said here in justice to The News, that this paper has during the last few years produced an athletic column which has been ever improving, until it has reached a well near perfect condition. The News is ever fair in its write-ups, and gives unprejudiced forecasts of the future athletic events. This offer is therefore not to be wondered at, coming from such a paper, but is simply a recognition of the lack of such trophies and an attempt to fill a much-needed want.

JUNIOR CIVIL SOCIETY

The regular winter schedule of lectures before the Junior Civil Society opened last Wednesday evening with a large attendance of Juniors and Seniors. Professor Weston was the speaker and delivered a most entertaining and instructive address on the Civil Engineering department of Columbia University with which he was formerly connected. Professor Weston also emphasized the importance of a broad general culture to engineers and advocated reading as an invaluable aid to that end. The next meeting of the Society comes the last Wednesday before the Christmas recess when some practicing engineer will probably deliver the address.

THE DEBATING CLUB

The average attendance at the last three meetings of the debating club was eighteen. In an institution like the University of Maine with a student body of 500, cannot more than eighteen or twenty students attend the meetings of the debating club?

Every student that possibly can should turn out and take an active part in this important function of the University for two reasons: first, because there is a great deal of benefit to be derived from it, and second, because the debating team needs support. It is not necessary to discuss here the great benefits of debating. Every technical student should do more along literary lines, and the easiest way to get the most good is by debating.

The debating team that is to meet Bates later in the year needs support as well as an athletic team. It is necessary in football to have two elevens out in order for the 'Varsity to receive training and learn the game by actual experience; just so is it necessary for the debaters to have some who will discuss the question with them, help them, and encourage them by their presence at the meetings. It takes a lot of time and hard work to prepare an intercollegiate debate; and if this University is to attain the high standing in debating that it has in athletics, it needs the loyal support of every student.

GOULD ROYDEN ANTHONY.

Gould Royden Anthony, '05, died at the home of his parents in Scotland, Conn., early Thanksgiving morning, after a long and wearisome illness.

Mr. Anthony entered Maine as a junior from the Bangor Theological Seminary, of which he was a graduate, and during his stay here won the highest esteem of his classmates and professors by his enthusiastic devotion to his work and his loyalty to each and every interest of the University.

For the past three years in addition to his college work he has been pastor of the Congregational church at Lincoln, Maine, and the words of one of his parishioners are in themselves a most fitting eulogy: "He did not come to us claiming to know and to be able to tell what God had done in the past and why he did so, but he did tell us how to meet our own difficulties courageously and to look to Jesus Christ for our example, to imitate His life and to manifest His spirit."

In June, 1904, Mr. Anthony was married to Miss Lillian De Este Lampson, a daughter of Senator Lampson of Ohio, who has been his helpmate in all his church and public duties and who was with him to the last moment.

Last June he delivered his farewell address to his church in Lincoln and feeling that the condition of his health demanded a change in climate returned to his old home in Connecticut. For a time there seemed to be an improvement but the seeds of consumption were too deeply sown and although he made a brave fight he was unable to overcome the disease.

Mr. Anthony was a Free Mason and a member of Alpha Delta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, It has been the will of Almighty God to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Gould R. Anthony, and

Whereas, We, his brothers in Alpha Delta Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity desire to express our deepest grief in the loss of our brother, be it

EDITORIALS

The growth of the University during the last ten years has been so rapid that necessarily a few of the functions which properly belong to an institution of this size have not as yet been established here. Chief among these stands the college magazine, the only available literary outlet of the student body. It would be hard to find another institution of the size of Maine which offers literary courses and does not publish a literary magazine of some sort. Indeed in the majority of cases we find not only a literary magazine but also a comic paper which is certainly the more popular and often the better of the two. Here at Maine we have neither and the lack of them is very generally felt by the students.

At the present time there is no sufficient reason why such a want should remain unfilled any longer or why a college magazine embracing both the literary and humorous features should not be started immediately. We certainly have no lack of men who have shown their ability along editorial lines and there is no reason to believe that there is a dearth of story writers at Maine. It may be that some will reason that such a paper could not be edited properly by technical students who must necessarily be represented on the editorial board. To disprove that we have only to glance at the literary magazines of other colleges where we find technical students occupying the highest editorial positions, and to come nearer home our own college annual, the Prism, has almost invariably been the product of an editorial board the majority of whose members were technical students.

We believe that a canvass of the University would disclose a strong sentiment in favor of such a magazine and would put the paper on a sound financial basis even before a line of type was set. The main difficulty at present lies in making a start—in selecting a board of editors and a staff of contributors. This selection should fall naturally to the English department and in our opinion we must look to the heads of that department for developments in this line. Such a magazine would not require any very long preparation for the first issue which could probably appear by the beginning of the spring term at the latest. The many other advantages which such a magazine would have are too obvious to take space for them here. We would like to leave this matter with the English professors for the present.

Football at Maine has escaped in large measure from the two great evils which have for the past twenty years been gradually undermining the great American college game. The charge of professionalism or brutality is not one which can be laid at the door of any of our athletes, and therefore it is as spectators, but vitally concerned spectators, that we watch the progress of the agitation for football reform. From the depth and strength of that agitation it is evident that the matter has narrowed down to one of two things — either sweeping and radical reform or absolute abolition. The forces which have been brought to bear are so powerful that it is safe to say that the world has seen its last game of present-day football.

The abolition of the game of football, which is without doubt the most representative of all college sports, can bring only sorrow to the heart of every college student, and would, we believe, fail of the purpose intended. For it is not football which needs to be reformed, but rather it is the conditions which exist in our American colleges, and which are most strikingly shone in their connection with football. It is the spirit of "win at any cost"—the spirit which breeds professionalism, which establishes athletic scholarships, and which leads coaches to perfect their pupils in the art of slugging—which needs to be eradicated. If football should be greatly changed or abolished, what would be the result? Would the evils now commonly associated with football perish with the game? We think not. Either track athletics or baseball would then become the leading college sport, and as certainly as any sport becomes the chief ground of rivalry between colleges, that same spirit of "win at any cost" will creep in and work its ruin.

In reforming football, therefore, it is necessary first of all to remove that underlying spirit which causes it to need reform. What is needed is not so much changes in the rules as the enforcement of the present rules, especially as regards undue roughness and the reforming of the present eligibility rules with provisions for their enforcement. When that spirit of winning at all odds is removed, we will see that football is as little in need of reform as any of our college athletics.

In our enthusiasm at winning the football championship of Maine, we have perhaps forgotten a University organization which

The Band. has been with us on every football field this fall, and which has, when we have yelled ourselves hoarse, jumped into the breach and with its lively airs helped our boys on the gridiron. The University band deserves all the praise we can give it. Night after night it has practiced, to do its part to help Maine win her victories. The hard work has been evident wherever the band has played, and without doubt the University of Maine band is the best college band in New England, barring none. Remember, we not only have the champion football team, but we have the champion band.

FIRST ASSEMBLY ON DEC. 15

It has been finally decided that the first assembly will be held on Dec. 15.

There was some talk of postponing the event, on account of the First Crusade to be given in Bangor on the same night. It was impossible to arrange any other date for the assembly and the manager of the First Crusade Co. refused to change his date.

Without doubt there will be a large attendance at this first assembly; every member of the student body should feel it his duty to attend. These assemblies are a University event, and deserve our support.

The Sophomore prize declamations were held Friday evening, December 8, in Alumni hall. The prize of twenty-five dollars in gold was won by Raymond Fellows of Bucksport, and honorable mention was given to Raymond Judson Smith of Skowhegan.

The judges were Hon. George E. Thompson of Orono, Prof. F. H. Halliday of New York, and Rev. C. H. Cutler of Bangor.

The chapel was decorated with the colors of the Sophomore class, and with potted plants and palms.

The music given during the entertainment and at the dance was furnished by the college orchestra.

LOCALS

Geo. J. Hopkins, '08, of Bath has recently returned to college.

Prof. Boardman was unable to meet his classes for several days last week, on account of illness.

Philip Crowell, '08, is slowly recovering from his recent illness, but as yet is unable to attend recitations.

Paul Penney, '08, of Augusta is unable to attend recitations on account of a severe attack of the measles.

A social gathering in the form of a card party was held in the Alpha Tau Omega House Friday evening, Dec. 1.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity held a house party and dance at their chapter house Tuesday evening, Nov. 28.

A very enjoyable house party was given by the members of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, Saturday evening, Dec. 2.

A very pleasant dancing party was given by the young ladies of the Mt. Vernon house on Saturday evening, Dec. 9.

A number of students will take part in the presentation of "The First Crusade," to be given in Bangor Dec. 14, 15, 16.

Pierce Drew, '08, has returned to college after a two weeks visit in Fair Haven, Mass., where he spent the Thanksgiving recess.

Prof. Hurd and Prof. Gowell attended the meeting of the Maine State Dairymen's association held in Pittsfield, December sixth and seventh.

Several of the agricultural students attended the meeting of the Maine State Dairymen's association held in Pittsfield, December sixth and seventh.

The basketball situation is already beginning to look much brighter, a large number of Freshmen are making a very good showing. Even the faculty members are becoming more than ordinarily interested. It is rumored that they anticipate having a team, at any rate quite a few have turned out for early practice and seem to be doing very good work.

The freshmen made an early start and have elected Howard Farwell of Dorchester, Mass., for their track captain and C. A. Mayo of Hampden, for manager.

Cobb, ex-'07, has returned to Massachusetts after a short stay at the Theta Epsilon house. He is employed as head book-keeper in a business firm at Marian, Mass.

Max G. Newman, '06, was on the campus last Wednesday having completed his work at North East Harbor. He was on his way to Fryburg where he spent Thanksgiving.

At the regular meeting of the Chemical Club on Thursday afternoon Prof. Aubert gave an interesting talk. Although this is a new organization, there is a large membership and much interest is taken in the meetings.

A benefit fair for the support of the public library was held in Oldtown on Dec. sixth, seventh and eighth. "Doc" Thatcher, '05, and "Eddie" Bearce, '05, were end men in the minstrel show held on Wednesday evening.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Library Club was held in Dover, December 7th. The address of welcome was given by Dr. E. A. Thompson, who gave the free library to the town of Dover. Mr. R. K. Jones, librarian at the University of Maine responded to the address.

The Philological club held a meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, in Wingate Hall where they listened to Dr. Segall lecture on "Moliere." Later in the evening the following officers were elected. President, Prof. J. H. Huddilston; Secretary and Treasurer, Prof. G. E. Thompson. Prof. Chase, Prof. Lentz and Mr. Prince were elected to membership.

Many of the students attended the lecture given by Jacob A. Riis in Bangor City Hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 9. His subject was "The Battle With the Slum," illustrated with stereopticon slides. Mr. Riis has a great subject and tells his story well. Ready wit, delicate pathos and invincible faith in the ultimate triumph of the best, and a persistence that never lets go, all show why he stirs men's hearts to responsive enthusiasm wherever he lectures.

MUSICAL INTERESTS

The musical clubs made their first appearance of the season in Brewer, Tuesday evening Nov. 28, before a small and rather unappreciative audience. Perhaps, it was due to this fact that the concert was a great success, and fully up to the standard of the first concert of past seasons, for the members put forth their best efforts, especially the new men. The Bangor Commercial says: "The concert was finely rendered and proved a financial success."

The following program was used:

Up and Away March	Geibel
GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS
Toastmaster March	O'Dell
MANDOLIN CLUB

R. FELLOWS, '08
The Red Demon	Jennings

GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS

This was the first appearance of R. Fellows as reader for the clubs, and his work was well received. The clubs are particularly fortunate in having such an able reader to assist the regular reader, J. Goodrich, and this part of the work will be well looked after by two of the best readers ever attending Maine.

A. B. Plummer, '07, has been obliged to leave college during the month of December, and his absence leaves many vacancies. A. W. Sprague, former leader of the band, will have charge of the band, and all band men must attend the rehearsals in order to receive the benefit of one of the best leaders in the State.

G. Hill, '06, will take charge of the glee club, and F. Richardson, '09, will fill the vacancy in the choir.

R. Fellows, '08, has been appointed assistant manager of the musical clubs, and the same office of the band is filled by H. Miner, '08.

THE LECTURES

The second lecture of the University course was given Friday evening, November 24, by Professor J. William Black of Colby College, before an audience that well filled the Chapel in Alumni Hall. Professor Black's subject was "Historic Spots in Virginia;" and the lecture was illustrated by over a hundred slides, made from views taken for the most part by Professor Black himself.

Virginia is an exceptional state for such a lecture. Beginning with the early Colonial days, through the Revolution and the early years of the Union, down to the time of the Civil War, the part which Virginia and her sons played in the history of this country has been such that one can almost say that the history of Virginia was the history of the nation. Add to this the great natural beauty of the country, and it is easily seen what a wealth of material it offers to the historian with a camera.

Professor Black's treatment of the subject was especially good. Starting with the early Colonial days, he traced the history of the state down through the civil war, accompanying it with pictures of the remains of the early settlements, her great men and their homes, battle fields of the Revolution and the Rebellion, and many other scenes serving to fix the history of the state in the minds of the listeners. Special mention must be made of the views of the old estates of some of the country's greatest men, among them Arlington, the home of the Lee family, Jefferson's Monticello, and Mt. Vernon.

It is needless to say that the lecture was intensely interesting; and our sister institution is to be congratulated on having a man of Professor Black's ability upon her faculty.

The next lecture of the course will occur in the Chapel, Thursday evening, December 14. The lecture, "Structural Design," by Mr. Henry Turner Bailey of North Scituate, Mass., is one which should be of especial interest to the engineering students, as such marvellous advances have been made along this line of construction in the last few years. Mr. Turner is a man thoroughly acquainted with not only the theoretical, but also the practical side of his subject; and his talk will be illustrated by both lantern views and blackboard sketches.

THE DEUTSCHER VEREIN

The regular meeting of the Deutscher Verein was held Wednesday evening, December 6th, at the Mt. Vernon house. The meeting was a particularly successful one. Besides the interesting German conversation an excellent musical program was given, in which the work of Prof. Lentz on the 'cello deserves the highest praise.

The program:

FRESHMEN NUMERALS

In order for a student to earn his class numerals in baseball, he must either play sixteen or more innings in the series of freshman-sophomore games, or pitch at least nine innings in this series. In order to earn them in football, he must play at least one-half of the freshman-sophomore game.

This fall only six freshmen made their numerals in baseball, while eleven made them in football. The fact that only two baseball games were played this year between the freshmen and the sophomores explains in part why so few freshmen made their '09 in baseball, for several men, who otherwise would have made their numerals, failed to do so on this account.

The freshmen who made their '09 in baseball are the following: R. L. Hodgins, C. J. Nason, W. M. Hinkley, C. A. Mayo, E. O. Pray, E. E. Gardner.

Those who made their '09 in football are: M. de la Torre, V. R. Ray, W. M. Hilton, W. M. Black, H. A. White, R. L. Hodgins, H. P. Marsh, A. E. Elliott, G. H. Brimmer, H. P. Higgins, H. Farwell.

HOCKEY

Now that winter is upon us and the football season is over basketball has claimed our attention. There is something however to which other colleges turn during the cold months—that is hockey. Hockey is fast becoming recognized by the colleges of New England and all around us preparations are being made for teams. Harvard, Yale, Brown, Amherst, Williams and others are this year to have seven men represent them on the ice. As Maine is not behind in other things why should she be in this? We take the lead in other branches of athletics and so why not set the example for other Maine colleges and enter hockey as one of our regular sports? Here we have many things which other colleges farther south do not have, chief of which is ice for several months. Little effort would give us a rink. Last year a manager and captain were elected. So much was done for a start. There are new men as well as old who would work for such a team and work hard for it. Let us think and act on this matter.

COLLEGE MEETING

A college meeting was held Wednesday Dec. 6. The object was to get the men out for track athletics. There was plenty of enthusiasm; speeches were made by Prof. Huddilston, B. F. Williams, manager of the track team, Prof. Grover and Capt. Porter of the track team.

GIFT OF THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The Agricultural Department of the University of Maine has received a gift of $100, to be awarded to those students in the Department of Agriculture who shall write the best essays on certain agricultural subjects.
