BASKETBALL OUTLOOK.

Never before in the history of the University has the outlook for basketball been so favorable. At the first practice held on Tuesday Dec. 3, forty-three men reported to Capt. Black. While it is as yet too early to tell much about the different men, still from all appearances an exceptionally fast team is assured.

Capt. Black has played two years at center where he has shown himself a strong, fast player, and will undoubtedly make a fine leader for the team. "Jim" Scales, the right forward of last year is still with us and is even now in fine form. He also has played two years on the team and is probably as fast and as heady a player as Maine ever had on the floor. Wadsworth, the left forward is also in the game again and promises to be in his old form once more. French and Morton of last year's team are out and both promise to make good.

The practice under the direction of Capt. Black and Dr. Reynolds, is still very light, consisting mostly of passing and shooting goals, but later in the week when practice will be held every day, it will be much harder and will then give the new men an opportunity to show what is in them.

The schedule for the season has not yet been announced but Manager Emery has got some good games booked. There will be the usual two games each with Bates and Colby and a game with Maine Central Institute and one with Guilford High. These schools have a good basketball reputation and will help put the University team into good trim for the games played later in the season.

The team will then make a trip through the western part of the State and into Massachusetts and here they will run up against some very fast teams.

WORK ON ALUMNI FIELD.

The Maine spirit is not centered entirely in one branch of activities in the University, as was seen when the call was issued for men to work on the athletic field. About three hundred students in answer to the call appeared on the field ready for work:

The plan followed in improving Alumni Field was to dig one long ditch from one end to the other, and at points twenty-five yards apart, to run transverse parallel ditches to the sides. Tile which the University has kindly given will be placed in these ditches for draining. During the winter about two feet of loam will be spread over the whole place. This will not only elevate the field, but will tend to allow better drainage than the present clay soil. The tile is ready to be laid, and it is expected that the field will be in good condition for baseball early in the spring.

Our baseball team has always been severely handicapped by the poor condition of the athletic field for early practice and after having to begin a trip without any out-door work. It is hoped that this drawback will now be removed. Conditions for football will also be greatly improved by the present work.

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING.

At a very important meeting of the Junior Class, held Tuesday, Nov. 26, the following Class Day officers were elected: H. P. Higgins, Marshall; B. A. Chandler, Chaplain; D. S. Smith, Orator; F. E. Simmons, Presentator; E. W. Morton, Curator; W. L. Emerson, Historian; H. E. Sutton, Prophet; F. C. Richardson, Odist; and D. S. Thomas, Poet. The Junior-Week Committee was elected as follows:

E. L. Towle, Chairman; F. D. Knight, R. C. Harmon, T. C. Wescott, and F. C. Richardson. H. A. White, Miss F. E. Harvey, B. L. Roberts, S. S. Lockyer and J. N. Jewett, were elected to the Junior Prom. Committee, and Francis E. Simmons was elected floor manager.

It was also voted to dedicate the '09 Prism to the Hon. Henry Lord, President of the Board of Trustees.

LAW SCHOOL NOTES.

Joseph Towne Winslow, Esq., of New Bedford, Mass., and a graduate of the University of Maine School of Law, Class of 1905, has been offered, and has accepted a position as Associated Editor on the Lawyers' Reports Annotated, a series of very valuable reports issued by The Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Company at Rochester, N. Y. His work is writing case notes for the new series to be published, and his search for authorities will cover all Federal, State, Canadian, and English digests, besides practically all text books on the point annotated. Mr. Winslow was one of the two honor men of his class, and is by training and character well qualified to fill so responsible a position.

The announcement is made of the marriage of two men, formerly members of the University of Maine School of Law. George Russell Hadlock, Esq., of Islesford, member of the last legislature, was married November 16th to Edna Jane Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Campbell, of Islesford. George William Pike, Esq., of the class of 1906, was married November 20th to Mildred Kingdom Fogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Fogg, of Ashland, N. H. After December 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Hadlock will be at home at Islesford, and Mr. and Mrs. Pike at Lisbon, N. H.

Prof. Simpson gave a very instructive talk on "Remainders," last Tuesday evening to the members of the Sigma Beta Pi Society.

At a meeting of the Assembly Friday evening a very practical and interesting question was argued. "Resolved, that the question of re-submission be left to the popular vote of the people," Mr. Ralph Goss and Mr. Grady for the affirmative, and Mr. Morrison and Mr. Fraser for the negative. So nearly matched were the debaters, that the judges were unable to arrive at any decision. Mr. R. L. Mitchell read a very able paper on Woman's Suffrage, and Mr. May gave a very comprehensive talk on current events.

Mr. R. A. Bridgham, '09, who did not enter the Law School the first of this term, has re-entered the Law School, and expects to continue his studies for the full three years course.

The decision recently handed down from the Law Court, by Chief Justice Emery, in the case of Edward J. Milton vs. the Bangor Railway and Electric Co. is of double interest to the students of the Law School. The case is especially valuable as an aid in the study of Private Corporations, and all the more appreciated on account of its having been won by two graduates of the Law school, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Waterhouse, members of the class of 1905. This was attorney Crawford's first case in the Law Court and was a difficult one from two standpoints. First, because the case turned on the unconstitutionality of a Statute, the presumption being that all Statutes are Constitutional. Second, because the attorney for the defendant corporation was one of the oldest and shrewdest corporation lawyers in the State of Maine. Mr. Crawford's argument is conceded to be one of the ablest ever heard before the Supreme Court and he was personally congratulated upon it by several of the judges. The facts in the case were briefly these. The plaintiff had been injured by a defect in the defendant's track in Oldtown. The company set up the claim that they were not liable for the plaintiffs' injury, because they did not have twenty-four hours notice of the particular defect causing the injury, and because the plaintiff had not given notice of such injury, to the directors of the company within fourteen days as required by its charter. The court handed down the following four points of law.

1. Whenever a franchise or right coupled with a correspondence duty is conferred by the legislature upon a person or corporation and is accepted, such person is answerable by the common law to a third person who sustains damage by the neglect of that duty.

2. An acceptance by a street railway company of a franchise to occupy portions of the streets of a town with its railroad, coupled with the duty of keeping such portions of the streets in repair, gives a right of action against the company by a traveler injured by its neglect of that duty.

3. The people of the State have not given the legislature power to exempt any particular person or corporation from the operation of the general law of the state or to impose special conditions or limitations upon rights of action against a particular person or corporation.

4. An act of the legislature that no action shall be maintained against a particular street railway company therein named for injuries caused by its neglect of duty to keep in repair those parts of the streets of a town occupied by its railway, unless one of its directors had 24 hours actual prior notice of the defect and subsequent notice of the injury within 14 days, is to that extent unconstitutional and void.

Judgment for the plaintiff fifty dollars ($50).

After many changes in the schedule for the fall term examinations, the following has been decided to be final and official.

THURSDAY, DEC. 12.

9-12, A. M. Suretyship.

SOPHOMORE DECLAMATIONS.

Friday evening, Dec. 6, the annual Sophomore Prize Speaking Contest was held in Alumni Hall. The speakers spoke well, and show much study and hard work, which was appreciated very much by the large and enthusiastic audience. The awarding committee consisted of E. M. Simpson, Esq., D. A. Robinson, M. D., W. P. Daggett, who after some fifteen or twenty minutes of deliberation awarded the first prize to Francis G. Wadsworth, and honorable mention to Ernest Lamb. After the declamations the college orchestra played for a very pleasant and delightful dance.

The speakers and their selections of this contest were as follows:

One of Bob's Tramps, Thurlow Tracy Workman, Sullivan Harbor.

St. Pierre to Ferrado, Franklin William Petey, Fall River, Mass.

Work, James Edward Battles, Frankfort.

Marley's Ghost, Francis George Wadsworth, Sanford.

The Round Up, Ralph Woodbury Redman, Corinna.

The Peril of Immigration, W. Warren Harmon, Old Orchard.

The Littlest Girl, Ernest Lamb, Utica, N. Y.

Columbus, Herbert Wilfred Pickup, Ipswich, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

THE ladies of the Round Table wish to bring before the students more generally the teas which are given every month by the society. These teas are given for the express purpose of furthering the acquaintance between all members of the university community, faculty and students alike. It is desired to specially emphasize the fact that the presence of underclassmen, sophomores and freshmen, is desired at these informal gatherings, where they can become acquainted with each other and with their seniors.

“IN an editorial a short time ago the Orient commented favorably on the excellent spirit maintained between the two bodies of student supporters at a football game. This was an early game. Regrettable as it may seem, the Orient feels it must make quite a reverse comment from recent events. That Bowdoin is the rival of every college in the State, is an admitted fact. That Bates, Maine and Colby had all rather defeat Bowdoin than any other team, we have constant evidence from their own statements. But that this triple rivalry should be such as to deny to Bowdoin the courtesies of sportsmanlike contest is as regrettable as it appears evident to be. We cannot help but feeling as each big game has been played in football this season, that we are not being shown the same courtesies that we are showing. The Orient feels that Bowdoin cheering has always been courteous and sportsmanlike. We were glad to see that at our recent game, whenever a change was made in the line-up of the visiting team, the Bowdoin cheering section gave a cheer for the player of the other institution. And the Orient is further proud to note that in general all “yagging” was kept out of the cheering as much as the leaders could do so. But, frankly now, are our efforts appreciated? After the recent big game of Whittier Field, the Bowdoin students, while forming to march from the field, halted in front of the bleachers where the supporters of the opposing team were still spiritedly cheering, the Bowdoin men gave cheer after cheer for our visitors. But was there any notice taken of this courtesy? Did Bowdoin receive a single answering cheer? The Orient does not believe that a man who yells in a crowd that “So and So will be killed if he ever goes up to our college on the Hockey Team,” or another who excitedly advises his friends to “hurry to the station before the Bow-doin students start fighting and mobbing us," ever really represent true sentiments. But the Orient does feel that Bowdoin students as a body are to be congratulated on the courteous and sportsmanlike conduct that they have as a body maintained this season, regardless of whether we have at all times been shown answering courtesy."—Bowdoin Orient.

The above editorial, reprinted from a recent issue of the Bowdoin Orient, comments upon the rivalry between Bowdoin and the other Maine colleges, and particularly upon the aspect which this rivalry assumed at the last big game on Whittier Field. The gist of the article tends to imply that Bowdoin cheered her opponents, while the latter did not do likewise; that Bowdoin, refrained from "yagging," while her opponents did not; in brief, that the visiting supporters were lacking in common courtesy.

It is a serious thing to cast aspersions upon the character of a student body as gentlemen—much more serious than losing a football game. Moreover, charges and counter-charges appear but ill in a college newspaper. For these reasons the comment of the CAMPUS will be brief. It will be sufficient to say that the CAMPUS had at the game representatives specially delegated to watch closely the attitude between the rival student bodies. It was found that both Maine and Bowdoin returned cheer for cheer, Bowdoin cheering Maine once after the game, in front of the bleachers and Maine returning the cheer.

It was found that Bowdoin cheered for Maine men who went out of the game, but few Bowdoin players went out of the game, except for reasons which would preclude cheering by the opposition. It was further found that "yagging," a small amount of which occurred on both sides, "was kept out of the cheering as much as the leaders could do so." This statement applies to Maine as well as to Bowdoin. In general the deportment of both delegations was found to be exceptionally good natured, considering the intense rivalry.

In view of these facts it appears that the article in question is based primarily upon misinformation. The CAMPUS is of the opinion that a wholesome rivalry between colleges, however intense, is a desideratum rather than otherwise. But when this rivalry is allowed to prompt a distortion of facts it ceases to be wholesome, and should be discouraged.

The experiences of the recent football season have made stronger than ever the appreciation of Maine men for "common courtesy," and for the king-pin motto of a gentleman,—"Fair play, and may the best man win." University of Maine students and athletes alike are well content to allow their reputation as gentlemen to rest in the hands of the disinterested spectators of her games this season.

PRISM NEWS.

Many of the seniors and juniors have not yet sent in their lists of college honors. If they are hesitating because of modesty, they are foolish, for no one has too many honors for publication in the Prism. If they are neglectful, they should see that they are not so any longer. It is imperative that these lists be received by the board of editors very soon.

There is great need of more grinds. Everybody is supposed to rack his brain for grinds on somebody else. Pictures are also very desirable. If the students do not hand in more jokes than they have, the editors will have to take the prize-money and have a banquet with it. That's a grind on you, fellows. There is five dollars awaiting someone, if the students get busy.

By the competitive method for writing class histories, which is in use this year, there is a good opportunity for four students to distinguish themselves. However, the more the competition for this honor, the better will be the histories finally accepted. If you think you are studying too hard, fellows, take a little time to write your class history. The more original it is, the better it will be for you and your class. Make the history of your own class the best in the book.

REVIEW OF THE NOVEMBER BLUE BOOK.

The November issue of the Blue Book came out just prior to the Thanksgiving recess. On the whole, it is a credit to the University, though by no means representative of it. It is rather tame. It has, let us say for lack of a better term, a mild literary flavor, but it lacks force and individuality. What we want is a book that could not be published by any other college because of the hall-mark "Maine" burned into it. What we have is a magazine that any college could claim.

The trouble is that we are self-conscious in the use of language. We are not sufficiently at home with it to mould it recklessly into any shape, so that it will best express our meaning. If we have a good idea we wrap it in so many coverings that the poor thing dies before it can struggle to the air. We are not familiar enough with the tools to be able to make people feel our personality.

It is the ambition of the editors, if possible, to make the magazine this year a well-rounded, well-balanced, college publication. They would like to have articles from each department represented in the University—science, engineering, agriculture, forestry. All these colleges should have men in them, who could give to the reading public stories on their chosen subjects, or, if not stories, at least a sketch, long or short, upon whatever chances to be uppermost in their minds.

Interest in the Blue Book seems to be increasing this year. The contributions have been far more promising than ever before, but they are not yet as numerous as the board could desire.

STATE UNIVERSITY AND CARNEGIE FOUNDATION.

President Fellows was in New York recently where he served on a committee of the National Association of State Universities, appointed to present the case of the state universities to the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The committee consisted of three members, the other two being President Wheeler, of the University of California, and President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Carnegie invited the committee to luncheon at Delmonico's and in a few informal remarks made there said that he was glad to have devoted some of his time and money for the foundation of an institution which was the means of bringing him into contact with the university presidents of this nation. Dr. Fellows also attended a reception at Mr. Carnegie's residence. The guests included the presidents of the Universities of Wisconsin, California, Georgia, and Columbia, besides many of the members of the Carnegie board and several prominent people residing in New York City.

LOCALS.

The University Quartette composed of Richardson '09, Smith '09, Springer '10, and McHale '11, furnished the special music in Chapel on Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Miss Sylvia S. Wakefield, because of illness has left college for the remainder of the year.

Prof. Jones attended the third semi-annual meeting of the New England college librarians which was held in the library of Harvard University, Nov. 27. About twenty institutions were represented.

Capt. Brown spent Thanksgiving in New York City.

Friday evening, Nov. 22, the Conversation Club met at the home of Prof. Woods. The meeting was led by Prof. Drew, who chose "Fur Seals" as the subject for the evening.

The musical clubs will give a concert at the Town Hall, Friday evening, December 13. The clubs are to appear under the auspices of the Senior class of the Orono High School, and will render an exceptionally good program.

Prof. Caroline Colvin will attend, during the Christmas recess, a meeting of the American Library Association at Madison, Wis.

Dean Hurd, Professors Woods and Campbell and Mr. Waid were at the meeting of the State Dairyman's Association at Auburn last week. Prof. Woods gave an address. Dean Hurd also went to Burlington, Vermont, where he attended the dedication of a new agricultural building at the State University.

Last Wednesday forenoon in the library Mr. Daggett gave a lecture on the "Drama."

Thirty-nine copies of the 1908 Prism were distributed among the students just before the Thanksgiving recess, to take to their preparatory schools.

Rev. Raymond Calkins, pastor of the State Street Congregational Church at Portland, who is giving a course of lectures at Orono spoke to the students in chapel Tuesday morning. He also gave an address in the chapel Wednesday evening. During his stay of four days he spent a part of each afternoon in the library, where he could be consulted by the students.

Miss Bentley, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. for New England, spent a few days last week visiting the Maine Y. W. C. A.

The Omega Lambda Upsilon Society gave a reception to representatives of the New England colleges from Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the Windsor Hotel, Bangor last Saturday evening.

In the line-up of the Freshman football team which appeared in the last issue of the CAMPUS, the name of E. M. Fulton, '10, erroneously appeared as quarterback of the Freshman instead of the Sophomore team.

Wednesday evening, Dec. 4, the football team re-elected Capt. H. P. Higgins captain of football for next season.

Trials were held last Saturday for the cast of "When We were Twenty-One," the drama by H. V. Esmond, which has been selected by the Dramatic Club for presentation this year. There are eleven principal characters to be taken with a large number of understudies. The play will be staged under the direction of Mr. Daggett.

The Young Women's Christian Association will hold a sale in the clubroom of the Library, on Wednesday afternoon, December 11th.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETING.

A meeting of the Sophomore class was held Friday, at 1 o'clock in Alumni Hall. The nominating committee which was instructed at the last meeting to nominate eight candidates for the executive committee, reported and the following were elected from the nominations of the committee: H. W. Wright, C. A. Hall, Ernest Lamb, and F. G. Wadsworth. Plans for decorating the chapel and gymnasium were made and R. B. Cruickshank, chairman of the calendar committee reported that the work on the calendars was progressing rapidly. The nominating committee were instructed to prepare a list of nominees for floor manager and aids at the Sophomore Hop.

JACOB REED'S SONS

Makers of

"QUALITY"

Uniforms.

Reed "Quality" Uniforms are designed and fashioned by skilled Military Tailors and made throughout by competent work people. They are manufactured on our own premises in light, clean and airy work rooms under perfect sanitary conditions. These factors are important in the production of uniforms of high character.

One of the most satisfactory departments of our Uniform business is that devoted to the outfitting of students of Military Schools and Colleges. The results we obtain are highly creditable and produce renewals of contracts year by year.

In addition to our Uniform business we are Retailers of Clothing, Haberdashery and Headwear. The goods we sell are especially adapted to young men and are noted for their excellence and fair prices.
