SCHOOL REPORT.

TO THE CITIZENS OF FRYEBURG :

The Supervisor, in making the customary annual report, would respectfully submit the following statements in relation to the state and progress of your schools.

Judging from what I could learn by visitation and inquiry, I think that these schools have been, for the most part, as well taught and disciplined as could be reasonably expected. On the whole some improvement has been apparent in comparison with last year.

The thing most essential to the success of any school is to secure just the right teacher. But this is no easy matter. Teachers, fully competent, of the very first-class in ability, are not to be found every day. The genuine teacher cannot be made to order. He needs something more than scholastic education; he must have a certain natural tact, facility and love for his work. The truth of these words of Daniel Colt Gilman cannot be doubted:—"Let it never be forgotten that the teacher's gifts are as rare as the poet's. The methods of education can make scholars, pedants, specialists, and a very narrow man may live in his den and benefit the world by patient observations and minute researches. But no process has been discovered for making teachers. They are like gems, that must be found, for they cannot be produced."

With such highly gifted born teachers it is hardly possible to furnish our common schools. But good, intelligent, painstaking teachers, that come up in some fair measure to the highest standard of qualification, can almost always be obtained by due care on the part of those who are authorized to make the selection. And it gives me pleasure to say that, with possibly two or three exceptions, those of a very good grade have been employed in our schools this year. That the people have been generally satisfied is shown by the fact that in nine districts the same teacher has been retained two or more terms, two of them just now completing their second year in the same school.

The limits of this report will only permit the briefest reference to the teachers, individually, in regard to which it must be remembered that it is almost impossible to express a judgment that will do them exact justice. Miss Nickerson, who taught the summer term in District No. 1, proved herself to be an energetic and well-equipped teacher, and to be master of the situation in that large and difficult school. It being impossible for her to return, Miss Morrison has taught the fall and winter terms with very gratifying success, winning the good will of her scholars and interesting them in their studies by her efficient instruction.

I regard Miss Eva Walker as a very superior teacher and have been greatly pleased with her methods of teaching.

At East Fryeburg, Miss Nutter, who passed a good examination, seemed desirous of doing her best but she failed somewhat in maintaining good order and in holding the scholars faithfully to their studies. Unfortunately I was unable to visit this school but once during the fall term taught by Carrie Gilman Head, but I think she was successful in her work. Miss Eastman was too easy in her discipline, I judge, in the beginning of the winter term, but she succeeded in bringing about a rather better state of things towards the close, and the school appeared very well at my last visit. I fear some of the older scholars have not been quite as considerate as they might have been.

Mr. Thomas Charles knows how to keep school. He has a happy faculty of giving clear explanation, has a large fund of patience, keeps the scholars orderly, and he puts his heart into his work.

Mr. Willie Charles has an intelligent mind and he aims to get some understanding into his pupils as well as text-book answers out of them. Perhaps a little more push in his teaching would improve it.

Mr. Stearns is an able, faithful and gentlemanly teacher of much experience, whose influence over his scholars has been for good both morally and intellectually.

Miss Gould and Miss Marston have done well in District No. 14.

Miss Mary Hilton and her brother, Carroll Hilton, have given thorough instruction and rendered good service in the Harbor school.

Miss Wiley, a bright scholar, and Miss Putnam, who believes in good order, have been faithful over the few youths on Smart's Hill.

The parents in district No. 17 have been pleased with the progress their children have made under the care of Miss Smith and Miss Douglass, but in my opinion their instruction would be much improved by two or three terms of normal training.

Miss Holt is to be classed among our best teachers.

Of the younger teachers, special mention should be made of Miss Farrington, Miss Fessenden, Miss Jones, Miss Walker, and Miss Weston, as bright, earnest, capable, workers, whose success already gained gives promise of still more praiseworthy results with maturer experience.

The expense for text books this year has been $184.49. A part of this has been on account of the introduction of a new grammar—a change that was much needed. A book-case or other suitable receptacle for storing the books not in use, so that they may be less exposed to injury and loss, should be immediately provided for every school-house except the one at the Harbor and the one at East Fryeburg. The whole number of scholars belonging to this town is 435. Additional facts and statistics are given in the annexed tabular statement.

B. N. STONE, Supervisor of Schools.
