Depot Street

At the last annual meeting a committee was appointed to rebuild Depot Street. The work has been completed and your committee submits the following report relative to the work done in the construction of said street.

First. Over four hundred loads of mud and worn out material, principally from ditches on both sides of the street, were hauled away and dumped.

Second. Ditches were dug and drain pipes laid on both sides of the street, six catch basins installed and this drainage system connected with the public sewer through these catch basins, for the purpose of taking care of the surface water.

Third. A surfacing coat of gravel was then placed three inches deep, covering the entire street from ditch to ditch, forming a cushion for the rock base.

Fourth. This surfacing coat was then covered with a rock base of cobble rocks eight inches deep in the center and sloping to the drain pipe on both sides. Three hundred and six two-horse loads of cobbles were required for this work.

Fifth. The street was finished with a heavy coat of river gravel one foot deep in the center and sloping to the ditches on either side. This required seven hundred ninety-two loads of gravel. All of the ditches above the drainage pipes were also filled with gravel.

Over seventeen hundred loads of rock and gravel were used in the construction of this street. The town furnished the catch basins, drainage pipe and work of the mason putting in the foundation for the catch basins. All of the other labor, both men and teams, was furnished free. The following list shows the amount of labor of men and teams furnished and the cash value of same, all amounting to $1990.32 This was furnished freely and voluntarily, with practically no solicitation on the part of your committee and the people of Kingfield are to be congratulated on the splendid community spirit exhibited in this undertaking.

The ladies, during the last ten days of this construction work, furnished refreshments, which were a material aid and they are entitled to much credit for the work which they did and the interest shown.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Superintendent of Schools

Superintending School Committee

J. E. Cartland, M. D., Chairman	Term expires 1922
Josephine T. Vose	Term expires 1924

Mr. Chairman and Members:

I herewith submit for your consideration my third annual report of the schools of Kingfield and I trust that you will find therein some evidence of improvement and progress during the year.

In the elementary schools a number of changes have been made in the plan of carrying on the work. These changes will, I believe, effect a considerable saving of time previously lost by new teachers in determining how far the pupils had already progressed, keep the parents better informed as to the quality of work their children are doing, be an aid to inexperienced teachers in choosing what to teach and, what is perhaps most important of all, arouse in the pupils a desire to do more satisfactory work. After half a year's trial I feel that these results have been secured.

Every school in the state is required by law to be graded and employ a course of study. The state course mentions no particular textbook and is so general in character that teachers oftentimes find it hard to follow. In order to overcome this difficulty I spent considerable time examining textbooks, asking the opinion of more experienced superintendents, and choosing in each subject what seemed to be the best. As fast as was practicable the books chosen have been introduced throughout the district. During the past summer I went over the books carefully and in each subject in each grade above the third decided how much ought to be covered during each six week period for the year. I placed this outline in the hands of every teacher with instructions to follow it. At the end of each six week period an examination has been given over the work covered. I have made out all the examinations except a few where the textbook was unlike the one in general use. I have made them sufficiently easy so that I thought every pupil should get as good rank as in his daily recitations. The answers to the questions have been written in composition books, corrected by the teacher, examined by myself, sent home to be examined by the parents and returned to the school to be kept on file. As a result of these examinations, several who gave no evidence of being able to do satisfactory work in the grade in which they then were have been put back into the grade below.

By this method a minimum of time is wasted. The pupils in the same grade in all the schools have similar books to study, have the same amount of work to do in a given time and, as nearly as possible, are judged by the same standard.

During the early fall the Ayers Spelling Scale was used to measure the spelling ability of all the pupils of the fourth to the eighth grades inclusive. Only eleven in the whole town attained the standard set for their grade. The New World spellers have been introduced since and another similar test will be given in the spring to note what progress has been made.

There is a tendency on the part of many parents to send their children to school at as early an age as possible. This, I believe in many cases to be a mistake. Just as there is a great difference in the age at which children learn to walk, so there is just as great a variation in the age at which children acquire the ability to learn. While the inability to walk is apparent to all the inability to learn is not, and disappointment and possibly dissatisfaction with the teacher, for which she is in no way to blame, is liable to result. This is true not only in the first grade but also in the second, third and particularly the fourth where work requiring the ability to reason is just being started. Inasmuch as reasoning power frequently does not develop before the ninth or tenth year, and as a child entering the first grade at five should enter the fourth grade at eight, it is manifestly impossible for some young children to do the work. When this condition exists, and it does all too often, neither teacher nor pupil is deserving of blame. Far better for the child to have waited another year, or even two, before entering school than to repeat a grade or to attempt to do work that is not understood. Many states require a child to be six before entering the first grade and this I believe to be a wise regulation.

The attendance during the past year has been reasonably good but doubtless there have been cases where absence was unnecessary. It is a good business principle to get all you pay for and as it costs no more to maintain the schools with 100 per cent attendance than it does with 80 per cent, parents should see to it that their children are not needlessly deprived of advantages that they are paying for. The law relating to truancy requires every child to be present every day school is in session, unless excused, and any child absent ten half day sessions, without excuse, within six months, is considered an habitual truant and is liable to punishment.

About $350 has been spent for textbooks this year. As much will be needed for next year. After that, the cost of books should decrease. While the amount spent has been larger than usual, the money has been carefully and economically used and full value received. Most of the new books have been covered and every effort made to make them last as long as possible.

The overcrowded condition of the intermediate room, which I mentioned in both of my previous reports, is worse than ever before. There are now seventy pupils occupying a room that should not rightfully be required to hold more than fifty. Such crowding is detrimental both to the health of the pupils and progress in their studies. It is impossible to secure proper ventilation. With so many pupils in one room the noise is excessive and conditions are not favorable for mental concentration on the part of pupil or teacher. There has been an increase in the number of pupils during each of the last three years and if this increase is maintained next fall it will be impossible to care for them.

The medical inspection of pupils, which I advocated in my last report, has been performed in the elementary grades. This was made possible by funds supplied by the Red Cross. The need for it has been shown in the work already done and I earnestly recommend that the town make adequate provision for the thorough inspection of all the pupils from the primary grades to the high school.

It has been proven over and over again that both mental and physical development may be greatly retarded by the presence of enlarged tonsils and adenoids. It is also true that a considerable number of children in every community have these afflictions, in many cases without anyone realizing it or knowing their effects. Since the object of education is to develop in children the ability to live useful lives is not money spent for this purpose as truly educative as if it were spent to provide books and teachers.

The inspection should be performed every year. If the defects found are not remedied they should be brought to the attention of the parents again and again. Miss Rowe, the county nurse has assisted and much of the success of the undertaking has been due to her follow up work in the homes.

The summary of conditions found is as follows:

Number examined,-----	130
Number with defective eyes,-----	16
Number with defective hearing,-----	11
Number with defective teeth,-----	74
Number with diseased tonsils, -----	50
Number with adenoids, -----	22

There are about thirty elementary school pupils at the high school building who carry their dinners. Since the beginning of the winter term Miss Ross has remained at the school house during the noon hour and served hot cocoa. The expense to the pupil has been small, just enough to cover the actual cost. It is hoped that in the future a variety of warm lunches may be served.

The last legislature passed many new laws relating to schools, two of which I wish to call to your attention. The law relating to compulsory attendance is as follows:

“Every child between the seventh and fifteenth anniversaries of his birth and every child between the fifteenth and seventeenth anniversaries who cannot read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language, and every child between the fifteenth and sixteenth anniversaries who has not completed the sixth grade of the elementary school shall attend some public day school during the time such school is in session, and an absence of one half day or more shall be deemed a violation of this requirement."

Every absence is a violation of the law unless it is absolutely necessary.

The law relating to the distribution of state school money is radically changed. One of the most important provisions is that total attendance is used as one basis on which to divide the money. In former years it made no difference in the amount of money received from the state whether a pupil attended or not but under the present law every absence will mean an actual money loss to the town.

Before I close I wish to express my appreciation of the efforts of all those who have helped in any way to increase whatever success may have been attained during the year.

Respectfully submitted,

CLARENCE J. DUNLAP,

Superintendent of Schools.
