A sufficient quantity of 6 in. pipe, to connect High with Main St. sewer, was purchased, and we have also on hand, 150 ft. of 8 in. pipe, about 75 ft. of 10 in. pipe and a number of spades, picks and tools used in the construction of the sewer.

At the time the estimate was made, seven hundred dollars was considered an ample appropriation for the cost of sewer, but directly afterward, before an order could be placed, the cost of pipe had advanced fully 7 per cent. This made a difference of about one hundred dollars in the expense account, so had the connection on High St. been completed the cost would have greatly exceeded the appropriation.

The amount of material now on hand is about equal in value to the amount we have used in excess of the appropriation.

W. W. HASTINGS, Treasurer,

We hereby certify that we have examined the foregoing accounts of W. W. Hastings, Treasurer of the town of Bethel, for the year, ending Feb. 15, 1902, with vouchers therefor, and we believe them to be properly avouched and correctly cast.

S. B. TWITCHELL, Selectmen
C. E. BARKER, of
F. J. RUSSELL, Bethel,

Report of Superintendent of Schools for the Year Ending Feb. 18, 1902.

In submitting my second report for the consideration of the citizens of the town, I realize more strongly than ever before, the importance of representing the actual condition of the schools. In these days, when all the schools are under the control of a single committee of three, when the time-honored district school-meeting is a thing of the past, the report of the superintendent is the only medium through which those most interested may be apprised of what is going on; and in this report they should not be misled. Owing to the fact that the management has been taken from the immediate localities, citizens in general and parents in particular, it seems, are taking less and less interest in the schools, and are becoming less and less concerned in regard to the most important of the town's Citizens and parents do not visit the schools, and taxpayers are paying less and less attention to the school property and the expenditure of the fund annually appropriated for school purposes. While the present arrangement is essentially wise and economical, the keen and active interest that was so characteristic of the districts has been on the decline. The school is becoming less and less the intellectual center of the section in which it is situated. But this should not be so. The schools still belong to the citizens; the citizens are those in authority; the committee, superintendent, and teachers are the servants. The taxpayers should scrutinize closely the care of the school property. Parents, at least, should visit the schools and keep informed of what is going on, and from actual observation criticise whatever fails to meet their approval. As good schools may be had as the people demand, but the most faithful of servants, unless looked after and encouraged, will occasionally nod.

We have had a school year of thirty weeks. Eighteen different teachers have been employed, all but one of whom, residents of the town. Ten schools have been maintained the full number of weeks, and a spring term on Grover Hill. During the fall and winter term the scholars from Grover Hill were carried to the Flat and the two schools joined, to the satisfaction of the committee, the children and parents, too. By doing this and securing an experienced teacher, we had an interesting and profitable school. The spirit of emulation never yet aroused in consequence of small numbers in the individual schools could not be restrained. Seven teachers have held the same position through the year; five others served two terms in the same school; and one school had three different ones. The teachers have been well paid for their service—those outside the village a little better than ever before, I think and almost without exception have been faithful in the performance of their duties and have given an ample and adequate return. There may have been, here and there, a little lack of enthusiasm, here and there, a slight disposition to rest on past laurels, and a noticeable absence of the spirit of progress; but if so, let it all be charged up against the superintendent whose business it is, and who ought to have corrected these things.

It has been the aim of the committee to give the outlying schools the best teachers to be secured for the wages to be paid. It need not be argued that the boys and girls in sparsely settled sections are entitled to just as good instruction as those happening to live in the vilage or near its confines; they must not be stunted, dwarfed and demoralized mentally by a teacher, who finds life within the narrow walls a burden, and spends the weary hours in looking out the window and moping over a trashy novel. If there is any school in town that requires an alert, active, enthusiastic teacher, it is the small one. The cost per pupil, however, must necessarily be large, but the taxpayers must remember that a good teacher in a small school brings large returns, and must not be staggered by figures. A cheap teacher is dear at any price; none have been employed this year.

The importance of the matter of attendance is the only excuse I have for again mentioning the subject. But I must once more emphasize it, even if your patience is there-With the exception of two schools, the gain by wearied. in this direction over the previous year has been gratifying to those in charge, and teachers and parents have been chiefly instrumental in bringing this about. It does not matter how excellent the teacher is, how up-to-date the books are, or how pleasant and comfortable the schoolroom is, the work and progress of a school in which the attendance is irregular must be poor and unsatisfactory. The poor showing of the East Bethel and South Bethel schools is not entirely reprehensible—not so humiliating as appears from the figures. The measles and mumps have been scattered through the whole year among the children in the East Bethel school; and a scarlet fever scare in the South Bethel school accounts for the poor attendance there, in large measure, this winter term.

For the benefit of those who do not have access to the laws relating to this matter, I insert the vital parts of one section of the Public Laws of 1901, Chapter 185:

SEC. I. Every child between the ages of seven and fourteen inclusive shall attend some public day school during the time such school is in session; provided that necessary absence may be excused by the superintending committee, or the superintendent of schools, or teacher acting by direction of either:—All persons having children under their control shall cause same to attend school as provided in this section, and for EVERY neglect of such duty shall forfeit a sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars, to the treasurer of the city or town, or be imprisoned not exceeding thirty days.

With truant officers in the remote sections of the town, who will do their duty, the attendance in our schools may be kept up to the top notch.

It is the tendency of the present day to skim over many subjects and master none, and Bethel has not been and is not entirely free from such tendency. But we are, at least, keeping the fundamentals in sight. We are trying to teach Johnnie to read intelligently, to write legibly, to figure accurately, and to use the English language correctly; and to be a manly and honest boy. We realize that time spent in training his heart is time better employed than time spent in training him to keep perfect step to music, while marching in and out of school. Our writing, as a whole, is still poor, and much of our Arithmetic is carelessly done, but we are making progress.

The important repairs of the year, were the renovating of the West Bethel Flat house, shingling the Swan's Hill house, and putting new windows in the house at North Bethel, all necessary, absolutely. And in making these repairs, with other incidentals, the balance left over from last year has been exceeded. Repairing, however, once begun must be completed. We now have on the Flat—or will have when painted—a practically new house. Another year this house must be painted; the house at North Bethel must be shingled, plastered, and have a new floor; and something must be done to sweeten and purify the atmosphere in the West Bethel school-room. By closely joining the outhouse to the main building and connecting it with the basement, the committee in charge of the extensive repairs, not long since made, succeeded in rendering the school-room well night unfit for occupancy during a great part of the year. The parents and teachers of that school have been crying out against the nuisance for some time, but other absolutely necessary repairs had to be made. With these things done all the houses will be in excellent condition. By careful management this repairing ought to be done and the present deficit paid, with two hundred and fifty dollars.

The balance left in the treasury, last year, for books and supplies has been exceeded a small sum. However, only books and supplies actually necessary have been purchased. Another year, many of the books should be exchanged for new ones before they are entirely worn out and worthless. Two hundred dollars will be needed.

For the maintenance of the schools, three hundred dollars less than was raised last year—or twenty-two hundred—will be ample. We have used less than twenty-three hundred of last year's appropriation, and at present no reason can be foreseen why our revenues from other sources should not be as much. It is good policy not to raise too much.

The Milton-Bethel matter is being satisfactorily settled. Two propositions have been made to the assessors of Milton—one looking to the sale of the house to Milton, thereby giving them the management of the school—the other looking to a fair and equitable division of the cost of the school as at present located. The matter is to be submitted by the assessors to the voters of the Plantation at their March meeting.

On another page, I append a schedule so that each one may see at a glance the attendance of the several schools; the wages paid; and the cost of the teachers per pupil.

Thanking the teachers for their faithful and hearty co-operation with the committee, and the parents for their assistance and support in making the year a pleasant and profitable one, I respectfully submit the above.

H. H. HASTINGS.

Report of Board of Health.

The year ending Feb. 1, has been one of an average degree of health in the town. No disease has been epidemic. Two cases of scarlet fever and two of typhoid fever have been reported. There have been 26 deaths among residents, and from the following causes, viz: disease of heart 7, pneumonia 5, influenza 3, consumption 2, meningitis, typhoid fever, blood poisoning, bronchitis, disease of liver, poison, brain tumor, dysentery, and disease of bladder one each. 29 children were born, 17 male, 12 female. (One of these was stillborn).

The most important step ever taken by the town, in the direction of sanitary improvement, has been the construction of a sewer extending the entire length of Main St.; the pipe ranging in size from 6 to 10 inches. It was the intention to lay the pipe about 18 rods on High St. to connect with the schoolhouse sewer, but owing to the cold weather and difficulty in procuring workmen, it could not be done last fall. For the same reason most of the abuttors who were anxious to enter the sewer were unable to do so. This sewer drains the most congested part of the village and will abate many long existing nuisances.

While by far the most important part of the work has been nearly accomplished there are still other sections of the village needing drainage. We confidently hope the town will grant the amount that will be asked this year for the extension of the system. There cannot be any mistake in appropriating money for the preservation of the public health.

C. D. HILL, M. D., Chairman.

E. C. PARK, Secretary.

C. M. KIMBALL.
