4.

Then Roaming down Fifth Avenue
The St Bleedus met his eye.
He said, "I'll stop right here, By Gosh!"
And get me some pumpkin pie.
He grabbed a bill of fare, but when
The prices met his sight.
Though he was nearly starved to death
He lost his appetite.

5.

Poor Josh was nearly scared to death
When he saw a motor car.
He said, "By Gosh! I'll stop right here,
And see what these engines are."
Just then a motor came along
With many toots and squeaks,
And the information that he gained
Laid him up for thirteen weeks.

6.

When Josh got out he startet in
To roaming up and down;
He roamed until he found himself
Away down in Chinatown.
To a Chinese laundryman he said,
"You'll excuse me Sir I hope,
You may have used Sapolio,
But have you used Pears Soap?"

7.

He kept on roaming 'round the town
Till at last he chanced to fall
Into an Eastside rescue-room
Of a Salvation Army hall.
He asked, "What are you doing here?"
"We're saving girls you see"
He said, "By Gosh! that's just the thing,
Please save a few for me."

8.

He roamed up to the Polo Grounds
Upon a football day;
He'd heard "Bud" Green from Squantomville
On the Harvard team would play.
He heard "Bud" yell for help beneath
A pile of men from Yale;
Rushed to his aid, and when he woke
He found himself in jail.

9.

He roamed until at Brooklyn bridge
He happened to arrive;
He reached there at the busy time,
'Twas close on to half past five.
They rushed him here, they rushed him there,
They rushed him many rounds,
He lost his way, his watch, and chain,
And lost about ten pounds.

10.

Up to the Flatiron building next
Old Josh then chanced to go;
The wind was blowing while the girls
Were passing to and fro.
Josh said of all the sights in town
This is the best to see;
I'll roam no more, right here I'll stay;
This is the place for me.
