Maine Campus December 07 2015

Maine Campus Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/mainecampus

Repository Citation
https://digitalcommons.library.umaine.edu/mainecampus/5238

This Other is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@UMaine. It has been accepted for inclusion in Maine Campus Archives by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@UMaine. For more information, please contact um.library.technical.services@maine.edu.
Orono residents discuss proposed Rangefield Road roundabout

The Orono Bog Walk receives grant for renovations

Nicole Maines speaks about book, violence against transgender people

Orono residents discuss proposed Rangefield Road roundabout

The Orono Bog Walk receives grant for renovations

Nicole Maines speaks about book, violence against transgender people

On Nov. 24, the Orono Bog Boardwalk received a $50,000 grant from the Maine Timberlands Charitable Trust to use for renovations. According to the director of the Orono Bog Walk, Jen Bird, the grant will be used to help with the next phase of the renovating process.

"We've divided up the renovations in phases so we are working on phase A3, which is basically 48 sections between sections 461 and 509; some of the worst sections right around it. We have various naming opportunities and the grant will be named on the interpretive kiosk," Bird said.

The total cost of the renovation project is approximately $60,000 and the Orono Bog Walk has received grants in the past to help with the project. Boardwalk volunteers have raised money to renovate the first 252 sections as well.

The renovation project is set to be completed by 2017 and will include interactive signs with sponsorship from people who donated. All renovations are completed by volunteers and committee members.

"It is $5,000 per section so sponsorship and so $50,000 will sponsor the interpretive stations for $25,000 and 5 sections right around A3. We have various naming opportunities and the grant will be named on the interpretive kiosk," Bird said. The Orono Bog Walk brings in many students from the University of Maine area as a popular nature activity and is an educational tool for professors at the university. Free interpretative tours are available to groups who want to learn more about the Bog Walk.

"Like that you can have an intense experience in nature and it is not too far away from where we are on campus," Abby Bellefleur, a third-year student, said.

"It is a fun way to get outside without going to the gym and it is a good place to go to in the summertime," Elsa Thibodeau, a fourth-year student, said.

The interpretive stations talk about the post, the birds and other natural history about the specific sections. The seven stations are placed at various corners on campus.

"TheOroonoBogWalkistryingtoraisethe$60,000weneedtoworkthesevenstationswhichisapartofthePhasesA3renovations.

On Dec. 2, Orono Brewing Company hosted a release party for their beer benefiting Nicole Maines and her family.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family also attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

Nicole is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

Nicole Maines was born with instead of the one they were born with of the sex they were identified with.

"This is Nicole’s talk," Wayne Maines, her father, said. "It is a landmark decision in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 2014 regarding transgenders’ right to use bathrooms and bathrooms’ rights in schools. The court ruled that it was unlawful for a transgender child to be forced to use the bathroom of the sex to which they identify.

"Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family" was published in 2014 regarding the landmark decision in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 2014 regarding transgenders’ right to use bathrooms and bathrooms’ rights in schools. The court ruled that it was unlawful for a transgender child to be forced to use the bathroom of the sex to which they identify.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

"It is a fun way to get outside without going to the gym and it is a good place to go to in the summertime," Elsa Thibodeau, a fourth-year student, said.

The interpretive stations talk about the post, the birds and other natural history about the specific sections. The seven stations are placed at various corners on campus.

"It is a fun way to get outside without going to the gym and it is a good place to go to in the summertime," Elsa Thibodeau, a fourth-year student, said.

The interpretive stations talk about the post, the birds and other natural history about the specific sections. The seven stations are placed at various corners on campus.

"Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family" was published in 2014 regarding the landmark decision in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 2014 regarding transgenders’ right to use bathrooms and bathrooms’ rights in schools. The court ruled that it was unlawful for a transgender child to be forced to use the bathroom of the sex to which they identify.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

"Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family" was published in 2014 regarding the landmark decision in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 2014 regarding transgenders’ right to use bathrooms and bathrooms’ rights in schools. The court ruled that it was unlawful for a transgender child to be forced to use the bathroom of the sex to which they identify.

Nicole Maines is a first-year student at UMaine. She and her family attended the book-signing, reception and second evening lecture.

"Becoming Nicole: The Transformation of an American Family" was published in 2014 regarding the landmark decision in the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 2014 regarding transgenders’ right to use bathrooms and bathrooms’ rights in schools. The court ruled that it was unlawful for a transgender child to be forced to use the bathroom of the sex to which they identify.
The novel has already been a success in the state of Maine. Chris Brown, the chief financial officer of Bull Moose, a Maine-owned music, book, movie and video game retailer with locations across the state, says that "Becoming Nicole" is selling very well. "["Becoming Nicole"] started taking off in October when there was tons and tons of press about it," Brown said. "What's interesting is the Bangor store is selling the best [number of copies], the second best is Waterville, and so on. People knew her in Bangor. They want to hear her story."

While "Becoming Nicole" was the reason for the lecture, Nicole used the opportunity to speak out against trending violence and across the nation towards transgender people. "There are transgender kids across the nation that do not have what I have. Many of them live in states that do not protect them from bullying, harassment, and discrimination," Nicole Maines said. Nicole had a very clear message: "Violence against transgender women, transgender people, is on the rise. And it has to stop. I am here today to ask you to help stop this trend and eliminate the violence." Nicole concluded her portion of the lecture with a call to action. "At age 11, I learned that the only way to promote change was to get involved. I learned at a young age we have powerful voices, and I'm not done promoting change. So come join me."

Nicole Maines, along with her father Wayne, discusses her experiences as a transgender youth in the Donald P. Corbett Business Center on December 1, 2015.

Ian Ligget, Contributor
The Maine Campus

Monday, December 7, 2015

News A3

Letters to the Editor

The Truth Behind Orono’s Drinking Water: Weather is a key factor in whether the drinking water is contaminated or not. Rainwater is filtered through soil before it becomes drinking water. Heavy rains can increase the amount of silt and debris in the water, which can lead to contamination. Sunlight and temperature also affect thewater. Temperatures can increase the rate of evaporation, which can increase the concentration of chemicals in the water.

Bogwold A1

The Orono Bog Walk: Orono Bog Walk was a successful event. The weather was perfect, and the Orono Bog Walk is a great way to get outside and enjoy nature. It was a great opportunity to learn about the ecology of the bog and the importance of preserving these wetland areas.

Hammond Chambers

Pi Beta Phi and Phi Gamma Delta (FID) are partnering with the Student Affairs and Philanthropy Campaign to host thePhi Psi Fall Philanthropy event at the 7th House, located at 79 Chip- penden Rd. in Orono.

The event, which will include activities to spread holiday spirit and funds for the Maine islanders, is a fundraiser for the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

The event will be held on November 15th and will feature performances by Phi Psi and Phi Delta Theta. Attendees will have the opportunity to purchase holiday-themed items, such as winter scarves and hats, and make donations to the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

At the beginning of the event, Phi Psi and Phi Delta Theta will present a check to the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

The Phi Psi Fall Philanthropy event is an opportunity for students to get involved in philanthropy and to support important causes.

At the event, attendees will have the opportunity to learn more about the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice and to support its mission.

It is an event that is open to all students and is a great way to support a good cause.

The event will be held from 7-10 pm on November 15th.

Phi Pi and Phi Gamma Delta are partnering with the Student Affairs and Philanthropy Campaign to host thePhi Psi Fall Philanthropy event at the 7th House, located at 79 Chippen Rd. in Orono.

The event, which will include activities to spread holiday spirit and funds for the Maine islanders, is a fundraiser for the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

The event will be held on November 15th and will feature performances by Phi Psi and Phi Delta Theta. Attendees will have the opportunity to purchase holiday-themed items, such as winter scarves and hats, and make donations to the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

At the beginning of the event, Phi Psi and Phi Delta Theta will present a check to the Center for Interpersonal Peace and Justice.

The Phi Psi Fall Philanthropy event is an opportunity for students to get involved in philanthropy and to support important causes.
Weekly Updates

The World
This Week

Dec. 2 - Two assailants opened fire in San Bernardino, California at the Inland Regional Center, leaving 14 killed and 21 wounded. The shooters, a husband and wife, Syed Rizwan Farook and Tashfeen Malik were killed in a shootout with police. There is no sign the two were involved with any terrorist network, according to the LA Times.

Dec. 3 - The Senate passed a bill to nullify Obamacare and defund Planned Parenthood, two of the main targets of the Republican majority in the chamber. President Barack Obama will reportedly be vetoing the bill.

Dec. 6 - Iraq gave Turkey 48 hours to remove its troops from the country. They cited that Turkey invaded Iraq illegally and they will face "all available options" if they do not leave.

Please drink responsibly

A theft was reported at Phi Gamma Delta, known as FIJI, on 79 College Ave. Several hundred dollars in cash were reportedly stolen from the house. This matter is still under investigation.

10:15 p.m. - Double-ous intent

UMPD responded to an RA report of marijuana odors in Androscoggin Hall. Officers identified the room, and made contact with resident Adam Jannetti, a first-year student. Jannetti was compliant with the officers, handing over a small bag of marijuana. Jannetti was summoned for possession of marijuana and referred to JA.

Police Beat

The Beat from UMaine's finest

Sam Shepherd
News Editor

Nov. 18
12:08 p.m. - Organic herbal supplements
University of Maine Police Department (UMPD) responded to a report of a lost wallet at the New Balance Recreation and Fitness Center. The wallet was identified as belonging to Dimitri Dodge, a first-year student. Along with the usual possessions, a gram of honey wax oil, or wax dabs, was found in the wallet. Dodge admitted to possessing everything in the wallet, including the oil. A search of Dodge’s room yielded three pipes, one grinder, butane and a boiling pot that had wax residue in it. Dodge was summoned for possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia, also referred to Judicial Affairs (JA).

Nov. 20
7:30 p.m. - Nine is fine
A UMPD officer conducting foot patrol in Cumberland located a room that was being very noisy. The officer made contact with the resident, who was hosting nine people at the time. All the people in the room were students, and they all admitted to drinking or having alcohol. A large number of beers were relinquished to the officer. All were referred to JA.

Nov. 21
10:36 p.m. - The wrong approach
UMPD responded to a Resident Assistant (RA) report of a marijuana odor and loud noise in Cumberland Hall. The officer reported that there were six people in the room and they were not compliant, citing that they would not consent to a search. Five people in the room were referred. Christopher Proach, a first-year student, was arrested for an outstanding warrant in York County for failure to appear in court after a charge of operating under suspension.

Dec. 1
12:41 p.m. - New form of hazing
A theft was reported at Phi Gamma Delta, known as FIJI, on 79 College Ave. Several hundred dollars in cash were reportedly stolen from the house. This matter is still under investigation.

10:15 p.m. - Double-ous intent

UMPD responded to an RA report of marijuana odors in Androscoggin Hall. Officers identified the room, and made contact with resident Adam Jannetti, a first-year student. Jannetti was compliant with the officers, handing over a small bag of marijuana. Jannetti was summoned for possession of marijuana and referred to JA.

PREGNANT? Looking for the truth about all of your choices?
Mabel Wadsworth Women’s Health Center provides information and services to help you make the choice that is right for YOU, including:
- abortion
- adoption
- parenting

Don’t let anyone take your choices. We will give you accurate information without judgment.

YOU are in charge. Call 947-5337 today for more information or to make an appointment.

Mabel Wadsworth Women’s Health Center
www.mabelwadsworth.org

The University of ME

Humanities Center

Have a great end to the semester, our spring events will include:

Friday-Saturday, January 29-30
Downtown Bangor Public Humanities Day
Friday night PechaKucha kickoff, 7:00 p.m. Saturday programs TBA.
For info please contact Michael Griffio at michael.griffio@umit.maine.edu or 581-3246.

Saturday, April 2
Student bus trip to Portland to tour exhibit of William Shakespeare’s First Folio (1623) at Portland Public Library with a lecture by UMaine Professor Dick Bunker.

Tuesday, April 12
Maine Humanities Summit, 6:00-8:00 p.m., Senator Inn, Augusta
Panel and audience discussion of the humanities and veterans
Co-hosts include UMaine-Augusta and the Margaret Chase Smith Policy Center at UMaine.

For more information, visit umaine.edu/umhc or contact UMHC Director Liam Riordan (FirstClass) or at 581-1913
The Senate changed the way their elections would operate in the future by passing an amendment that would alter the election system from an “at large” to a college-based system. In the new system, three to seven senators will be elected from each academic college rather than 35 senators elected at large. The new election system is intended to increase participation from students less likely to run for office. The Senate failed to pass a resolution that would allow caucusing and internal leadership within the new electoral system. The Senate passed an act to include a new division of Student Leadership in the University of Maine Student Government. The Senate voted to uphold the Student Senate for the upcoming 2016 term. The Senate changed the way their elections would operate in the future by passing an amendment that would alter the election system from an “at large” to a college-based system. In the new system, three to seven senators will be elected from each academic college rather than 35 senators elected at large. The new election system is intended to increase participation from students less likely to run for office. The Senate failed to pass a resolution that would allow caucusing and internal leadership within the new electoral system. The Senate passed an act to include a new division of Student Leadership in the University of Maine Student Government. The Senate voted to uphold the Student Senate for the upcoming 2016 term. The Senate changed the way their elections would operate in the future by passing an amendment that would alter the election system from an “at large” to a college-based system. In the new system, three to seven senators will be elected from each academic college rather than 35 senators elected at large. The new election system is intended to increase participation from students less likely to run for office. The Senate failed to pass a resolution that would allow caucusing and internal leadership within the new electoral system. The Senate passed an act to include a new division of Student Leadership in the University of Maine Student Government. The Senate voted to uphold the Student Senate for the upcoming 2016 term.
The holidays are about more than giving and receiving gifts

Make taking care of your New Year’s resolution

The Maine Campus
The University of Maine student newspaper since 1875.

The Maine Campus is an independent student publication. It is completely produced by independent students of the University of Maine. Student subscriptions are provided for free through the communications fee.

Editorial and Production

Editor in Chief Anthony Foreman eic@mainecampus.com News Editor Samuel Lohr news@mainecampus.com Culture Editor Allen Borrett culture@mainecampus.com Opinion Editor Allyson Eslin opinion@mainecampus.com

Business and Advertising

Business Manager Zebediah Jenney business@mainecampus.com - 581.1233 Advertising Manager Stephen Jackson ads@mainecampus.com - 581.1215

For more stories and other advertising information, visit ad.mainecampus.com.

The attitudes and views expressed in the Opinion section are those of their authors only and do not necessarily represent the views of The Maine Campus or its staff.

Opinion Editor's Note

Holidays season a reason to celebrate, not spread indifference

With each passing winter, thanks in part to a 24-hour news cycle constantly feeding on stories too small to fill a whole page, we are slowly but surely slowly allowing popular culture, the drama and delusion of the news cycle, to reframe the way we view the holidays — moving them from a joyous celebration to one that is often tinged with sorrow and regret.

This year has proven to be no exception.

Although the United States has a diverse religious background, make no mistake: 22.6 percent of Americans report no religious affiliation. This is a non-Christian 6 percent of a non-Christian faith according to 2014 survey from the Pew Research Center, but religious diversity is often referred to and associated with the giving that has come to define the holiday season.

We are changing and with us, so is the way we approach celebrating the holiday season.

Though the push away from faith-based vernacular has bloomed from a desire to be more inclusive to those of a non-Christian background, the move from Christian-exclusive terminology has come with an increased and persistent backlash.

Unfortunately, in this but exclusive language, there have only been losers.

The celebration of the holidays in any manner, or the desire to have no concern to anyone other than the individual taking part in any way, should feel authentic to them — and really get nothing from each other.

And as much as I love the idea of giving — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other.

I hope this Christmas that you still have someone who cares about whether you do gym or not.

With each passing winter, thanks in part to a 24-hour news cycle constantly feeding on stories too small to fill a whole page, we are slowly but surely slowly allowing popular culture, the drama and delusion of the news cycle, to reframe the way we view the holidays — moving them from a joyous celebration to one that is often tinged with sorrow and regret.

This year has proven to be no exception.

Although the United States has a diverse religious background, make no mistake: 22.6 percent of Americans report no religious affiliation. This is a non-Christian 6 percent of a non-Christian faith according to 2014 survey from the Pew Research Center, but religious diversity is often referred to and associated with the giving that has come to define the holiday season.

We are changing and with us, so is the way we approach celebrating the holiday season.

Though the push away from faith-based vernacular has bloomed from a desire to be more inclusive to those of a non-Christian background, the move from Christian-exclusive terminology has come with an increased and persistent backlash.

Unfortunately, in this but exclusive language, there have only been losers.

The celebration of the holidays in any manner, or the desire to have no concern to anyone other than the individual taking part in any way, should feel authentic to them — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other.

I hope this Christmas that you still have someone who cares about whether you do gym or not.

With each passing winter, thanks in part to a 24-hour news cycle constantly feeding on stories too small to fill a whole page, we are slowly but surely slowly allowing popular culture, the drama and delusion of the news cycle, to reframe the way we view the holidays — moving them from a joyous celebration to one that is often tinged with sorrow and regret.

This year has proven to be no exception.

Although the United States has a diverse religious background, make no mistake: 22.6 percent of Americans report no religious affiliation. This is a non-Christian 6 percent of a non-Christian faith according to 2014 survey from the Pew Research Center, but religious diversity is often referred to and associated with the giving that has come to define the holiday season.

We are changing and with us, so is the way we approach celebrating the holiday season.

Though the push away from faith-based vernacular has bloomed from a desire to be more inclusive to those of a non-Christian background, the move from Christian-exclusive terminology has come with an increased and persistent backlash.

Unfortunately, in this but exclusive language, there have only been losers.

The celebration of the holidays in any manner, or the desire to have no concern to anyone other than the individual taking part in any way, should feel authentic to them — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other.

I hope this Christmas that you still have someone who cares about whether you do gym or not.

With each passing winter, thanks in part to a 24-hour news cycle constantly feeding on stories too small to fill a whole page, we are slowly but surely slowly allowing popular culture, the drama and delusion of the news cycle, to reframe the way we view the holidays — moving them from a joyous celebration to one that is often tinged with sorrow and regret.

This year has proven to be no exception.

Although the United States has a diverse religious background, make no mistake: 22.6 percent of Americans report no religious affiliation. This is a non-Christian 6 percent of a non-Christian faith according to 2014 survey from the Pew Research Center, but religious diversity is often referred to and associated with the giving that has come to define the holiday season.

We are changing and with us, so is the way we approach celebrating the holiday season.

Though the push away from faith-based vernacular has bloomed from a desire to be more inclusive to those of a non-Christian background, the move from Christian-exclusive terminology has come with an increased and persistent backlash.

Unfortunately, in this but exclusive language, there have only been losers.

The celebration of the holidays in any manner, or the desire to have no concern to anyone other than the individual taking part in any way, should feel authentic to them — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other — and really get nothing from each other.

I hope this Christmas that you still have someone who cares about whether you do gym or not.
The Effect of Technology on Communication

In recent years, there have been discussions about the impact of technology on communication. One concern is whether the use of technology has decreased face-to-face interaction, leading to a decrease in social skills. However, the reality is that technology has changed traditional communication into a more digital and convenient way of interacting. While technology has its pros and cons, it is not necessarily a destructive force that is taking over social issues.

Incorrect discourse: Why the Planned Parenthood shooting is not an act of terrorism

The Planned Parenthood shooting in Colorado in 2015 was a tragic event that caused panic and fear among many Americans. However, the shooter, Robert Dear, was not a terrorist. The shooting was not motivated by any political, religious, or ideological beliefs. The shooter was motivated by personal grievances and was not part of any terrorist group.

It is entirely appropriate to express this anger online, if we want to be concerned with those from away. If 14 people were murdered by a radicalized couple who were allegedly supporters of the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) in San Bernardino, Calif. on Dec. 6, 2015, it is entirely appropriate to do so.

A majority of Americans are concerned about terrorism. However, it is not only is it an insult to the victims, it is also an insult to humanity. We need to be more critical of this man’s behavior and beliefs, not the victims. And yet, that is what we are talking about.

This incorrect discourse is not only in the interest of women, it is an insult to humanity.

The Maine Campus
Monday, December 7, 2015

Opinion

Inaccurate discourse: Why the Planned Parenthood shooting is not an act of terrorism

The Planned Parenthood shooting in Colorado in 2015 was a tragic event that caused panic and fear among many Americans. However, the shooter, Robert Dear, was not a terrorist. The shooting was not motivated by any political, religious, or ideological beliefs. The shooter was motivated by personal grievances and was not part of any terrorist group.

It is entirely appropriate to express this anger online, if we want to be concerned with those from away. If 14 people were murdered by a radicalized couple who were allegedly supporters of the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) in San Bernardino, Calif. on Dec. 6, 2015, it is entirely appropriate to do so.

A majority of Americans are concerned about terrorism. However, it is not only is it an insult to the victims, it is also an insult to humanity. We need to be more critical of this man’s behavior and beliefs, not the victims. And yet, that is what we are talking about.

This incorrect discourse is not only in the interest of women, it is an insult to humanity.
Diversions

Crossword

Across
1. "Goodbye, Columbus" author
5. Pitying partner
10. Sheffield sister
14. Base-rolling cookie
15. "The Life of ___ Zola"
16. Phibbs's colleague
17. Baggage measurement
20. Terrorized estate
21. Hill button
22. Base manipulating amount
23. Close way
24. Charged areas
25. Table route
26. Move to a comic's ear
32. Music to a comic's ears
33. It lands at Ben Gurion
34. Bale fodder
35. Checked out
36. Herculean types
38. Gael's language
39. Decay
40. Place for an ace
41. Does the get-away driving, e.g.
42. 1948 Oscar-winning song
46. Double-curved molding
47. Mediterranean gift
48. Garlic feature
51. "___ plaisir!"
52. Type of station
55. Travelers' stop, perhaps
59. Give off
60. Antelope with twisted horns
61. Song for Madama Butterfly
62. Rat Pack nickname
63. Map collection
64. Base-reading

Down
1. Loungewear
2. Ph.D. exam
3. Presidential run
4. Snookums
5. Strong request
6. Kitty of "Gunsmoke"
7. Ritzy wrap
8. Timeworn
9. Bird's beak
10. Certain man of the cloth
11. Provoke
12. Mimicked
13. Center field great
18. "___ directed" (Rx order)
19. V old, as a marriage certificate
23. It's drawn with a rifle?
24. Not up to anything
25. Firth of Lorn resort
26. Marshy arm
27. Gable role
28. Ancient Greek games site
29. Hurled
30. Some bridge players
31. Food grains
32. Cardamom or caraway, e.g.
36. Make perfect
37. "Anything ___?"
38. Dark, poetically
40. Incredible Hulk?
41. How some are taken
43. Pizza base
44. Nine days of services
45. Doesn't look forward to
46. Tarked in
47. Mediterranean gulf
48. Garlic feature
50. Frigg's husband
51. Asian salt sea
54. Reprieve from the governor
56. Fed watchdog
57. Short order?
58. Office staple

Word Search: Christmas

ANGEL
BELLS
BETHLEHEM
CANDLES
CAROLS
DECORATIONS
EGGNOG
FRIENDS
FRUITCAKE
GABRIEL
GIFTS
GOLD
GREETING CARDS
ICE
ICICLES
JOSEPH
LIGHTS
MARRY
MISTLETOE
MYRRH
ORNAMENTS
PONSETTIA
SANTA
SHEPHERDS
SKATES
SLEIGH
SNOWFLAKES
SNOWMAN
STABLE
STAR
STOCKING
THREE WISE MEN
TOBOSGAN
TOYS
TREE
WREATH

Word Scramble: Christmas

1. NCYAD
2. TOPI
3. TASN
4. ERBUNE
5. GERZNTK
6. ETSPNDR
7. PSAR
8. LEBL
9. GLSBE
10. ERET
11. BOPFHLID
12. PEL
13. ARCT
14. CEDRIM
15. OTHERHCL

Sudoku

Each row, column and 3x3 square must have numbers 1 - 9 in any order. But each digit can only appear once. There is only one correct answer.

Difficulty level: Medium

wordsearches.net. Answer key located on A5

Word Scrambles: Christmas

puzzles.ca. Answer key located on A5

Sudoku

puzzles.ca. Answer key located on A5

Flip this page for puzzle answers

Cyanide & Happiness

Cyanide & Happiness
By Dave McElfatrick

Nedroid

Nedroid
By Anthony Clark

Exploiton.net

The Maine Campus
Monday, December 7, 2015

Diversions

A8 • Diversions

40. Place for an ace
41. Does the get-away driving, e.g.
42. 1948 Oscar-winning song
46. Double-curved molding
47. Mediterranean gift
48. Garlic feature
51. "___ plaisir!"
52. Type of station
55. Travelers' stop, perhaps
59. Give off
60. Antelope with twisted horns
61. Song for Madama Butterfly
62. Rat Pack nickname
63. Map collection
64. Base-reading

XKCD

By Randall Munroe

XKCD

By Randall Munroe

Exploiton.net
Staff Writer

The smell of pancakes and hot cocoa filled the air at the Memorial Union Student Center on Sunday, Nov. 8 as Operation HEARTS’ Breakfast hosts with Santa event took place. What started 20 years ago as a single event has turned into a family affair. But because of the pandemic, the Bradsons moved it online.

"We’ve been doing this for 20 years, and because of the pandemic, we had to move it online," said Emilia Bradson, and this year the group has managed to pull it off.

"We travel all around the county, but it’s really nice to have a lot of local students and businesses in the community," Bradson said. "We’re really happy to be here for the community and we let them know that we’re really happy to be here for the community."

"We lost a lot of daytime business because so many people were getting more nighttime. We lost a lot of our local people, and we’re really happy to see that we still have our rights on bringing all that back," Robert Bradson said.

"We love supporting the local innovation, the store, and the community is continually finding ways to support local business," said Robert Bradson.

"Having my daughter and daughter-in-law both live downtown, the idea of being downtown was something that we loved, because she is reinventing it — it’s very exciting," Robert Bradson said.

Jim McUsic

Emilia Bradson moved back to her hometown this past spring, after a successful career in Maine and Virginia. She is now reinventing it because she is reinventing it — it’s very exciting,

"And that just ties into the town," Robert Bradson said. "Our employees and it was just natural for them to continue to help the store and the town can grow and grow, and the Bradsons stuck to help the store.

"We lost a lot of daytime business because so many people were getting more nighttime. We lost a lot of our local people, and we’re really happy to see that we still have our rights on bringing all that back," Robert Bradson said.

"We love supporting the local innovation, the store, and the community is continually finding ways to support local business," said Robert Bradson.

"Having my daughter and daughter-in-law both live downtown, the idea of being downtown was something that we loved, because she is reinventing it — it’s very exciting," Robert Bradson said.

Jim McUsic

Emilia Bradson moved back to her hometown this past spring, after a successful career in Maine and Virginia. She is now reinventing it because she is reinventing it — it’s very exciting,

"And that just ties into the town," Robert Bradson said. "Our employees and it was just natural for them to continue to help the store and the town can grow and grow, and the Bradsons stuck to help the store.

"We lost a lot of daytime business because so many people were getting more nighttime. We lost a lot of our local people, and we’re really happy to see that we still have our rights on bringing all that back," Robert Bradson said.

"We love supporting the local innovation, the store, and the community is continually finding ways to support local business," said Robert Bradson.

"Having my daughter and daughter-in-law both live downtown, the idea of being downtown was something that we loved, because she is reinventing it — it’s very exciting," Robert Bradson said.
Customers go ‘Ass over Teakettle’ for alumn’s new business

Senior Art Exhibition shows off student work

International students share holiday traditions

---

Customers go ‘Ass over Teakettle’ for alumn’s new business

With a little help from the Top Gun Entrepreneurial Accelerator, Jocelyn Nerney is ready to take her business through the Maine Center for Entrepreneurial Development. Her business, Ass over Teakettle, will soon be on display as part of the annual Student Exhibition in the fall, said the art department, which is a five-month program that helps students launch the business of their choice. It is a good time for students to focus on the business of business and teach themselves about running a business. It is a good time for students to focus on the business of business and teach themselves about running a business.

---

Senior Art Exhibition shows off student work

The 2015 Senior Art Exhibi- tion, which opened on Thursday, April 23, at the Hostetter Gallery, is a celebration of the student experience and a showcase of the student's work. The show will run until May 22 and display various works of art, including paintings, sculptures, and installations. The exhibition is open to the public and is free of charge.

---

International students share holiday traditions

As the holiday season approaches, international students at the University of Maine share their traditions and experiences with each other. Some students are excited to celebrate their cultural traditions, while others are more open to trying new things. Regardless of their backgrounds, all students are united in their desire to create memorable holiday experiences.
On Sunday, Dec. 6, the University of Maine School of Performance and Dance hosted its 37th Annual Yuletide Concert at the CCA and it was excellent. The concert featured 220 of the university’s best students, including the Maine School of Dance, the University Orchestra, the Black Bear Men’s Choir and the University Women’s Choir, as well as guest conductors.

The concert started at 2 p.m. and featured a variety of Christmas music. The concert opened with Handel’s “Messiah” and continued with familiar Christmas carols such as “Festival First Nowell,” “O Holy Night,” “Hark! The Herald Angels Sing,” “Jingle Bells,” “Silent Night,” and “O Come, All Ye Faithful.”

The concert featured several world-renowned performers, including the University Orchestra, the University Choir, the Black Bear Men’s Choir, and the University Women’s Choir. The concert also featured a variety of Christmas carols, including “Festive First Nowell,” “O Holy Night,” “Hark! The Herald Angels Sing,” “Jingle Bells,” “Silent Night,” and “O Come, All Ye Faithful.”

The concert was well-received by the audience, who gave a standing ovation at the end of the performance.

The performance was a beautiful way to kick off the holiday season, and it was enjoyed by all who attended.
Light Up the Night: Orono residents, UMaine students organize holiday celebration and 150th anniversary of the University

by Chloe Dyer

Staff Writer

Three Dyers

Light up the Night, is a holiday celebration that takes place every December in downtown Orono, is happening this Monday, Dec. 7. Scheduled events include caroling, a tree lighting, visits with Santa Claus, performances from singers and a parade with floats and fire trucks.

This year, the theme of the event is the 150th anniversary of the University of Maine, which is one way that the Orono community hopes to include the UMaine community in the festivities. The University of Maine Credit Union (UCU) in downtown Orono, then to the University Inn. The inn is selling 50 commemorative coins for the 150th anniversary that can be used at participating downtown businesses for deals. There can be used through the month of December.

We are all working together to celebrate the holiday season and the 150th celebration," Tracey Whitman, owner of the University Inn, said.

Whitten said that last year her guests showed a couple hundred people.

Whitten is part of a planning board for the Light Up the Night event, which includes Orono residents, members of the town office and the library director, as well as student Harold "Trey" Stewart, president of UMaine Student Government (UMSG).

"It is pretty exciting actually, because all the parties are pitching in in some way. It is important for the town to include the university because they are a part of the community," Whitman added.

Laurie Carpenter, director of UMaine Public Library, is also on the planning board. This is her first year planning the event.

"Carpenter said she was involved in various aspects of planning, including creating different groups in town as well as at the university, and combining the anniversary with the holiday season.

Carpenter said that she feels that the event highlights the importance of, "coming together to celebrate a holiday season and bringing both town and university members to the downtown area, and promoting the businesses downtown."

Stewart was the only student involved on the planning board from UMaine. In May, he was inducted into the role of UMSG president. Last year, he took part in planning the Winter Carnival, but this is his first year helping with Light Up the Night.

The flood was "almost a natural disaster, and it's so easy to kind of brainstorm about," Carpenter said that the the flood was "almost a natural disaster, and it's so easy to kind of brainstorm about," Carpenter said.

"I'm doing a beer where money goes to benefit the Orono Bog Boardwalk and their capital campaign to replace and renew in walkway.

"We've had a long-standing love of the Orono Land Trust," Heather Furth, who is the co-owner of Orono Brewing Company beside her husband, Abe Furth, said. "[Orono and Paris] came to us and talked about trying to start some sort of fundraiser. So, we thought about doing it and then it's just trying to find a beer that's going to be special edition benefit ale

"One of the things that I was excited about is the music part. We had a great line-up of music between UMaine Brewing Company and we kind of brainstormed about it and thought about perhaps doing a beer where money from each pint sold will go to the Land Trust," Furth said.

The ale, which is light in color, heavy in alcohol content and syrupy in flavor, costs only $8 per pint, with $5 of the profits from each pint going directly to the Orono Land Trust.

"What's happening in and around Orono this week"

Monday, Dec. 7

Light Up the Night

4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Downtown Orono, University Inn Free

Tuesday, Dec. 8

Symphonic Band Concert

7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Collins Center for the Arts $9 to $25, or free with student MaineCard

Thursday, Dec. 10

Fall Dance Showcase*

2:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Hauck Auditorium $9 to $25, or free with student MaineCard

Friday, Dec. 11

MPAC Ishamology Discussion

3 p.m.

FIFA Room, Memorial Union Free
In a highly anticipated showdown between bitter rivals, the University of Maine men’s hockey team tied the University of New Hampshire (UNH) 3-3 in overtime at the Cross Insurance Arena. All of Maine’s points came in a sudden-death overtime, but the Black Bears scored three consecutive goals within five minutes. With a career-high 39 save performance, second-year goaltender Daniel Tirone played lights out for New Hampshire, keeping the Wildcats at bay. The Black Bears could not find a way around him, as Maine ended up losing in overtime. The game was a highly anticipated showdown between two teams that have won the Hockey East title in the past. The Black Bears had a strong performance, but the Wildcats were able to come out on top. The final score was 3-3.
The Maine Campus

Monday, December 7, 2015

Men’s Hockey

from B1

Each team had a chance to win the game, as both sides took a shot on the goal from the beginning. After forward Steven Swavely had an opportunity to steal the puck with a minute and a half left in regulation on the play, Swavely spun by a defender and shot. The puck deflected off a defender and hit the puck towards New Hampshire’s net. At the last second, texting, the clock expired, preserving the 3-3 tie.

Despite outshooting New Hampshire 53-16 in the match, Maine could not capitalize on some key opportunities. Outside of a high-scoring, five-minute performance in the second period, the Black Bears found no points. Their power play was continued as they went 0-1, while the Wildcats went 2-2. Morris finished the game with 33 saves, while Tippie put up 50 in his dominant performance.

UNH drops Maine 5-2

The Black Bears did not fare better at the Whitmore Center, dropping a 5-2 decision on the road.

The Wildcats were held to their lowest performance from fourth-year goalie Dan Lacroix and fourth-year forward Steven Swavely. Goalscoring, once again was the key to UNH’s success, as second-year grinder Dave Cordini had one of his most impressive starts, stopping 28 shots between the pipes on two goals.

The first goal was scored at the 3:29 mark by Poturalski. After clearing the defensive zone uncontested, Poturalski skated into the offensive room uncontested. Getting within reach of UNH’s Net, Poturalski netted the quick shot from the back post, and was thrown into the net by Nazarius to increase the lead to 1-0.

The second goal was scored at 7:11, after a turnover by the UNH defense was able to get a quick goal in the back of the net. After a turnover by the Maine defense, Smith found some open space in the corner of the net. The shot was stopped by McGovern. After some pushing and shoving at the end of the period, Maine would pull the goalie, and UNH would take advantage of the empty net goal to seal the win.

The Black Bears started first-year Nick McGovern in goal, while putting up 21 shots on 29 for a .724 save percentage. Army came away with four goals. In the second half, Army would pull their goalie, Devine Eke, to put on a show, posting a career-high night on Wednesday by netting 29 points and battling in 16 rebounds against Maine in the 84-71 loss. It was a high-tempo, fast-paced game throughout the entire period.

Maine lost this game for themselves in the first half, they were caught sleeping, getting outscored 30-29. The Black Bears allowed Army to shoot the lights out of the ball from the beyond the arc in the first half, concealing 8-of-17 shooting from downtown. Not only could Maine not stop the three-ball, they couldn’t prevent Army on the other side of the floor and the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Eke was the real deal for Head Coach Bob Walsh, putting his talent on full display Wednesday night. Eke shot 14-for-18 from the field for the game-high 29 points and collected nine rebounds and four assists. Though he came off the bench, he played a team-high 30 minutes and most of his playing time was towards the end of the game.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Army and Marquette defeat men’s basketball over the weekend

First-year star forward Devine Eke put on a show, posting a career-high night on Wednesday by netting 29 points and battling in 16 rebounds against Maine in the 84-71 loss. It was a high-tempo, fast-paced game throughout the entire period.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Eke was the real deal for Head Coach Bob Walsh, putting his talent on full display Wednesday night. Eke shot 14-for-18 from the field for the game-high 29 points and collected nine rebounds and four assists. Though he came off the bench, he played a team-high 30 minutes and most of his playing time was towards the end of the game.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Eke was the real deal for Head Coach Bob Walsh, putting his talent on full display Wednesday night. Eke shot 14-for-18 from the field for the game-high 29 points and collected nine rebounds and four assists. Though he came off the bench, he played a team-high 30 minutes and most of his playing time was towards the end of the game.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Eke was the real deal for Head Coach Bob Walsh, putting his talent on full display Wednesday night. Eke shot 14-for-18 from the field for the game-high 29 points and collected nine rebounds and four assists. Though he came off the bench, he played a team-high 30 minutes and most of his playing time was towards the end of the game.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.

Eke was the real deal for Head Coach Bob Walsh, putting his talent on full display Wednesday night. Eke shot 14-for-18 from the field for the game-high 29 points and collected nine rebounds and four assists. Though he came off the bench, he played a team-high 30 minutes and most of his playing time was towards the end of the game.

Kevin Little wasn’t at his best on Wednesday night, but was still able to contribute 16 points, five rebounds and four assists. His performance was an impressive impact towards the end of the game and delivered a perfect pass in stride like for like for the thunderous alley-oop to cap off a 16-4 Maine run that cut the lead from 23 to 13 with just under three minutes left on the clock. First-year guard Ryan Bonnistein was extremely electric coming off the bench providing the spark the Black Bears needed, dropping in a career-high 11 points on 5-of-11 shooting.
Women's hockey swept by No. 2 Boston College

By Krysta Bergeroglu

In the first of a two game weekend series, the University of Maine women’s hockey town found themselves overwhelmed by undefeated Boston College, as the Eagles skated the Black Bears 5-0 at Saturday afternoon at the Alfond Arena. With four assists and a goal, fourth-year forward Alex Carpenter gave Maine nightmares all over the ice. After the shutout, the Black Bears have now gone eight straight games without a score, a concern spanning almost three games.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East game. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.

Goaltender Katie Bart.

The statement victory helped the Eagles continue their perfect East series. With their sixth straight loss, the Black Bears helplessly watching as their season slips away, falling to 6-12-0 on the year, with 5-6 points in each game. For a short-term solution it paid off, as they recorded their seventh shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari saved 20 of the 22 attempts that came her way, as she had a slightly improved performance than Treacy, who stopped 15 of 23 shots.

When it came down to getting pressure, Boston held the advantage as they outshot Maine 44-15. In the first period, third-year forward Haley Skarupa, who shot the puck off the right circle, allowing Treacy to back out and scoring immediately. In goal, preserving the 5-0 win was the Black Bears’ first shutout of the season. In goal for Maine, Fujimagari twice in the final period. In the second period, second-year forward Kate Bart. Playing nearly perfectly in the contest was getting the best of the night, as the Black Bears faced in goal, preserving the 5-0 win for the game weekend series.
Though they lost, the Black Bears played their hearts out against one of the best teams in the nation. Moving forward, Maine aims to learn from this loss, so they can get better down the road.

“We did a lot of really good things, we’ve been working on, but I think there were a lot of positives, and I think we can do and see what we can add,” Reichenbach said.

BC completes sweep with 7-3 victory

Maine was outmanned once again in game two, dropping the contest 7-2 to complete the weekend series.

BC scored twice in the first period, after both teams settled in nicely by the third period, but could not lead to four again. The Eagles would score when the period ended.

Both teams had scoring at the end of the tipping a second-year Gabriella Switaj and the Black Bears to Meghan. Switaj made 24 shots and allowed two while Treacy made 25 saves in relief.

BC’s Vonne overwhelmed the Maine defense, and outshot the Black Bears 53-32. They were also 1-6 on the power play taking six shots while they had the man advantage. Maine was 1-3 on the power play during the game.

BC owned the Black Bears in the first period, jumping out to a four-goal lead and outscoring Maine 25-3. BC would own 4-3 on the power play during the game.

BC outscored the Black Bears in the second period, taking a lead into the third period, and would go on to win 7-2.

Boston College started second-year Kobe Burt and Maine lost with off third-year Matt Fujimagari.

But made three saves in the first while Pajunen faced 25 shots, stopping 21 and allowing four goals.

Both teams switched goalies at the end of the second-year Gabriella Switaj and the Black Bears to Meghan. Switaj made 24 shots and allowed two while Treacy made 25 saves in relief.

BC’s Vonne overwhelmed the Maine defense, and outshot the Black Bears 53-32. They were also 1-6 on the power play taking six shots while they had the man advantage. Maine was 1-3 on the power play during the game.

BC owned the Black Bears in the first period, jumping out to a four-goal lead and outscoring Maine 25-3. BC would own 4-3 on the power play during the game.

BC outscored the Black Bears in the second period, taking a lead into the third period, and would go on to win 7-2.

Boston College started second-year Kobe Burt and Maine lost with off third-year Matt Fujimagari.

But made three saves in the first while Pajunen faced 25 shots, stopping 21 and allowing four goals.

Both teams switched goalies at the end of the second-year Gabriella Switaj and the Black Bears to Meghan. Switaj made 24 shots and allowed two while Treacy made 25 saves in relief.

BC’s Vonne overwhelmed the Maine defense, and outshot the Black Bears 53-32. They were also 1-6 on the power play taking six shots while they had the man advantage. Maine was 1-3 on the power play during the game.

BC owned the Black Bears in the first period, jumping out to a four-goal lead and outscoring Maine 25-3. BC would own 4-3 on the power play during the game.

BC outscored the Black Bears in the second period, taking a lead into the third period, and would go on to win 7-2.
After a successful trip to Florida, it was time to get back to Maine and get ready for the second month of December was holding for us.

We finished the month with a record of 7-3, but we were looking for an even better start to the new month, as November was a month that tested our mettle. We had 10 games and seven of them were away. It was an opportunity to give the program a chance to really test our group of new faces and discover some pretty promising young talents.

Our first game was a big one against Colby. What better way to start the new month than with a game? Even though Coach Head Julie Veilleux said before school closed that the worst thing we could do was take them lightly. And we sure did the coaches prepared.

Swimming from B3

Chloe Adams for the women's swim and dive team.

One of our main focuses for the next month is to have a great start in the game and show them what we are all about.

Logan McGill with a time of 1:01.26 in the 100-yard freestyle, placing second in the final heat.

Emma Blackader was another crucial competitor for us.

She finished fourth in the 50-yard breaststroke.

There were no holds at all against Colby. What better way to start the new month than with a game? Even though Coach Head Julie Veilleux said before school closed that the worst thing we could do was take them lightly. And we sure did.

Women's basketball ready for December action

We’ve never played this game before, we just put it on the schedule because we’re excited to see something new. We are headed to Dartmouth on Sunday afternoon and dropped the game. It is disappointing because we couldn’t get a lot of offense to work for the Black Bears.

The University of Maine Black Bears gave up 22 points in the paint, but were able to outrebound Maine 34-20. First-year guard Jess Brouillette had 18 points on six-of-nine shooting while adding five rebounds.

Fourth-year forward Devine Eke was the lone bright spot for the Black Bears. Eke scored 18 points on 7-of-10 shooting while grabbing five rebounds and three assists. First-year guard Kevin Little put in 11 points and six rebounds. Harwood both finished with 10 points and four assists.

After being on the road with a lot of traveling, which seven of them were away. It was also exciting because we won the game. We were able to close out our win.

The second-year center Haley Diplock and a layup from fourth-year forward Sigi Koizar led Maine with 16 points.

Though they may have been tough,” Barron said. “We were really tough,” Barron said. “We had to be successful for the first 20 minutes and forced them to commit to 20 turnovers. Even though we led by 12 in the half, we really able to take control of the game. We played poorly on offense and made some really poor defensive action which led to an 18-0 run in the game and gave us the game with a score of 82-44.

This loss is extremely disappointing, because it points us in the right direction and we need to work on improving our performance. We are playing a really good team tonight, they competed with an edge from the beginning and we didn’t get to come back enough to get those really big game performers.

Though they may have been tough,” Barron said. “We had to be successful for the first 20 minutes and forced them to commit to 20 turnovers. Even though we led by 12 in the half, we really able to take control of the game. We played poorly on offense and made some really poor defensive action which led to an 18-0 run in the game and gave us the game with a score of 82-44.

This loss is extremely disappointing, because it points us in the right direction and we need to work on improving our performance. We are playing a really good team tonight, they competed with an edge from the beginning and we didn’t get to come back enough to get those really big game performers.
Single Stream Recycling
It’s as easy as 1-2-3!

1. Find a designated blue single-stream bin

   Office Bin

   Building Bins

   Dining Bins

2. Place empty, accepted materials into the blue bin
   NO SORTING NECESSARY!

   Cardboard
   - Cereal Boxes
   - Pizza Boxes
   - Paper Towel
   - Cores
   - Egg Cartons
   - Beverage Holders

   Paper
   - Newspapers
   - Junk Mail
   - Envelopes
   - Magazines
   - Soft Cover Books
   - Brown Bags

   Plastic
   - Containers #1 - #7
   (Milk Jugs, Bleach, Detergent, Shampoo, Bottles, etc.)

   Glass
   - Bottles and Containers
     (any color)

   Metal
   - Aluminum
   - Tin
   - Steel Kitchen Cans
   - Aluminum Pie Plates
   - Trays/Containers

   Non-recyclable items: recyclables containing food waste, plastic cups containing liquid and/or ice, plastic drinking straws, window glass, mirrors and light bulbs, dishes, pyrex, ceramics, foam packaging, styrofoam, pots and pans, VCR tapes, tools, plastic bags, or paint or oils, hazardous materials

3. Let UMaine staff take it from there!
   It really is that easy!

So how does it work?
Collected material is transported to a Zero-Sort processing facility in Boston where materials are sorted, baled, and sold on the recyclable commodities market!

For more information visit www.sustainability.umaine.edu