Total for roads and bridges.		$2,416 74

In closing this account we wish to state that it has been our desire to keep our roads in a safe condition and at the same time save enough from the regular appropriation to reduce our largely overdrawn balance of 1902; but having built several small bridges and three large ones, has made it impossible to do this.

We had overdrawn this account one year ago to the amount of $812.72 and to-day it remains overdrawn $229.46.

Among the permanent improvements we mention the three bridges which cost $498.79 as shown by the foregoing accounts. There has also been three smaller culverts built within the village and several out of the village. One near the Newburgh line was raised by L. L. Colson which cost $29 38.

The hill near P. Smith's was turnpiked and drained and the hill below J. M. Snow's on the road to Frankfort, was covered with clay and gravelled.

We hope to recover $14.00 on a note due Mary A. Baker at the time of her death. She is a foreign pauper and we cannot recover from her people.

Mr. Coppin is not likely to be any better and this charge will become fixed, which will at the present price average $131.08 a year.

The expense of Mr. Page may be recovered from his estate. The average cost for each person on the farm during the year has been $60.20 or 16½ cents a day.

From the above we learn that the cost of the poor was:

Abatements on page 4 to A. J. Crocker should be to A. J. Crooker.

In closing this report we are glad to say that the plan for collecting our taxes within one year from their commitment is working to the town's advantage as may be readily seen, when we report that the note reported last year is paid and that outstanding orders are over $1000 less. Another year of the same improvement will enable the town to meet its bills promptly.

We therefore earnestly hope that the town will vote to pass such measures as will tend to bring about this condition and at the same time help the collector of taxes and itself.

Mr. Cole will settle with the town on June 7th, next, so that all taxes due to him must be paid previous to that date or he must pay them himself. Tax payers who owe him a tax will please govern themselves accordingly. In the case of taxes due previous to 1902, there can be no excuse, except in rare cases, for their non payment.

The town lines between Winterport, Monroe and Frankfort have been perambulated. The monuments on the Monroe line have been reset and marked while the Frankfort line has never been marked since the division of the towns. Monuments have been set on the Penobscot river, road, and Marsh river, and the angles marked on the Hardy and Birmingham lines, as required by law.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools

OF THE

Town of Winterport,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING MARCH, 1903.

To the inhabitants of Winterport:—

I herewith submit a report of the public schools of Winterport for the past year.

Statistics of the financial expenditures for transportation, fuel, janitor service, repairs, textbooks, and school supplies will be found in the selectmen's report.

From my intimate knowledge of the work of our schools during the past year I am able to form an intelligent opinion of their condition today, and I have pleasure in saying that opinion is a favorable one. Reason could be given for statement that on the whole they are doing better work than ever before. Under the new method of administration we have happily got far beyond the possibility of hearing it truthfully said, as it frequently used to be in the good old days, that some school has been absolutely worthless and the money spent in its maintenance wasted. All our schools, with varying degrees of excellence, are now accomplishing good results. Radical changes for the better are hardly to be expected from year to year, but with careful attention to the details of school management on the part of school officials aided by the active interest and co-operation of parents a gradual and constant improvement will be made as time goes by.

REPAIRS.

The committee have, I think, looked carefully after the various school buildings, and made such repairs as they thought necessary and in accordance with the sum appropriated.

During the spring the North Village school house was painted and some much needed repairs to the interior were made. The schoolhouse at Moody's Mills was shingled, the room newly painted and kalso-mined, and as light colors were used throughout, an altogether more cheerful look has been given the gloomy interior. One-half the roof of the school-house at Ellingwood's Corner was shingled; and such repairs as were absolutely necessary were made on other school buildings. As is usually the case, the total cost of the repairs on these buildings much exceeded the estimate. A wood shed was built at Goshen, No. 8. On account of the large expense for repairs, this was the only one built. We believe the work should continue until every school-house is supplied with suitable out buildings. We would recommend building one, the coming year, at Carlton's No. 1. The interior of the school-house, at this place, should be painted and kelsomined.

The seats in some of our school-houses are old and have long outlived their beauty and usefulness. These home-made articles which have been there for a generation, were evidently intended primarily for the use of adults, and incidentally for the discomfort and inconvenience of the children. They should be removed and modern desks put in their place.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

The three partial changes made in text books last year was completed this year. Our Geographys having become so badly worn that new ones were imperatively demanded, advantage was taken of this necessity to adopt different ones. After careful examination and comparison of the publications of various houses, Roddy's Geographys were selected as in our opinion best adapted to our schools. Teachers and pupils alike always respond to the stimulus of new books, and money expended for them cannot fail of proving a good investment.

It has been affirmed by some that an unreasonable amount of money is expended for books. We have spent, this year, somewhat over $200 for books. We have registered three hundred thirty-eight pupils. It is not difficult to see that the average amount expended for each pupil has been less than sixty cents,—hardly more than enough to buy a small reader for each pupil. When the wear of the books is considered, the varying number of pupils in classes, and the number of books used by each member of the higher classes, it will be plain to a well disposed critic that a reasonable amount of money is required each year, in order to supply the pupils with the books which every parent would feel justified in demanding, if the superintendent failed to provide them. A very little intelligent inquiry into, or well directed thought upon this matter from the standpoint from which every superintendent is obliged to consider the subject, would prevent any harsh or unfounded criticism.

SCHOOLS.

We have had thirty weeks of school the past year, divided into three terms of ten weeks each, in all the school-rooms.

The pupils of the Free High School have had the benefit of thirty six week of school during the year, divided into three terms of twelve weeks each. The first half of the spring term was taught by Geo. B. Heath, the last half by Frederick F. Williams. The fall and winter terms were under the instancion of John I. Frederick.

The work of the High School has progressed smoothly and well during the last two terms. To those who see the inner working of the school it is evident that the classes are steadily being brought to a high standard of excellence. If any citizen still has any doubts as to the wisdom of the town in supporting this "expensive luxury," an hour spent in this room might lead him to change his opinion. The visitor would soon notice that the scholars were almost without exception earnestly at work each minding his own business and paying little attention to his neighbor's doings. If a recitation were in progress, he could not fail to be pleased with the attention given by each member of the class, and to the thoroughness of the drill received. Hard work is required of them of course, but pupils of this grade are old enough to relized the necessity of hard work if they are to derive any benefit from their school life.

After spending a number of half days in visits to their school rooms it would have been easy for me to speak more in detail of the merits and deficiencies of each teacher. Personal criticism of this kind, however, is usually most beneficial when given in private to one chiefly interested. Suffice it to say that as a body they have done faithful and efficient service. As a rule, the teachers have gained the good will and hearty co-operation of students, who, in most cases, have made steady and marked advancement. Much of our success, however, depends upon parents, and it is gratifying to know that, as a rule, the parents of our pupils are deeply interested in our schools. It should be so in every instance. Teach your children to respect and obey their teachers, encourage them to study at home, and insist upon their regular attendance at school.

IN CONCLUSION.

Though there are still many things to be accomplished before our schools can do the work that they should be doing, or can receive the support and encouragement which the school system in every place should receive from those directly interested, yet I know that an advance in the right direction has been made. It is earnestly desired that parents and other citizens visit the schools, and see for themselves what the pupils and teacher are doing; that before criticising school system, teacher or school officers, a fair inquiry be made in to the matter, of those who know the real conditions uuder which each school is working, and who have in their minds the outline of the whole plan for the schools, as well as the plan for each individual school. We are all working towards the same end the raising of our schools to a higher intellectual and moral plane, the welfare of each individual pupil, and the highest good to the town as a whole. Can this end ever be reached through blind criticism?

To the S. S. Committee for their unfailing sympathy and assistance, to those teachers who have been loyal and helpful, to the pupils who have been so true and kind, and to all parents and friends of the schools who have by any act or word helped to make the year a success, I extend sincere thanks.

Respectfully submitted,

W. S. Littlefield,

Supt. of Schools.

March 1, 1903.
