I hereby certify that I have examined the accounts of the Selectmen and Treasurer of our town for the year 1914-15, and find them correct with vouchers on file for all orders drawn

W. S. Littlefield, Auditor.

Superintendent's Report.

To the Superintending School Committee and the Citizens of Winterport:—

I submit my report as superintendent of schools for the year 1914-15.

It is with pleasure that I speak of the schools for the past year. They have been very profitable and all school associations have been very pleasant.

The teachers have tried to do excellent work and the citizens have seemed to appreciate their efforts.

We have maintained eleven schools besides the High school. The length of the school year is to be 165 days. The average length for the State, from the last State report, was 164 days. The town in our County which has the longest school year is Brooks with 185 days. (1913 Report)

The purposes for which money has been expended have been carefully considered by the school board before expenditure, and all bills have been carefully examined and approved by the board before orders have been drawn for their payment.

ATTENDANCE.

The number of different scholars attending school during the year is 246 with a percentage of average attendance of .74. This is much lower than it should be, much lower than it need to be, and much lower than it would be if proper application of the value of school days was shown by all parents and guardians. Parents, why do you not wake up to the fact that the future character and general welfare of your children are being influenced very largely by their attitude toward their school life and their school duties? Their school work is a business and should be treated by them as such. If they are allowed to treat it with carelessness and indifference it has a tendency toward forming habits of carelessness and indifference which will be felt by any business into which they may enter in later life.

"Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day until at last it becomes so strong we cannot break it."

The Catholics say if they can have charge of a child until he is nine years of age he will always be a Catholic. — If this be true, then the first part of a child's life is of more importance as a period for the formation of character and the fixing of principles than any other part of it.

CONVEYANCE.

Conveyance has been provided as has been done heretofore. Thirty nine children have been conveyed, five teams being furnished by the school board.

REPAIRS.

Since my last report one side of each of the village school houses has been shingled. At the upper village school the chimney has been rebuilt, and minor repairs have been made.

At the lower village school the chimney has been retopped, the assistant teacher's room replastered, book cases have been built; a small cupboard for chemicals built, and many minor repairs have been made.

At the Longfellow school a new inside door with frame and casing have been added also a few minor repairs made.

At the Fisher school and the Conant school the walls and woodwork of each room have been painted, the ceiling whitened, and the seats and desks stained or varnished. Minor repairs have also been made.

Only minor repairs have been made at the other school..

NOTE "Minor repairs" include glass, window locks and catches, oiling floors, cleaning outhouses, etc.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The high school privilege is the most valuable privilege that we can place at the disposal of a young person.

Here he should learn that all the obstructions in life's road will not be removed, that all hills will not be leveled at his bidding, but that he must have the courage of industry to meet every opposition, and the trained mind that will be able to overcome all obstacles.

Here he should come, each year, to a fuller realization of his opportunity for self improvement; he should come to realize that the solving of the smaller problems of today means the solution of the larger problems of tomorrow; that he should "Make haste slowly"; that much of the world is upside down and needs to be put right side up; that to achieve this means preparation as well as aim; that preparation takes time, and thought, and effort, and that he can make use of these only by applying himself closely to the subjects in hand. But possessing the aim and having acquired the preparation, there is scarcely a limit to what he may achieve.

In acquiring the trained mind, he should learn to distinguish between the valuable and the invaluable, and not to spoil the beauty of the mind by quibbling and bickering over things that are of no value.

Here he should begin to learn that real life is more than eating and drinking, sleeping and waking, playing and working. Here, if he is going to reach the goal, he should realize that real life is enjoyment through service, service to himself, to his fellowmen, and to his Maker.

In closing I wish to express to the school-board, the teachers the scholars and the citizens, my appreciation of their kindness and co-operation in all school work.

Respectfully,
 FREDERICK M. NICKERSON
 Superintendent of Schools.
