As was predicted last year, the new school fund law has given the small towns of the state more money than under the old order, Arrowsic receiving $214.24 more from the state for 1922 than the amount received the previous year.

Teachers' wages have not declined, experienced trained teachers being as much sought for as during the war, and as difficult to secure, altho those with little or no experience, who wish to engage in the work, are more plentiful.

Arrowsic committee are to be commended for their wisdom in voting to engage their present teacher, one of the best "Rural Leaders" in the state, for the year.

The school has been a model rural school, the regular elementary studies having been taught properly, together with the elements of drawing, sewing, music, seat and project work.

The girls have had one period each week in which they were taught some simple stitches.

During the latter part of the fall term and the entire winter term, the hot noon lunch was a feature, thus teaching the first elements of domestic science.

Members of the community assisted materially by contributions, which were duly appreciated by teacher and pupils

These contributions, together with one cent each per day from the pupils and the receipts from an entertainment and exhibition of work done by pupils, paid for the materials used.

By reason of the small number of pupils remaining in the South district, the committee voted at the spring meeting to discontinue that school, and accordingly conveyance was provided; at the opening of the winter term the last pupil had moved from that vicinity, consequently no conveyance was required.

During the fall term the following pupils were not absent a day:

Charles Darling, Mary Darling, Kenneth Day, Verne Day, Irene Lawrence, Mary Lawrence, Roy Lawrence Ruth Lawrence, Vivian Nye, Dorothy Sturmer, Russell Sturmer, Alice Shea, Howard Steen.

The unusually severe weather conditions in January caused so many unavoidable absences that that it became necessary to close school, the remainder to be added to the spring term, when weather is warmer and snow storms less frequent.

Thru the generosity of the Colonial Dames of Augusta and courtesy of the State Dep't. of Education, a traveling library of fifty books has been placed in the North school for six months use, for the community generally. The more use made of these books, the better pleased will be the donors.

Some work remains to be done on the toilet at the North school, the shed also needs renovating and the old toilet removed therefrom.

A sink, similar to the one at the South schoolhouse, would be a convenience and give a much neater appearance to the schoolroom. Perhaps the community, by assisting the School League would enjoy looking after some of the conveniences and comforts for the children.
