Report of Auditor

---

This is to certify that I have audited the books of the Municipal Officers of the town of Gouldsboro, for the year of 1914 and find them correct as for statements in printed report herein contained. I find in previous town reports they have been carrying unexpended balances from year to year in the different departments of several hundred of dollars while the actual amount in the treasury last March very nearly if not all belongs to our school acct. The Selectmen thought it not advisable to put the town to a large expense of going back perhaps thirty or more years to find it. I don't think the town has lost this amount it being mistakes made in keeping the books. If the town wants to hunt it up I will the coming year (if elected) do so if there are books and town settlement to find it.

Respectfully yours,

N. NOYES, Jr.,

Auditor of the town of Gouldsboro.

Report of Sealer of Weights and Measures

---

To the Selectmen of Gouldsboro:

Gentlemen:—I have tested the weights and measures of

- 17 Stores
- 4 Milk depots
- 2 Confectionery stores
- 1 Restaurant
- 1 Fish market
- 1 Oil supply depot
- 2 Meat dealers

In these places I have sealed

- 50 Scales
- 54 Dry measures
- 61 Liquid measures
- 106 Weights
- 32 Automatic pumps
- 9 Yard sticks
- 30 Milk cans
- 220 Milk bottles

Our stores are so far apart and the testing apparatus is so heavy it was necessary to have a team, and as it is the first year the weights and measures have been tested the expense has been more than it would be the coming year. The law requires this to be done once every year on all except milk bottles.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Adelbert W. Gordon

West Gouldsboro, Maine, February 10, 1915.

To the Members of the Superintending School Committee and the Citizens of the Town of Gouldsboro:

I present herewith my fifth annual report of the condition, progress and needs of the schools of the Town of Gouldsboro.

THE PAST YEAR

Good progress has been made in every school in town this year. We have been unusually fortunate in retaining teachers, seven of the ten teachers at present employed being on their second year and one of the others being a teacher who formerly taught the same school successfully where she is now teaching. There were no changes in teachers for the winter term and but one resignation for the spring term. The advantage of continuing teachers in a school as long as their services are satisfactory needs little comment. The policy of engaging trained teachers so far as possible has been continued, the wisdom of which we believe all will agree.

A change has been made this year in the Basal system of reading. The Rational system which we have been using was a great improvement over the old method of teaching this subject but this has in turn been improved upon by several later systems and we have chosen the one which seemed best adapted to the requirements of the local schools, The Progressive Road to Reading. The only other change in the plan of work has been the introduction of an elementary text-book in ancient and medieval history in the seventh grade for the purpose of forming a background for the formal study of American history in the eighth and ninth grades. This is in accordance with modern ideas for the teaching of history in the grades

The school year ending last spring was thirty-four weeks and it is very desirable to continue a school year of this length or longer. This will be mentioned later in the report.

The following scholars passed the State high school examination at the close of the school year last June and are now eligible to free tuition to the amount of $30.00 a year in approved secondary schools. Josie Crowley, Lottie Pettee, and Alta Young

LOSS OF TIME

In the average school system a great deal of time is lost each year on account of school holidays, stormy weather, oftentimes funerals, and for other reasons. Much of this lost time is unnecessary and it seems a poor business policy for a town to pay a corps of teachers for many days' time each year which for no adequate return is received.

The school holidays are fixed by law and must be observed accordingly although the tendency for every new legislature to add new holidays to the school calendar is a matter of frequent and we believe justified criticism.

The custom of closing schools on stormy days is a practice which has increased so much in recent years that it has become a decided nuisance in many places, every little shower being taken by some teachers as an excuse to close school for the remainder of the day. It often happens when schools are closed for this purpose that it clears off early in the day and in most cases when schools are closed on this account it is very noticeable that children are able to play out-of-doors in spite of the weather. The local school board, in common with a number of school boards in this county, has taken this matter under consideration and decided to instruct teachers to be at their schools every day prepared to teach and to hold school unless the attendance should be too small to make it profitable. This leaves the matter of deciding whether the weather is suitable for a child to attend school or not to the parent who is the proper person to decide such questions. We believe parents will find few days when in their judgment the weather is too severe for their children to go to school, due consideration of course being given to very small children and those living at any great distance.

The closing of schools on account of funerals is a common practice in this vicinity and is often the cause of no little loss of time during the course of the school year. School officials are often embarrassed when called upon to decide whether a deceased person was of sufficient prominence to receive this doubtful honor and the custom takes on a ridiculous aspect when looked upon from the small boy's point of view, every death in the community being joyously hailed as another opportunity for a half-holiday. Surely no one could wish to deny any honor which would be conferred by such a custom but the honor thereby conferred seems much in doubt. In fact, it seems so much in doubt and the custom has so many objectionable features that we believe it would be a wise policy to entirely abolish it and have a general understanding to that effect. In case a school wishes to show special respect to the memory of a person who has died in the community a period set apart from the regular school exercises for appropriate remarks on the life of the person would be a most fitting mark of honor.

DICTIONARIES

The constant and intelligent use of the dictionary by any person or pupil is of almost inestimable value from an educational point of view and is well expressed by an experienced educator who says, "I have never yet seen a person, whether pupil or teacher, who was accustomed to a frequent use of the dictionary and reference books, and who was alert in the detection of errors in his own speech, or in that of others, who was not at the same time a good or a superior all-round scholar." The dictionary habit should be acquired when young and the teaching of the proper and skilful use of the dictionary is one of the important duties of the school. For this to be efficiently done not only should every school be provided with an advanced or unabridged dictionary but every pupil from the fourth grade up should have a dictionary of proper grade. While most of our schools are provided with an unabridged dictionary the presence of a single copy of an advanced dictionary in a schoolroom is entirely inadequate and as our text-book appropriations are not sufficiently large to purchase individual dictionaries we urge upon parents the importance of providing a dictionary for each child above the third grade. Webster's dictionaries are used in our schools and recently a series of graded dictionaries have been published especially for school use and very reasonable in price, the cost being from 40 cents for a primary dictionary to $1.20 for one of high school grade. We shall be glad to purchase dictionaries for parents at cost prices and hope to see a much larger proportion of the pupils furnished with dictionaries the coming year.

NOON HOUR

The teachers of the schools where a large number of pupils take their dinners have remained at their schools during the noon hour in accordance with the suggestion in last year's report. This has naturally resulted in a great improvement in the conditions which usually exist when pupils at this time are without proper supervision. In several of the schools the plan of having the pupils eat their dinners together and serving hot cocoa has been successfully carried out. Tables have been furnished some of the schools and the pupils conduct themselves in as orderly and polite a manner as in the well conducted home. The successful continuance of this plan requires the co-operation of parents and we trust that parents will aid and encourage teachers to make it a success.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS

A series of practical teachers' meetings each year is an excellent thing to increase the interest and efficiency of teachers and thereby improve schools. A limited number of such meetings has been held each year for the teachers of this and neighboring towns and they have proved of much practical benefit. To be of the greatest benefit, however, we should have outside speakers at a part of these meetings who are experts along their special lines such as special teachers of primary reading, arithmetic, geography, penmanship, etc. We have been unable to do this except occasionally on account of no funds for this purpose and believe a small appropriation for this purpose would be of much practical benefit. The teachers from the State Normal Schools are authorized to attend such meetings for their actual expenses and other experts can be secured without great expense.

SCHOOL EXPENDITURE

The expense of maintaining common schools in the Town of Gouldsboro is somewhat larger than in most towns of its size and class. This is largely on account of the way the population is distributed over town which makes it necessary to maintain a comparatively large number of schools, to provide conveyance in several sections of the town, to pay considerable tuition to other towns, and frequently to board scholars at the town's expense. At present there are ten schools in town as shown by the school statistics; tuition is paid the Town of Sullivan for the Ashville pupils and the Town of Steuben for some of the Gouldsboro Point pupils; and conveyance is necessary from Gouldsboro Point and usually from the Guptill District. This year there has been an added expense caused by a number of children living on the eastern side of Gouldsboro Point coming of school age. These pupils have been conveyed to Steuben at an expense of $1.00 a day and in addition it will be necessary to pay the Town of Steuben tuition for their schooling. As there are more children in this section of the town coming of school age right away this expense will undoubtedly be larger in the near future. This added expense is of course unavoidable and will shorten the school year at least two weeks unless the appropriation is proportionately increased this year.

When these facts are taken into consideration it will readily be seen that the Town of Gouldsboro must raise liberal appropriations for common schools in order to give its pupils the same common school advantages being offered by all other towns at all progressing in education. For the ensuing year it will be necessary to increase the common school appropriation if the same length of school year and the same teachers' salaries are continued; any decrease in either would be a backward step and decidedly opposed to the interests of the schools. While the expense for common schools is comparatively large as already explained, yet the fact that this town has a very small expense for high school students,—it being impractical to establish a high school, as wherever located it would serve the interests of but a few,—makes its total appropriations for educational purposes considerably below its neighbors. Attention is called to the comparison following, the towns chosen being neighboring towns of nearly the same size and valuation.

AMOUNTS RAISED FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES, 1914

	Gouldsboro	Franklin	Sullivan
Common schools	$1,500 00	$1,500 00	$1,400 00
High school	150 00	1,050 00	825 00
Text books, supplies	200 00	350 00	325 00
Repairs	250 00	175 00	500 00
Totals	$2,100 00	$3,075 00	$3,050 00
Number of pupils	381	334	318
Valuation	$400,003 00	$334,022 00	$386,924 00

From this comparison, which is a perfectly fair one, it will be easily seen that this town's total expense for education is far below that of neighboring towns and in view of this and the fact that the town cannot offer its pupils high school privileges it would seem that the common schools should be made as good as the town can afford. The boys and girls of this town are its best product and they deserve the best that can be given them. They will largely form the future citizenship of the town and every dollar wisely expended for their education will not only be a great personal benefit to them but an excellent investment for the future welfare of Gouldsboro.

In closing I take the opportunity to thank all whose interest, encouragement and support have assisted in carrying on the work of the schools.

Respectfully submitted,

ADELBERT W. GORDON,

Superintendent of Schools.
