Is there a man who does not choose a smooth, substantial road,

Where he may drive a lively steed or draw a heavy load?

Is there a man to pinch a tax, or shirk a manly zeal,

Who owns a farm beside the way or spins a modern wheel?

There are 56 clubs in Penobscot County, with a total membership of 751.

Hermon this year has the distinction of being the largest and most active club in Penobscot County, with an enrollment of 31 members, 27 of whom finished the project begun.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools

To the Superintending School Committee and Citizens of Hermon:

I hereby submit my first annual report on the condition of the schools of Hermon, for the year ending March 1, 1919.

In the first place, let me express my thanks to the members of the Superintending School Committee for their good-will and cooperation in this my first year's work with you. The problems to a man in a new position are many but their solution has been greatly aided thru the sound and timely advice of the Committee. Let me also express my appreciation to Mrs. Jennie C. Snow, your former Superintendent, for the careful and pains-taking manner in which she acquainted me with the duties which she was laying down. With such aid and advice, I have been greatly aided in administrating the school work this year and in making a survey of conditions with a view of recommending a line of procedure for the future.

Among the problems of education at the present time none is considered more vital to the welfare of the nation than that of the rural school. Thinking men and women have long realized that something must be done to improve our rural schools as that families would not be called to the cities and large towns for the sake of a better education for their children, thus leaving abandoned farms and depleted communities. The advantages of country life to children are many especially from a standpoint of health and to add to these advantages the benefits which accrue from advanced standards of education has been the aim of administrators of education.

The first step toward better rural education has been made by a concerted action for the improvement of rural school buildings.

New buildings are built to conform to modern methods of lighting, heating and ventilation and old buildings are remodeled to conform to the same standards. A standard school house at the present time should be placed on a good foundation, with outbuildings connected. The windows should be placed so that the light will come from the left or from the left and rear of the pupils. Single adjustable seats and a jacketed stove are the important features in the school room, while slate blackboards are installed when practicable. These are the main features of a school house that is as comfortable and hygienic as any of those at the larger centers of population.

The next step toward better education in our rural schools, is toward the improvement of the teaching force. This is to my mind the most important of all. An inefficient teacher can waste more time and money for a town than an efficient and capable teacher can ever save. Everyone recognizes the fact that rural teachers are poorly paid. When conditions are right capable local teachers can be secured at a much smaller salary than their services are worth and the schools do not suffer. But when it is necessary to procure teachers from out-of-town, the small salaries only attract teachers who have generally no experience whatever and very little training. To build up rural education then, it is necessary to raise more money for purposes of instruction. The rural school needs the expert teacher as much as the city school.

Having briefly stated the two main policies in connection with improving rural education, let us consider how they effect the town of Hermon.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The school building at Northern Maine Junction conforms to the standard set by the State Department with perhaps one or two minor deficiencies. The other buildings to conform to standard will need remodeling. This year the building on the Cold Brook road was extensively repaired; the building was shingled, clapboarded and painted, repairs were made on the foundation and the lighting and coat room arrangement was changed. The high cost of material made an overdraw in the repair account necessary but we think that the results obtained justify it. New blackboards, new seats and a new floor are still needed.

In addition to repairs on this building the school house at No. 9, was shingled and a few small repairs necessary to the up-keep of buildings in general were made on other buildings.

Next year it will be necessary to repair the building in District 2. This building should be placed on a good foundation, the roof should be shingled and the chimney repaired. Minor repairs are needed in several of the other districts.

In regard to repairs I recommend that the town raise money enough each year to remodel at least one building. This is the method which seems to be giving the best results toward raising the standard of rural school buildings thruout the State.

SCHOOL EQUIPMENT

An inventory of the equipment in the school rooms in town shows that a shortage of maps, globes and sanitary drinking arrangements exists in some districts. Such equipment will have to be purchased this coming year. The money this year has been spent for cleaning school houses, necessary equipment and teacher's supplies of crayon, paper, etc.

INSTRUCTION

The town of Hermon has been more fortunate than many other towns in the fact that several excellent teachers who lived in town could be secured for work in the schools. We have also been fortunate in securing from out-of-town, teachers of ability. The work of all the teachers has been very good and the results obtained by several are extraordinary. Altho the schools have been badly broken up on account of sickness splendid progress is being made. I wish to especially commend all of the teachers for their conscientious attention to duty and for the fine spirit of cooperation they have shown.

TEXT BOOKS

The appropriation for text books this year has been largely expended for the replacement of badly worn books. A limited number of books in physiology and hygiene have been placed in the schools and a number of the geographies in the lower grades have been replaced by a later edition. An up-to-date reader on the war has been introduced in the ninth grade. Next year it will be necessary to replace the spelling books with new texts. Several new sets of supplemental readers will have to be purchased.

COURSE OF STUDY

A new course of study, based on the State course of study, has been placed in the hands of the teachers. Emphasis is placed on reading and language in the lower grades and arithmetic and grammar in the upper grades. The subjects are worked out in considerable detail, especially in the lower grades, for the guidance of the teachers.

FUEL AND CONVEYANCE

The severe winter last year caused a shortage of fuel for this year and it will probably be necessary to purchase additional fuel for a majority of the school buildings. Some has already been purchased. All of the fuel for the coming year has been engaged altho at a considerable advance over the price for last year.

This year the school in District 1 has been closed and the pupils conveyed to District 2, with the exception of two for whom arrangement was made with the town of Carmel for their instruction. Additional pupils in District 1 will make it more practical to reopen the school there another year.

Before closing my report I wish to bring to the attention of the citizens of the town the need of some form of school in town where the boys and girls can take studies in advance of the common school.

At the present time the boys and girls to get a high school education must go to other towns and cities. To those who are for various reasons unable to go the road to further study seems closed. This to my mind does not seem just and right in these days when a high school education is becoming a necessity.

It is impossible to place high school studies in the common schools and a two year high school developing in one or two years to a Class A. school would seem to be the solution of the problem.

Such a course of procedure would call for the erection of a school building and I respectfully recommend that you give this matter early and careful consideration.

Following are recommendations for appropriations for the coming school year:

Common Schools	$2,500 00
Repairs	500 00
Incidentals	175 00
Text books	175 00
Free High School	300 00

In closing I wish to thank the citizens for the courtesy and consideration they have shown me since I have been at work among them. With their continued cooperation I feel that good progress can be made toward the true aim of education; that our girls and boys may be developed into loyal, upright and industrious American citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

W. E. STODDARD,

Superintendent of Schools.
