In addition to face coverings, what other PPE is there on campus for community members?

August 31, 2020 | Health and safety

Other protective measures include the installation of hand sanitizer stations and hygiene barriers in high services areas. Signage will be strategically placed as a reminder to maintain social distancing, the need for frequent handwashing and what to do when you feel ill. A video provides information about the multiple PPE resources available. In addition, UMS Safety Management offers guidance through the portal to University of Maine System employees. Its website includes factsheets on office safety guidance, the physical demands of returning to the workplace, and a workspace checklist.
