What should UMaine faculty and staff do when preparing to return to their workplaces?

August 31, 2020 | Faculty, staff and students

Online training is expected of all employees returning to a UMS campus. This is a link to Return to Campus Training in UMS Academy. And there is more information on the University of Maine System Together for Maine website. COVID-19 health and safety guidance for faculty and staff, including information on how the university community will be notified of positive cases, is on the umaine.edu/return website. Testing for RT PCR active infection on campus is for students, new employees and graduate assistants arriving from out of state, or current employees traveling back to campus from out of state. Face coverings are required indoors and outside while on campus. Employees alone in their office are not required to wear face coverings. For further questions, contact Ryan Ward in Facilities Management, who can provide assistance in evaluating office layouts and protective equipment, if needed.
