choicest blessings give; And on Thy servants cause Thy face To shine, and cause Thy

The first system of music consists of four staves. The top two staves are vocal parts (Soprano and Alto), and the bottom two are piano accompaniment (Right and Left Hand). The lyrics are: "choicest blessings give; And on Thy servants cause Thy face To shine, and cause Thy". The piano part features a steady accompaniment with some triplet figures.

face To shine, — and they shall live, and they shall live, and they shall live. —

face To shine, and they shall live, and they shall live, and they shall live. —

The second system of music continues the vocal and piano parts. The lyrics are: "face To shine, — and they shall live, and they shall live, and they shall live. —". The piano part continues with similar accompaniment, including triplet figures. The system concludes with a double bar line.

2. The Sire of the gods from his crystalline throne,
Beheld the disconsolate dame;
And mov'd at her tears, he sent Mercury down,
And these were the tidings that came:
Britannia forbear, not a sigh, not a tear,
For thy Wolfe so deservedly lov'd;
Your grief shall be chang'd into triumphs of joy,
For Wolfe is not dead, but remov'd.
3. The sons of the earth, the proud giants of old,
Have broke from their darksome abodes;
And such is the news, that in heaven 'tis told,
They're marching to war with the gods.

A council was held in the chambers of Jove,
And this was the final decree,
That Wolfe should be call'd to the armies above,
And the charge was entrusted to me.

4. To the plains of Quebec with the riders I flew,
He begg'd for a moment's delay;
And cried, O forbear! Let me victory hear,
And then the command I'll obey.
With a darkening film I encompass'd his eyes,
And convey'd him away in an urn,
Lest the fondness he bore for his own native shores,
Should tempt him again to return.
