School Report.

Fellow Citizens:

In submitting to you the annual report of your supervisor of schools, I desire to congratulate the town upon the passage of an unusually successful school year. The State and the town have made reasonable provision for the support of schools, the agents have been unusually fortunate in the employment of teachers, our teachers have labored hard and faithfully in their several schools, and the town has received an unusually good return for the money expended.

I attribute these good results to the following causes:

1st. To an increasing interest among the people of this town in the welfare and prosperity of that important factor in our social progress—the district school. 2d. To the fact that our district agents in performing their several duties have acted with no selfish ends in view. 3d. To the unusually high grade of teachers employed in our summer schools. In past years many of these schools have suffered from the employment of young and inexperienced teachers, through the mistaken notion that "Almost any one would do to teach our small scholars," when in fact these are the scholars who need the ablest and most experienced teachers. Before entering upon the details of this report, let me say that the condition and progress of our schools, has been a source of gratification and pride to me, and I can truly say that of the seven years in which I have been the supervisor of your schools, the year which has just past, has been the most successful. Let us hope that the coming year will witness a still greater interest in education, among the people and a still higher degree of success in the management of our schools.
Not among the lightest of the duties devolving jointly upon your assessors and supervisor, was the apportionment of the school money. In ordinary towns, and under ordinary circumstances, the division of our school funds in such a manner as to secure the greatest good to the greatest number, would not be a matter requiring great study. But in this town situated as it is, made up as it is of main land and islands, containing as it does, school districts with but few scholars, having as it has a Free High School, comparatively easy of access to about three-fifths of our scholars, while to the other two-fifths it is almost inaccessible; the apportionment of our school money is a matter requiring considerable thought, and an accurate knowledge of the condition and wants of our schools. I know that districts having a large number of scholars, and consequently a large amount of school money, are enabled to have more and longer terms of school; but my experience as a teacher and as a school officer has convinced me of this fact—"That an ordinary good teacher in a school of ordinary ability, ranging in number from fifteen to twenty-five scholars, can accomplish far more in nine weeks, than the same teacher could accomplish in a school of from sixty to eighty scholars, (such as is found in District No. 9), in a term of twelve weeks." Again, good teachers are unwilling to risk their reputation for success, in large, difficult schools, for the pay they would receive in smaller and easier schools. Thus it will be seen that the apportionment of our school funds is not so easy a matter as it would seem at first to be. Still I believe that this year’s apportionment is as fair and just a one as we have had in the last ten years.

In dividing the school money the following points have been taken into consideration. 1st—The number of scholars in the districts. 2d—The distance from the high school at the Greely Institute.

The condition and progress of our district schools have been as follows:

District No. 1.

Agent, William Winslow. Teacher for the year, Ellen S. Blanchard.

Miss B. has taught several terms in this district in past years and has always been successful; but this year her success has been greater than ever before. She seems to understand the wants of the pupils in this school better than any teacher whom I have seen in it for a long time. My first visit to the summer term convinced me that she had gained the esteem and confidence of her pupils, and she seemed to retain them to the end of the term.

The school was not a large one and was composed mostly of small scholars, but it was a successful one. The order was good throughout the term. The improvement in all branches was good. In the winter term there were more scholars and of a larger grade, but the term was fully as successful as the last, and I think the district did well to retain the services of this teacher during the year.
DISTRICT NO. 2.

Agent, George H. Moxcey. Teacher of summer term, Julia C. Duran.

This teacher had taught this school during the whole of the previous year, and is also a teacher of large experience in this and other towns. Fair order was maintained throughout the term, and commendable improvement made in most of the branches pursued.

Teacher of winter term, Charles E. B. Libby.

Mr. L. came to this school from district No. 13, where he had been very successful. Unfortunately Mr. L. was taken ill about three weeks before the close of the term, and the near approach of town meeting compelled me to visit the school some three weeks before it closed. The school was then under the charge of Miss Annie W. Brackett, and though there had been no review, the scholars showed that thorough work had been done. Undoubtedly this was a successful term of school.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

Agent, Charles H. Blanchard. Teacher for the year, Ezra K. Sweetsir.

The citizens of this district were very fortunate in securing the services of this excellent teacher for the year. It was his third year of continuous service in this school. Under his careful management and thorough training the school has been brought to a high standard. Every class received careful attention and a thorough drill.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

Agent, Robert N. Leighton. Teacher of summer term, Emma F. Whitney.

This teacher has taught in this district before and I believe has always given good satisfaction. The order during this term was as good as I could wish and the improvement creditable to both teacher and scholars.
Teacher of fall term, Ida G. Wilson.

This term of school was very short being only five weeks in length. Miss Wilson is a teacher of considerable experience in this and other schools in town, and to do her justice, she accomplished a creditable amount of work for so short a term of school. The improvement in all branches was good. Had better order been maintained the results would have been more pleasing.

Teacher of winter term, Horace B. Mountfort.

Mr. Mountfort is a good scholar and a careful and thorough teacher. Good order was maintained throughout the term, and good improvement was made in all branches of study pursued.

District No. 5.

Agent, Sewall Whitney. Teacher of summer term, Annie M. Dunn.

This teacher is a good scholar and had had some experience as a teacher previous to this term. The order in the school was good, and fair improvement was made in all branches.

Teacher of fall and winter terms, Alma M. Brackett.

This lady is a teacher of large experience and brought to this school besides a thorough knowledge of her business, a knowledge of the special wants of her pupils in this district and a will to supply them. Besides giving her pupils good thorough instruction and drill in all branches, she trained them to have confidence in their own knowledge and abilities. The smaller scholars were gathered into a class and received oral instruction upon matters of general information. This class was a pleasing feature of both terms of school. The examination at the close of the fall term was highly gratifying to your supervisor, but it was at the close of the winter term that the abilities and hard work of both teacher and scholars were seen at their best. The self possession of the scholars and thorough knowledge of the branches studied were matters of general remark by the parents and friends of the scholars, many of whom were present. Declamations and readings were a pleasing feature of the exercises, and all acquitted themselves with credit.

DISTRICT NO. 6.

Agent, Frank W. Blanchard.

The school in this district is under the supervision of Yarmouth.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

Agent, Chas. A. Merrill. Teacher for the year, Mellie H. McCollister.

This school though small, and not requiring great scholarship in an instructor, needs a teacher of special qualities as drill master, on account of the tender age of the pupils, and it is sufficient to say that this want was fully supplied by Miss McCollister who besides being a teacher of large experience, has had the advantage of special training in one of our state normal schools. Good, thorough instruction and drill were given, and the improvement for the year was excellent.

DISTRICT NO. 8—CHEBEAGUE ISLAND.

Agent, William Seabury.

Teacher of summer and fall terms, Lucinda O. Allen.

This teacher also has had the benefit of normal training to which qualifications may be added good natural abilities, and a sound judgment. The order and improvement in all branches were very good. The citizens of the district and your supervisor were highly pleased with the school and it is hoped that the same teacher's services may be secured for the coming summer terms.

Winter term, teacher, L. P. Sturdivant.

There is as good material for a school in this district as there is in the town. The scholars are bright and intelligent, and well advanced in the different branches pursued. I will say frankly that I think that this was as successful a school as could be taught in such a schoolroom at such a season of the year. This district sadly needs a new school house, the present one being cold, dark, inhospitable, and a model of inconvenience.

DISTRICT NO. 9—CHeBEAGUE ISLAND.

Agent, Stephen B. Hamilton. Teacher for the year, Ammi R. Littlefield.

This is the largest school in town, in fact it is too large for one teacher to manage. But few more than one half of the scholars in the district can attend school at one time, on account of a lack of accommodations, although the schoolroom is as large as any in town. This is Mr. Littlefield’s second year in this school and the district was fortunate in securing his services. He is a first class teacher, and keeps an excellent school.

DISTRICT NO. 10—HOPE ISLAND.

Agent, Henry Horr.

There has been no school in this district this year.

DISTRICT NO. 11—CROTCH ISLAND.

There has been no school in this district.

DISTRICT NO. 12.

The scholars in this district commonly attend school in Falmouth.

DISTRICT NO. 13.

The order in this school was good. The teacher labored faithfully, and a good school was the result.

Teacher of winter term, Charles E. B. Libby.

This was Mr. L.’s second term in this district. The school was well governed, and good improvement was made in all branches.
HIGH SCHOOL.

The High School at Greely Institute has been in successful operation during the year. Since the publication of the last Annual Report there have been two full terms of school held at this Institution, and the third is now in progress.

The spring term was taught by that able and experienced teacher, Prof. S. K. Hitchings, ably assisted by Mr. W. H. Kelley, and was a highly successful term.

The fall term was taught by Will A. Hoyt, A. B., assisted by Mr. O. Farrington, and Mr. Irving Sawyer. This was also a very successful term. The same corps of teachers are now employed upon the spring term, which up to the time of making this report has not been visited by your Supervisor. The following extract from the returns made to the State Superintendent of common schools may be of interest:

Number of terms of High School for year ending December 1st, 1882, 3. Number of weeks, 31. Total wages per month of teachers of spring and winter terms, $160.64. Fall term, $153.33\frac{1}{3}$. Whole number of scholars registered, 73. Average attendance, 50.

Respectfully submitted,

L. P. STURDIVANT, Supervisor.
