PERAMBULATION OF FALMOUTH AND CUMBERLAND LINE.

Agreeably to a notice given to the Town of Cumberland by the Town of Falmouth to meet at the M. E. Church, Cumberland Foreside, on the 12th day of November, 1919, at 9.30 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of perambulating and running the lines between said Towns, and reviewing the marks and bounds, we, the subscribers, Selectmen of said Towns, have met at the time and place, and for the purpose aforesaid, and do make the following return of our doings, to wit:—

Beginning at the white rock on the seashore marked F. and C., and running N. 41½° W. to a stone monument on the first County road, thence same course to a stone monument on second County road, thence same course to stone monument on the Harris road, so-called, thence same course to stone monument on the third County road, thence same course to stone monument on N. W. side of the fourth County road, thence same course to stone monument on Shaw Town road, thence same course to stone monument on the fifth County road, thence same course to monument on the old Gray and Portland road, thence same course one hundred sixty-two (162) rods to a stone monument at the west corner of Cumberland; said monument is marked with the letters W. F. & C., and is located in a swamp near a birch.

All monuments on said line are marked with the letters F and C.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto mutually set our hands this 12 day of November, 1919.

George W. Jordan, Town Clerk.
School Report.

To the School Committee and Citizens of the Town of Cumberland:

That a new spirit in education has taken hold of the country is not hard to see; but just what the outcome of this attitude will be, remains to be proved in the near future. Many of the new movements are in their infancy, and many of the enactments made by the legislature have the support of the people because they know they will be of nation-wide benefit; but the problems that cause the voters and interested citizens in general, in our small country towns, some anxiety, are the ones that require our hearty support and unselfish action. To those who have not given our public schools much thought or attention it may appear on the surface that there is some mismanagement somewhere; but we feel assured that those who have made existing conditions a study, will readily see that we must comply with present requirements or the machine will cease to move.

The welfare of our public schools is of great importance, and this broadening of the view has been going on for a long time. For the past three years this nationalistic idea has received new emphasis. That future citizens must have better mental preparation, stronger bodies, and a greater sense of patriotic obligation than their parents had before them, is now a widespread conviction. This added responsibility is placed upon the teacher and this leads me to say a word in regard to our Cumberland teachers and Teachers’ Salaries.

Our teachers on the whole have been faithful and have endeavored to do good work. Owing to the shortage of teachers we have been obliged to employ some who have had no experience. With one exception, three of this class employed in this town have done very good work. The experienced and trained teachers employed have been second to none. As we were unable to meet the larger increase in salaries offered by other towns and cities, we lost two of our best teachers. Your committee has asked for a large increase in the appropriations for support of schools; we must pay our teachers larger salaries or give them up to other towns in this or other states. We believe a good teacher is worth just as much, or even more, for the town of Cumberland as she is for any other town, if she has given evidence that she is an excellent teacher for that particular school.

The teaching force in our public schools at the present time is a very independent class and we rejoice that such is the case, for certainly the poor, underpaid teacher has not been able to show her independent spirit in the past. A teacher who has been teaching for $500 or less per year and is offered $750 or $800 with the promise of an increase cannot be condemned for accepting said position providing the change is made in an honorable way. An increase of but $2 per week will mean an increase of $576 in our appropriations. The percentage of increase for fuel, conveyance and janitors is equally as large.

In making our recommendations we have kept in mind the following facts and principles:

First, the teacher's salary should be large enough to provide a living wage, which means that she should live in comfort, do such reading and studying as are necessary to keep her in touch with progressive movements in education and take part in the social life of the community.

Second, the salary should be large enough not only for present needs but for a reasonable margin for a savings account.
Third, the maximum salary should be large enough to retain our best teachers.

Fourth, it should be large enough to enable teachers to develop and improve their teaching powers.

Course of Study.

The "Course of Study", compiled by the State department, was put into the schools at the opening of the fall term in September. It is an eight-year course, but is working out satisfactorily.

Progress.

The schools have made excellent progress owing to our good fortune in being able to retain several of our best teachers, and when vacancies occurred trained teachers were secured when possible. In the instance cited elsewhere in this report experienced teachers were employed but resigned just before the schools were scheduled to open, thus leaving the employing agent in a difficult position. It was either an inexperienced teacher or close the school.

This report is not based wholly upon my own judgment, as I have visited the schools and observed carefully the good work being done, but upon the excellent reports given me by interested parents.

The work in grammar the past year has been much more satisfactory than the preceding year, as our teachers have been taking up work suggested in our new course of study, which is in line with that taken in the high school. History is still at the front and pupils are taking it up in a thorough manner as is shown by their daily recitations and monthly test papers.

Repairs and Improvements.

The repairs suggested last year have been made. The new floor has been laid at No. 2 and the building painted. The East End building on Chebeague has also been painted. The greatest need the coming year is a building at the Chebeague high school for the storage of wood, as the wood now has to be stored in the entry and what cannot be stored there must remain out of doors. Good fuel has been furnished and it should be properly housed. New floors at the Centre primary and No. 7 would be a great improvement as the present floors are quite badly worn in some places and these are the only buildings in town where new floors have not been laid within the past few years.

Chebeague High School.

Miss Nevens was re-elected for this school for another year. The interest has been good. Some fine work in composition has been done owing to interest manifested by the teacher and several of the parents who have children in the school. Some special features have been introduced creating some competition of the right sort.

A class of three graduated. The exercises were held at the Methodist Church, Wednesday, June 11, 1919.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL FOR 1919-1920.

Greely Institute is, and has been for a number of years, a Class A High School. This means that its graduates are accepted on presentation of their diplomas, without further examination at any of the different colleges in the State, provided their course of study has included the subjects required for admission. Every effort is made to maintain the high standard in the school which is necessary to retain that privilege and to encourage the students to take advantage of it. Last year the attendance was a little smaller than in former years but the average of the studies was very high considering the time which was lost on account of the great amount of illness.

Courses of Study.

The curriculum presents four courses of study: College Preparatory, English, Domestic Science, and Agriculture. Both the domestic science and the agricultural courses prepare the student for further training in those branches at the State University as well as give a practical training for actual work if the student cannot go to college. The agricultural course is now under the direction of the State Board for Vocational Education under the Smith-Hughes Act, which will be discussed more in detail later in the report.

The Institute building is modern in every respect, with electric lights, hot-water heating plant, and running water from the town supply. It contains a well-equipped physics and chemistry laboratory and a special agricultural room and laboratory as well. The text-books are kept up to date, the new editions and texts being adopted as soon as they are recognized as standard. The supply of reference books in the library is adequate for all the studies pursued and is added to each year.

Needs of the School.

One or two improvements could and should be made to increase the efficiency of the building and its laboratories. The heating plant should be increased so as to make it possible to work in the laboratories in even the coldest weather if the best use is to be made of them. A lavatory for both the boys and girls would be a welcome addition to the toilet facilities in the basement. Additional seats will be necessary another year for the assembly room on the second floor.

Special Opportunities.

From the date of its foundation in 1868, Greely Institute has made itself the educational center for a large territory. Its unusually well-equipped building and the invariably high standard of its teaching force, supported and guided as it has been by an active Board of Trustees, has attracted students from many of the surrounding towns as well as from Cumberland itself. Many of the students have walked or driven long distances to attend the school and the attendance has been high.

Within the last few years, however, the advent of the two electric lines, with the easy access which they afford to the city schools has narrowed the territory quite a good deal. The attendance has naturally decreased somewhat although not in the same proportion, as students still come from along the lines and beyond. Certain events which have occurred about the same time have, however, opened to Greely Institute an opportunity for growth and development such as it never has had before. These events are the recognition, all over the country, of the need of vocational education in the high schools, the passage by Congress in 1917 of the Smith-Hughes Act which gives Federal aid for the teaching of practical agriculture and kindred subjects in the high schools of the country, and the acceptance by this State of its share in the funds which this act makes available.

The Smith-Hughes Act.

Briefly, the Smith-Hughes Act does this: It provides funds to aid in the purchase of equipment, payment of teachers, and the general maintenance of courses along vocational lines, chiefly in agriculture, domestic science and the trades. To secure its proportion of these funds each school must meet certain high standards as to the amount of its equipment, the qualifications of its teachers and the general practical nature of its courses. Greely Institute has met these requirements as far as its agricultural work is concerned, and expects to meet them for its domestic science work in the near future.

Situated as it is, in the heart of a prosperous farming section, where successful examples of widely different types of farming, several large greenhouses, and numerous pure-bred herds of dairy and beef cattle are available to supplement its own laboratory, its location is ideal for agricultural work. With all the material and equipment, including land, for as extensive and practical a course in agriculture as is desired, already in the possession of the school it can and should be made one of the largest agricultural schools in the State. The same thing both as to material and opportunity, is true of the domestic science work as well.

The great demand for teachers and the constantly increasing salaries are turning more and more of our high school students toward that line of work. The work in English, mathematics, history and science required of the vocational students forms a foundation which, with a few special courses, should make the English, or teacher-training course, of equal importance with the others. All of the courses, if carefully outlined, will give sufficient preparation for further training along the same lines in college.

One of the greatest things about Greely Institute has been the enthusiastic co-operation and aid which the town has given the Trustees and the school. This same co-operation and help is urged for the new advance which is sure to come.

Respectfully submitted,

E. H. Danforth,
Principal.
