DISTRICT NO. 1. DR. I. W. GILBERT, AGENT.

Summer term—Miss MARY A. BASS, teacher. Whole number attending, 29; average number attending, 25; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher including board, $5.50 per week.

We have nothing to say except in commendation of this term of school. The love and respect of the scholars for the teacher, with the best methods of instruction, the result could be nothing but satisfactory. *

Fall term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 35; average number attending, 30; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, $5.50 per week.

At the beginning of the term we had sufficient reason to believe that, under the direction of Miss Bass, the school would be a success. She possesses the faculty of imparting thorough and practical knowledge. It is gratifying to note the excellent work done by this teacher and the enthusiasm and interest manifested by the scholars in their studies. Miss Bass is a superior teacher.

Winter term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 38; average number, 33; length of term, 54 days; wages of teacher, $7.00 per week.

When a district is so fortunate as to secure the services of a good teacher, it is well to retain such services. The results of Miss Bass' labors during the winter were highly gratifying. This school has had good instruction, and made marked progress during the year.

DISTRICT NO. 2. DEXTER W. DANFORTH, Agent.

Spring term—FRED E. MITCHELL, teacher. Whole number attending, 17; average number, 14; length of term, 21 days; wages of teacher, $5.00 per week.
This term of school was too short to be profitable. The teacher seemed to understand the wants of the school, and with a few weeks added, would no doubt have made a good showing.*

Winter term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 14; average number, 10; length of term, 55 days; wages of teacher, $20.00 per month.

Mr. Mitchell is a fine scholar, and his method of instruction is clear and concise and the school made excellent progress under his care.

DISTRICT NO. 3. H. WALDRON, Agent.

Summer term—Miss M. E. PAINE, teacher. Whole number attending, 16; average number, 12; length of term, 9 weeks; wages of teacher, including board, $4.25.

With the knowledge of the wants of this school, acquired by teaching it a number of terms, combined with a good faculty of imparting instruction, a successful term of school could only be expected, in which we were not disappointed.*

Scholars not absent: Arthur Waldron, Estelle Fogg, Eleanor Allard.

Winter term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 18; average number, 15; length of term, 9 weeks; wages of teacher, including board, $5.90.

Special attention was given this term to reading; the teacher also required the pupils to spell and define the words of their reading lesson,—an example worthy of imitation. Other branches were made simple and practical. The teacher was interested, and much work was accomplished.

Scholars not absent: Estelle Fogg, Lena Allard.

DISTRICT NO. 4. Alvin H. Huntington, Agent.

No summer term.

Winter term—Emlen P. Springer, teacher. Whole number attending, 15; average number, 12; length of term, 10 weeks; wages of teacher including board, $30.00 per month.

At our first visit we found the school orderly, and studious. The desire for study manifested at the beginning, continued through the term, and the school was a profitable one. At the close we were pleased to mark the good progress in each branch of study pursued.

Scholars not absent: Walter E. Springer, Lucy Merrill.

DISTRICT NO. 5. Packard, Agent.

Summer term—Carrie L. Huntington, teacher. Whole number attending, 10; average, 9; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, including board, $4.60 per week.

This school, though small, has good material, and is rather above the average in scholarship. The teacher is "The right person in the right place," consequently the result was assured from the first,—a good school.*
Scholars not absent: Frank H. Woodbury, Nellie M. Howard, Mertie B. Howard, Carrie A. Howard.

Winter term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 10; average number, 9; length of term, 60 days; wages of teacher, including board, $5.25 per week.

At the closing examination, we questioned the classes in each study, and their ready and intelligent answers gave evidence of the thorough drill they had received. Miss Hinton has an easy and pleasant way of governing her school.

Scholars not absent: Edgar P. Neal, Frank H. Woodbury.

DISTRICT NO. 6. JESSE T. TRUE, Agent.

Summer term—FANNIE W. TRUE, teacher. Whole number attending, 22; average number, 18; length of term, 45 days; wages of teacher, including board, $4.25.

At the examination, we found the order excellent, and pupils manifesting an interest in their work. Questions were readily answered and the general appearance of the school was satisfactory. One class in history is worthy of special mention; also the map drawings on the blackboard.

Fall term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 22; average number, 18; length of term, 70 days; wages of teacher, including board, $5.00 per week.

Miss True, during the winter term, fully sustained her reputation as a systematic and thorough teacher.

Scholars not absent: Nathan C. True, Josie K. True, Harry L. Pinkham.
DISTRICT NO. 7.  HENRY LUNT, Agent.

Summer term—Miss AUGUSTA H. EDGECOMB, teacher. Whole number attending, 19; average number, 16; length of term, 50 days; wages of teacher, including board, $5.00 per week.

We wish to assure the district that the agent made a judicious choice when he secured the services of Miss Edgecomb for this school. She is too well known in town as a first class teacher to need any of our commendation. The school was a success in every respect.

Scholars not absent: George N. Buker, Ernest P. Small, Linnie S. Lunt, Alice M. Tibbetts, Mary A. Berry, Mary E. Colby, Rachel E. Hodgkins, Maude L. Peacock, C. Elmer Hodgkins.

Fall term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 23; average number, 21; length of term, 55 days; wages of teacher, including board, $6.00 per week.

That district is fortunate whose agent secures Miss Edgecomb as teacher. This is an interesting school, and with Miss E. to lead it, could not fail to be eminently successful.

DISTRICT NO. 8.  JOHN L. ALLEN, Agent.

Spring term—Miss IDA HATCH, teacher. Whole number attending, 6; average number, 5; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, including board, $4.00.
Although this was Miss Hatch's first school her method of instruction awakened an interest among the pupils, which was manifested throughout the term. Advancement in all branches was marked.*

Scholar not absent: Lizzie Douglass.

Fall term—Same teacher. Whole number attending; average number; length of term; wages of teacher, including board.

It is almost impossible to create a desire for study, and that enthusiasm which is the life of a school, when the school is so small in numbers. The teacher was taken sick, and the term prematurely closed, so no closing visit was made.

Summer term—Anna F. Smith, teacher. Whole number attending, 13; average number, 12; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, including board, $4.10.

This is rather a difficult school for reasons unknown. Whether from the pupils themselves or from past instruction, we know not. The final examination was not all it should have been, not through any fault of the teacher, but from the condition of the school itself. It needs first class teachers to bring it up to the general standard of schools in town.*

Scholars not absent: Gracie Gatchell, Alice Williams, Jennie Newell, Addie Newell, Adelbert Harriman, Eugene Harriman, Herbert Williams, Henry Williams.

Winter term—Lilla Allard, of Richmond, teacher. Whole number attending, 14; average number, 12; length of term, 8 weeks; wages of teacher, including board $6.70. This school was as well organized and classified as could have been expected and there was a good prospect of a successful term.

The notice was not received in time to make a second visit.

DISTRICT NO. 10. Daniel Campbell, Agent.

Summer term — Emma Adams, teacher. Whole number attending, 23; average number, 18; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, $4.35. This was Miss Adams' first experience in teaching. We did not make the opening visit, but at the examination the school was very orderly, and from the general appearance, should judge it had made fair progress.

Scholars not absent: Gracie M. Hurd, Jennie A. Jordan, Eddie L. Libbey.

Winter term — Herbert J. Carville, teacher, Whole number attending, 14; average number, 13; length of term, 10 weeks; wages of teacher including board, $30.00 per month.

Mr. Carville is a thorough instructor. The scholars knew and acknowledged his abilities, and by diligent and close application, on the part of both teacher and scholars, much work was accomplished. Parents should be fully satisfied with this term of school.

DISTRICT NO. 11. C. B. PREBLE, Agent.

Spring term—DELVINA E. COOMBS, teacher. Whole number attending, 24; average, 21; length of term, 10 weeks; wages of teacher, $4.00 per week.

We cannot give a full report of the progress of this school, as we made only the closing visit; but the classes appeared well, though the school was noisy, and there was much whispering.

Fall term—Same teacher. Whole number attending, 21; average, 19; length of term, 8 weeks; wages of teacher, $4.00 per week.

During the fall term, Miss Coombs made a decided improvement both in her method of instruction and in discipline. Pupils gave clear analysis in arithmetic, also in grammar; classes in reading, also deserve special mention. The improvement was decidedly marked.

Winter term—FANNIE TRUE, teacher. Whole number attending, 21; average number, 18; length of term, 50 days; wages of teacher, including board, $6.00 per week.

At our first visit we found 21 scholars present; we stopped nearly three hours, and saw but one scholar whisper during our visit; we never saw the school appear better. At our closing visit, only 17 scholars were present. We inquired the meaning of this and were told by the teacher, that the absent ones left school, because they were not willing to meet her requirements. Those present answered their examination questions promptly and intelligently. Parents should be careful not to deprive their children of their educational advantages, without sufficient reason. A studious scholar can learn much even with a poor teacher; while, with the best teacher in the world, an indolent, inattentive pupil, will learn very little.

DISTRICT NO. 12. WILLIAM ADAMS, Agent.

No summer term.

Winter term—ROLAND T. TRUE, teacher. Whole number attending, 17; average number, 14; length of term, 10 weeks; wages of teacher

This school is an interesting one; the scholars are always studious and attentive, study and recitation being but pleasant pastime for the most of them. Classes in arithmetic, algebra, geography and grammar, recited with interest and intelligence. Teacher and scholars labored in unison, with excellent results.

DISTRICT NO. 13. BENJAMIN PINCIN, Agent.

Summer term: Josie H. Varney, teacher. Whole number attending, 9; average number, 8; length of term six weeks; wages of teacher, $3.50.

Miss Varney labored for the interest of the school; special pains was taken with each branch, and the term was profitable and successful.

Scholars not absent: Gertie Frost, Edith Pincin, Herbert Larrabee, Pearlie Pincin.

Winter Term: Josiah Buker, teacher. Whole number attending, 12; average number, 10; length of term, 42 days; wages of teacher, $26.00 per month.

Mr. Buker has taught this school several terms before. At our first visit the school appeared well. At our closing visit, several of the older scholars were not in attendance, but those present showed that the hours spent in the school-room during the winter had not been misspent. A good degree of advancement had been made.

DISTRICT NO. 14. WM. BUBIER, Agent.

Fall term: H. O. Buker, teacher. Whole number attending, 19; average number, 18; length of term, 40 days; wages of teacher, $16.95 per month.

Mr. Buker is a teacher of experience and ability. The first of the term, the scholars were inclined to whisper, but we found Mr. B. giving good instruction. At our second visit, we found the whispering entirely exterminated, and the examination proved that the term had been profitable.
Winter term: Willis Skillings, teacher. Whole number attending, 22; average, 20; length of term, 11 weeks; wages of teacher, $15.00 per month.

We examined Mr. Skillings and found him well qualified, so far as education was concerned to take charge of this school. The school appeared well at the commencement of the term. The term was prematurely closed, without legal notice having been given to the supervisor. The teacher tells us that he was requested to close the school by the agent, but as we received no notice, no closing visit was made, therefore we are unable to report the condition of the school at its close.

DISTRICT NO. 15. M. S. H. Rogers, Agent.

No summer term. Winter term — M. T. Newton, teacher. Whole number attending, 16; average number, 12; length of term, 60 days; wages of teacher, including board, $35.00 per month.

Mr. Newton had taught this school before, and knew just how and where to begin his work. He discharged his duties with credit to himself, and profit to the pupils under his charge. Mr. Newton is an earnest worker in the schoolroom, and an intelligent and capable teacher. Scholars not absent: Wm. Briery, Katie Nickerson, Mabel Norcross, Nellie Roberts, Lilian Norcross.

REMARKS.

In conclusion we would say that the average attendance of the schools during the past year has been good, we have had a corps of capable teachers in our employ, and with one or two exceptions, the districts have enjoyed a prosperous year. Agents, however, who employ male teachers to teach our winter terms at $15.00 per month, must expect cheap schools. To the teachers we would say, get all the general information you can, and impart it to your scholars; be interested in your work, and you can scarcely fail to interest your school; visit other schools whenever you have opportunity; visit all the Teachers' Institutes you can; you will thus gain new ideas of teaching, and by intercourse with other teachers, get that help and encouragement we need so much in this responsible work.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY TAYLOR,
SUPERVISOR.
