Our schools have had a very good year. All our teachers are normal school or college graduates and they are doing good work.

The yard at the New Mill School has been graded. The school room needs painting and a little change in the ventilating system. The Old Mill school house might be improved by making a single entrance to take the place of the present two entrances. The windows should be placed on one side of the building.

The Griffin Ridge school house has been newly painted and shingled. The Hughes, the Park and the Creasy Ridge school houses need painting. The yard at the Packard School should be drained. The shed might be enlarged or rebuilt to good advantage.

The new heating system at the Lovley School is giving good service. The old furnace with its registers should be removed before the next school year begins. The heating system at the Creasy Ridge School can be put into good condition by securing a few repair parts. The system at the Park School is inadequate. When it is replaced the stove can be very satisfactorily installed at the New Mill School.

The site left vacant by the burning of the Grange Hall has been acquired by the town and added to the school grounds.

Good use is being made of the present facilities at the High School building, but when times become more prosperous provision for enlargement should be undertaken.

The school attendance this year, as the above records show, has been very good. Another remarkable fact is the healthy condition that seems to be prevalent among the students, and the sanitation that is being practiced by the parents of those students who are absent because of contagious diseases.

The school day was shortened twenty minutes after the Christmas Holidays. These twenty minutes were taken from the thirty-five minute recess in the forenoon. This long morning recess was put into the school years ago when the school had a director of physical education and music and also a hall for physical exercise. The change was made for the following reasons: First, the school day was too long. Second, the school has no place to carry on any kind of physical exercise. Third, the students living far from school could get home earlier, especially during the winter months. Fourth, the students interested in sports, plays, orchestra and other extra-curricula activities would have a chance to practice after school instead of having to come to evening rehearsals, as was the case with the orchestra.

The school now has two orchestras under the direction of Mrs. Kolouch. One is called the Senior Orchestra and includes the students who have played in the orchestra in the past years.
The other is called the Junior Orchestra and includes all students who have never played in the orchestra or who have had only a limited number of lessons in music.

Our membership in the Bates Debating League was discontinued this year for lack of a sufficient number of students interested in debating.

The number of students who went out for winter sports was small when compared with those capable of such things. We are, however, proud of those who did go out and the fine showing they made at Ashland. The fare to Ashland and return was borne on a fifty-fifty basis by those who went and the Student Council. The Student Council has also purchased enough lumber to build a platform that will remain the property of the Council. This platform is being built by the students under my direction and will be used for staging purposes in school and also for our annual outdoor graduation. The platform can be set up and dismantled by the students without the use of nails and with a very small amount of labor. The Council has purchased a good pencil sharpener for the main room and is also having the students make a bulletin board for the main room that will be used by the school as a calendar of the month. Every member of the Council will then become a reporter for this calendar and so an inactive Student Council will become active.

We cannot overemphasize the need of a gymnasium. Again I wish to say that in this part of our educational program we, as a school, are not and cannot do our part until we have some kind of a place for our extra-curricula activities.

Much needed physics equipment has been added to our small supply on hand. The Commercial department has also had a few additions in the form of typewriters. This latter department is continuing its good work in handling the school routine work and also all types of clerical and business work for the various school organizations and teachers.
The Editorial Board is working on the Maple Leaf and hopes to have the publication out the last of May.

The monthly publication of the Honor Roll has done much to improve the scholarship of the school as a whole. The Honor Roll was put into effect last April with the idea of improving scholarship. In brief, the plan is as follows: Every month the names of all students securing a rank of B or better in all their courses are placed on the A-B list. Students securing a rank of C or better in all their courses have their names placed on the A-B-C list. These lists are then posted on the school bulletin board and copies are sent to two newspapers for publication.

The school year thus far has been very successful and our aim is to make it still more so. In order to do this, we need the cooperation of everyone, whether student, teacher, parent or friend. We have had this cooperation in the past and have been very grateful for it. With its continuance I am sure the school will progress steadily.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH F. KOLOUCH,
Principal of High School
February 26, 1931

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

To the Superintendent of Schools:

The following subjects are offered in the commercial course this year: bookkeeping, business methods, law, and typewriting. Commercial geography is taught during the second semester in the place of law.

The bookkeeping is taught by means of equations which show that every transaction increases or decreases an asset, a liability, or the proprietorship. Both the beginning and the ad-
Advanced pupils who study bookkeeping have a certain number of bookkeeping problems to do. In addition to these, the classes use sets which consist of books similar to those used by the modern business man. This procedure develops the reasoning power of the pupil; for tracing the effects of business transactions from their inception to their completion demands sustained, accurate thinking of the type expected in after-school life. If the pupil can interpret these records from the point of view of the manager as well as from the point of view of the bookkeeper, it is a good sign that he is acquiring both an understandable and a usable knowledge of the subject.

Some of the old typewriters have been exchanged for new ones. This has aided the pupils to do better work, as the typewriters must function properly in order for the pupils to do their best. In the typewriting classes, I have the beginners learn the parts of the machine. They, then, study the letters of the keyboard, learn the position of each letter, and practice so as to write from the copy without looking on the keyboard. They strive first for accuracy rather than speed. The pupils practice exercises which are assigned to them each month. Each exercise is written at least four times. The pupils try to make each copy as nearly perfect as possible, because their grade depends upon neatness and accuracy. If a scholar feels he may do better work by writing an exercise more than four times, he is permitted to do so.

The second-year pupils in typewriting start in the exercise book with the exercises dealing with information about letters. These students write themes and also do all of the typewriting for the school. All of those pupils who study typewriting have speed tests, occasionally; and they keep a graph showing the number of words written per minute and the number of errors made on each test.

The business methods course is given to the sophomores who are interested in commercial work. Business forms and methods which are common to all types of business are studied and practiced, as far as possible, by doing exercises and by using the information gained from the textbook and from supplementary sources. The pupils learn, among other things, to prepare business papers and to file business records. The various departments of business establishments and the duties of persons occupying positions in these departments are carefully studied. Some commercial arithmetic is taught in this course, and the fundamentals of bookkeeping are taken up during the latter part of the year.

The law course is for the purpose of giving the pupil an understanding of some of the principles of law governing contracts, sales, negotiable instruments, bailments, insurance, partnerships, corporations, and also some understanding of the courts and their jurisdiction.

We should be pleased to have more parents and citizens visit the commercial department.

Again we are following very closely the course of study as outlined by our State Dept. Four groups having completed Clothing Construction and textiles, the fifth group, Foods and Nutrition. The classes have been much interested in the many projects they have undertaken and completed.

Some of the courses offered during the remainder of the school year, are, Hygiene and Sanitation, Home Nursing and Child Care, the House and its Care and the construction of a Tea Wagon. These are chosen to help the girls meet their present and future needs.

I wish to thank all those who have helped to make possible the addition of silver, table linen and other small pieces of equipment to the laboratory.

We wish to extend an invitation to all parents and friends to visit us at any time and offer suggestions that may benefit our work.
