—Cyclonic Hits—

"Blooming Lize"

The hit of the "Chaperons." Caused the biggest legal scrap in years. "Fourteen encores at a Matinee!"—enough said.

"The Sousa Girl"

The delightful Sousa-esque march song that caught on like wild-fire, not only in the United States, but in London, and other foreign capitals.

"The Girl Who Plays The Races"

A delightful, horsey song, redolent of the race track, with a romping, galloping melody that sets your feet going. Sung with great success by Dorothy Morton.

"Hin't It Tough To Be So Absent Minded!"

"You Cawn't Get It 'Ere, Like You Do On T'other Side"

Great cockney song, depicting the boastful son of Cockayne on his first visit to America.

"Please Don't Wake Me"

A dozy, dopy, sleepy song; punctuated with yawns, causing the most amusing effect upon the audience, who, by sympathy, are made to yawn and laugh alternately.

MATT. C. WOODWARD

BEN. M. JEROME

"The Wizard of Oz"

Bobby Saylor's eccentric conjuring song in the "Wizard of Oz."

"Oh, Baby Days"

A reminiscence of the days of babyhood. An exquisite little satire on the different treatment received by the baby-girl and the grown-up girl from the opposite sex.

"All For His Country's Sake"

A patriotic march song without any reference to the Blue or the Gray. Original, martial, soul-stirring melody set to words that breathe the very life of patriotism.

"At The Ball Co-night"

The most popular waltz-song of the season. The recent popular hits in this line have all been confined to good old summer time. "At the Ball Co-night" is good for any old time, and has a rhythmic glide that starts every lady looking for a partner.

"Oh, Paree!"

A semi-topical, Anna-Heldish song with a swing to it that is positively irresistible.

"I Know Just What You're Gwine To Do"

The Kissing-coon hit of the season. It is unique. There is nothing like it in the market. Ragtime and comedy blended with unsurpassed skill.
