You left me one night in the sweet, spring time, In the beau - ti - ful month of The joys of my youth are but, dreams to - day, Fleet-ing shad - ows that come and May, You spoke of a love sin - cere and sub - lime and said you'd re - go, The one whom I love is now old, and gray For time will not turn some day, Through all the long years I've been wait - ing, And wait we know, But if you are liv - ing, my darl - ing, No pray-ing for you in vain, That the bright star of love, shin-ing down from a - mat-ter where you may be, You may not be to blame, so I love you the
