A BOOK OF SONGS.

OP. 20.

BY

ETHELBERT NEVIN.

„ 1.25

- No. 1. "A FAIR GOOD MORN."
- No. 2. SLEEP, LITTLE TULIP.
- No. 3. EVERY NIGHT.
- No. 4. AIRLY BEACON.
- No. 5. WHEN THE LAND WAS WHITE WITH MOONLIGHT.

- No. 8. DITES-MOI.
- No. 9. ORSOLA'S SONG (Par le Glaive).
- No. 10. IN DER NACHT.

But very few songs of the day are more admired by refined and cultivated singers and musicians than are the songs of Ethelbert Nevin; one of the most impressive features of this composer's art work is with his Book of Songs, Op. 20, a fascinating group of songs, appropriate for either salon or concert usage.

WONDER SONGS.

OP. 19.

CLAYTON JOHNS.

„ .75

- No. 1. A BELATED VIOLET.
- No. 2. THE FIRST ROSE OF SUMMER.
- No. 3. THE THREE ROBBERS.

- No. 5. THE ELF AND THE DORMOUSE.
- No. 6. A FABLE.

Terse and epigrammatic as are the words of these songs (selections from "Artful Antics," by Oliver Herford), the composer has in this respect, to say the least, fairly out-rivalled the poet, of such rare charm is the musical setting. The songs are very singable, and are most available as regards compass. To hear them once incites a desire to hear them again and again.

Secular Songs.

FREDERICK BARRY.

Spring Song. Sop. or Ten., with Viola Obligato. .75
A brilliant trio for voice, violin and piano. Poem by Thomas Moore. A very artistic and pleasing spring song, requiring no great degree of virtuosity, but suited to the use of skilled musicians.

H. CLOUGH-LEIGHTER.

And Gave Them You. .50
A superb and passionate voice-piece, combining delicacy and fire. Short as it is, it is nevertheless a true concert song, which no singer or lover of good vocal compositions can afford to overlook. Suited to any voice.

CLAYTON JOHNS.

The Miller's Quest. (Poem by Oliver Herford.) .75
Alto or Bar. E., M.-Sop. or Ten. F.
Mr. Johns' works are always clever. The "Miller's Quest" is no doubt destined to become a popular favorite, as it is easy to remember, and is one of the daintiest of ballads, with a touch of graceful and delightful humor that tickles the fancy.

Dinah. (A Sentimental Negro Ballad.) .50
Words by Mr. Lerin P. Deland.

This composition is not a modern "coon song," but a ballad, with modern harmonies, in the manner of "My Old Kentucky Home" and the "Swanee River." It is a sufficient recommendation of the real worth of this song that Mr. Johns has gratified his friends by giving it to the public, and serves to show once more the many sides of this prolific composer.

Oh, Like a Queen. Sop. or Ten. E., M.-Sop. or Bar. C. .50
The charming sentiment and poetic worth of William Watson's verse wedded to Mr. Johns' equally charming and poetic music will ensure the success of this song. The trend of the text is shown in the following lines:—

"We wandered where the river gleamed
"Nenth asks that music and pine that dreamed."
"But oh, at last, when all is said,
Her woman's heart for me!"

This is the Hour. (Apoem.) .50
Poem by Paul Verlaine.

Sop. or Ten. F., M.-Sop. or Bar. A.
This song is of a delicate beauty not to be described in words. The music is decidedly French, of a light, airy and fanciful character, and will add greatly to Mr. Johns' reputation as a writer of fine and refined songs.

LEONARD KANE.

The Bugle Calls. Bass C, Bar. D, Tenor E. .75
A really splendid song, of great artistic merit, and yet in a popular vein. Every note is effective, and none too high or too low for the average voice. It is the highest note in the low bass key. This is one of the songs that any one can sing, and a prize for those who sing in public.

R. LEONCAVALLO.

A December Night. (Nuit de Décembre.) .50
Sop. or Tenor G, Bar. or M.-Sop. E.
An impassioned, dramatic song by the composer of "Pagliacci." The words by Alfred de Musset are characterized by a pleasing melancholy. The music is rather French than Italian, and of entrancing pathos and fire.

STEPHEN TOWNSEND.

Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes. .50
Baritone or M.-Sop. Poem by Ben Jonson.

The music combines the 17th Century atmosphere with modern richness of harmony. The melody is quaint and fascinating in the extreme; and it will appeal equally strongly to singers and listeners.

HARRY HALE PIKE.

What Has Come Over the Sunshine. .50
(For medium high voice.) Poem by Walter Smith.

A Song of Her Love. (For medium high voice.) .50
Poem by Frank L. Stanton.

These new songs, together with Mr. Pike's previous successes, "The Witch in the Glass" and "A Lass and I," are distinguished by remarkable fluency and fascination. Mr. Pike is one of the school of younger composers who take their texts from contemporary verse. The very titles are attractive, and examination of the songs will more than justify the promise of their titles.

Sacred Songs.

CHARLES GOUNOD.

The Land of Peace. .75
Sop. or Ten. F., M.-Sop. E., M.-Sop. or Bar. D, Alto or Bass C.

The voice part of this fine song is a melody of wonderful beauty, over an accompaniment of rich dramatic harmony. The subject is well shown by the following selection from the poem:—

"Sweet the thought in the land—
There are dear living faces—
Ah! in that realm of peace,
Beyond the starry spaces,
The parted souls of earth
Shall greet again once more."

EDWARD HERBERT.

The Light of Heaven. .75
Sop. or Tenor A, M.-Sop. or Bar. G, Alto or Bass F.

In the class of popular devotional songs this number takes high rank; the music is especially good and dignified.

Octavo Editions.

Female Voices.

G. C. GOW.

Give Her but a Least Excuse to Love Me. (4 voices.) .15

F. SCHUBERT.

German Dance. (Three female voices.) n. .35

Even "German Dances" by Schubert, arranged to be sung by S. S. A. and cleverly adapted in well chosen poems with English translations. The whole makes a splendid collection of short and fascinating classic pieces for concert, school, or seminary; in short, wherever women sing together with piano or orchestra accompaniment.

Male Voices.

G. L. OSGOOD.

Hannah. (Baritone Solo and Male Chorus.) n. .15

One of the short, telling "funny pieces" that are welcome to the budget of every male quartet, chorus or glee-club.

CAMILLE SAINT-SAENS.

A Song of Ancestry. (Bar. Solo and Male Chorus.) n. .20

A noble and spirited French patriotic song, rising to a climax of superb enthusiasm. As the chorus parts are largely unison or two-part, the piece requires comparatively little preparation; we venture to predict a success for every adequate production.

Mixed Voices.

A. MASCHERONI.

The Land of Yesterday. (S. A. T. B.) .15

A fine a cappella piece for mixed voices, suitable for the program of the best choruses and mixed quartets.

Church Music.

JOH. SEB. BACH.

16: Grant Us to do with Zeal. (Choral.) .08

(Gib, dass ich th' mit Fleiss.)

Organ.

ETHELBERT NEVIN.

Slumber Song. Op. 7, No. 2. .50

Organists will find in this new publication a remarkably interesting and beautiful morsel, one of Nevin's most poetical inspirations, transcribed for the organ by Edwin H. Lemuel, charmingly registered for three manuals, with simple double-pedal work in a few measures. The piece is of medium difficulty and extraordinary merit; it can be rendered upon two manuals with excellent effect.

F. S. CONVERSE.

Op. 1. Sonata for Violin and Piano. $2.50

A grand Sonata this, concise, direct, and of great beauty. It is a wonderful first work. The Allegro giocoso is genial and scholarly; the slow movement, a Cantabile is of wonderful poetic loveliness; there is a graceful Minuet, with a still more graceful Trio, and the Finale (Poco agitato) is superb. Converse's work is comparable only with that of MacDowell.

Op. 2. Suite for Piano. Complete. $2.00

- | | | |
|---|------------------------|------|
| 1 | PRELUDE IN G. | .50 |
| 2 | SCHERZANDO IN E MINOR. | .75 |
| 3 | QUASI FANTASIA IN A♭. | 1.00 |
| 4 | FINALE IN D. | .75 |

The tonality and atmosphere of this new composition is modern and individual. It is massive, brilliant, and always pianistic, the work of a master of music. The technical difficulties are only such as are inseparable from a work of such depth and passion, and is, in the opinion of a musician well known here and in Europe, the best pianoforte work written by an American.

Piano Solo.

J. ALBERT JEFFERY.

Cradle Song. (Grade III.) .50

A lullaby piece, full of tranquil grace and exquisite charm and of haunting melody. Not at all hard to play, and especially well suited to the use of pupils and amateurs.

JAMES H. ROGERS.

The Golden Age. (Grade II-III.) .40

- | | | |
|---|----------------------|-----|
| 1 | BRIGHT AND EARLY. | .40 |
| 2 | IN LINE OF MARCH. | .40 |
| 3 | LARKS AND THRUSHES. | .40 |
| 4 | WITH THE HARVESTERS. | .40 |
| 5 | AT THE MILL. | .40 |
| 6 | HOMERWARD BOUND. | .40 |

Charming little classics for beginners, like Schumann's Kinderscenen, but much easier both to play and to understand. It should not be lost sight of that these bright little piano numbers are miniature "program pieces," and the music carries out the ideas of the titles so cleverly that they are especially well suited to be played by older folk to children and child audiences. And for teaching they are nearly ideal.

Violin and Piano.

F. A. HABENECK.

(1781-1849.)

Adagio et Polonaise. $1.50

The style of this composition is broad and noble, and in classic form. Excellent for bowing and development of tone, and can be regarded as a step between Viotti, Roda, Kreutzer, and Vieuxtemps. Among the pupils of Habeneck were Cuvillion, Alard, Clappon, Leonard, Saenger, etc.

EMILE MLYNARSKI.

Mazur. $1.25

Concert Mazurka is a better name for this dashing and beautiful gypsy dance in G major, with its telling double-stops for all the strings, its wealth of possible tempo rubato, and its fascinating nuances. Here is a splendid piece of resistance for concert players; and yet it is not excessively difficult.

C. N. ALLEN.

Fete Champetre. Op. 24. (For Four Violins.) $1.25

A well written composition by a skilled and distinguished master of the violin in Boston. In form of March and Polonaise moderately difficult, bright, and effective. Can be played by any number in ensemble classes.

ALL WORKS MENTIONED BELOW SENT FOR EXAMINATION.

Vocal.

FRANCES ALLITSEN.

False or True. Two keys, B \flat , C .75
Pronounced as fine a love song as any of Tosti's, and having the same charm of spontaneous, sensuous melody, accompanied by rich, syncopated harmonies. In two keys and of modest compass, with of libretto high and low climactic notes.

FREDERIC FIELD BULLARD.

The Sword of Ferrara. Bass in B \flat , Tenor in D \flat .60
The Sword of Ferrara. Abridged version in C .50
One of the most brilliant of concert songs for baritone or bass, and by far the best that Mr. Bullard has written. The words are supposed to be sung by a splendid old sword of the make of Andrea Ferrara, and are instinct with fire and fighting. The composer has caught the martial spirit of the poem to perfection. The song is by no means difficult.

New Sacred Songs.

By CHARLES GOUNOD.

Hold Thou My Hand. Four keys, B \flat , C, D, E .75
One of the most effective and valuable church solos that has appeared in years. Dramatic and sonorous at the beginning, this song works up to a thrilling climax. It is superbly vocal, and has the syncopated accompaniment so characteristic of the works of this great master, and so effective with either piano-forte or organ. The song is published in four keys, and is well adapted to all voices, but especially to contraltos. Orchestra accompaniment is available, in C, D and E.

Rock of Ages. Four keys, B \flat , C, D, E .75
A superb adaptation to these immortal words which cannot fail to supersede all others. The song having a compass of only one note over the octave is suited to all voices and all singers, yet within these limits thrilling climaxes are attained. The song fairly "sings itself."

HARTWELL JONES.

Father Eternal. D, C, B \flat , G .75
The Light Beyond. A, G, F, B \flat .75
King of Eternity. B \flat , A, G .75
The composer of these songs is an Englishman whose works have met with great success. We have selected the above as being among his most dignified and pleasing compositions, and recommend them especially for church use wherever emotional songs similar to "The Holy City" are desired.
"King of Eternity" is well adapted to a heavy voice, while "Father Eternal" and "The Light Beyond" are well suited to all voices.

CLAYTON JOHNS.

Op. 21. Two Ballads.
1. WITH RUE MY HEART IS LADEN. .40
2. WHEN I WAIT AT THE BARS FOR NELL. G, F .50
The singer will find in these short ballads a most desirable double number for concerts and recitals, for the tender melancholy of the first contrasts admirably with the blithe gaiety, the dimples and daintiness of the second. "When I wait at the bars for Nell" is especially attractive and pleasing, and has all the elements which have made Mr. Johns' songs so deservedly popular.

CLAYTON JOHNS. — Continued.

Op. 23. A Cycle of German Songs, Complete 75

1. ADEL (Farewell)
2. UNTERSTANDEN. (Mistakenhood.)
3. SEI STILL! (Be Still!)
4. MEIN HEIZ GING AUF DIE WANDERSCHAFT. (My heart a-wandering went.)

What Mr. Johns did so successfully in his songs in the old English manner, he has done with no less success with these "German Songs." He shows himself thoroughly in sympathy with German ideals and thought, and yet maintains his own individuality and directness, avoiding the complexity and abstruseness of the Teuton and maintaining throughout clarity and spontaneity. Each song of the cycle is independent of the rest and may be used separately.

LAWRENCE KELLIE.

Love's Nocturne. Four keys, A, B \flat , C, D .75
"Love's Nocturne" is a barcarole love song in the lighter vein, uniting a melody of rare charm with a dainty but rich accompaniment. It has already had great success at concerts and a phenomenal sale. The copyright recently brought $1,200.00 ($250 at public auction).

ANGELO MASCHERONI.

The Land of Yesterday. D, C, A .75
A simple barcarole with a refrain in waltz time, in the pleasing Neapolitan manner; of moderate compass and very easy to learn. Is sure to become extremely popular.

Guard My Beloved. G, B \flat .75
Hasten to Me. B \flat , D, C .75

At a recent sale of musical copyrights, the enormous sum of $10,000.00 was paid for a song by Angelo Mascheroni. This being the highest price ever realized for a song, exceptional interest will be attached to the compositions of this celebrated composer. The three songs enumerated above will be found to rank among his best efforts.

JAMES H. ROGERS.

The Brooklet. .50
The Captain. .50
The repository of child-songs is richer and better for these charming lyrics and catchy tunes. "The Brooklet" is fascinating and dainty, while "The Captain" is a jolly and inspiring march-song, with plenty of snap and rhythm.

La Vie est Vaine. Sop. or Ten. .40
My true love hath my heart. Soprano .40
Rock of Ages. Mezzo-Sop. or Bar. .50
Song from the Persian. Sop. or Ten. .50
Thou art like unto a flower. .40
Sop. or Ten. Mezzo or Bar.

These classic poems have found highly interesting and sympathetic treatment at the hands of the young and talented composer. Exquisite delicacy of sentiment and innate refinement are manifested in his compositions, which will appeal to all lovers of good music.

WINTHROP L. ROGERS.

Three Poems by Robert Burns.
1. IT WAS HER EEN SAN BONNIE BLUE. .40
2. BONNIE WEE THING. .40
3. OF A' THE Airts THE WIND CAN BLOW. .50
Mr. Rogers' Scotch songs have not only the true Gaelic character but also a charm and individuality rarely found in modern lyric compositions. They are of very moderate compass and exceedingly vocal.
"It was her een san bonnie blue" is a most charming love song; "Bonnie Wee Thing" has tender words wedded to a lovable melody; and "Of a' the airts the wind can blow" is as dithone and cannie a lilt as can be found.

AUGUSTO ROTOLI.

Remembrance of Love. (O Dolce Ricordo.) E \flat , C .60
Roman Serenade. (Serenata Romana.) E \flat , C .60
Merry Springtime. (In Primavera.) F, E \flat .60
"Remembrance of Love" is impassioned and individual, yet with a dainty touch unusual in the sensuous melodies of composers of Italian birth. Mr. Rotoli has created for himself an enviable reputation as a writer for the voice, and it goes without saying that all of his songs are supremely vocal. The "Roman Serenade" has a spirited melody in the true Italian vein, with a fascinating and characteristic accompaniment. "Merry Springtime" is even more attractive than the others; it is a love song as well as a spring song; the melody is surpassingly lovely.

Mixed Choruses.

PETER CORNELIUS.

The Ancestral Tomb. n. 15
This fine composition is a short but impressive dramatic ballad for bass solo and chorus, without accompaniment. The piece is of intense interest and dramatic effect and is not difficult. A brave old knight, weary of life, goes to die at the tomb of his fathers, who welcome him; as he passes away, their song grows fainter and ceases.

Male Choruses.

J. MITTERER.

The Death of Mighty Pan. Op. 43. n. 25
The words of this splendid composition (for tenor solo and male chorus) deal with the passing of paganism and the advent of Christianity. A calm, a storm, wreck and devastation, the destruction of the temple of Jove, night, sunrise and an angel chorus, succeed each other in a succession of dramatic climaxes. The piece is part writing of the most effective kind, and the accompaniment, for small orchestra or piano, is brilliantly descriptive.

WILHELM GERICKE.

O World, Thou Art so Fair a Sight. n. 15
Male choruses and glee clubs will find in this frank, fresh four-part song a fine repertory number. The glad spirit of Maytime breathes in every measure.

Church Music.

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Hold Thou My Hand. Anthem. n. 15
A new anthem for general use, arranged from the song by the same title. Has a fine soprano solo, and the part writing is melodic and of great beauty throughout.

HORATIO PARKER.

Grant, we beseech thee, merciful Lord. n. 60
A beautiful and appropriate setting of the Collect for the twenty-first Sunday after Trinity; also available for general use as a response or sentence; with or without accompaniment.

Instrumental.

PIANO.

JOSEPH A. HILLS. Op. 16.

1. Tarantella. .60
2. Valse Etude. .60
3. Second Caprice. .90

These pieces will be found among the most effective and brilliant studies yet written by American composers. Each piece is well-nigh perfect from the standpoint of technique and musical form. The music is beautiful and the themes melodious, and unusually easy to memorize.
The Tarantella (in A minor) lies well under the fingers; is splendidly dashing and exciting. The Valse Etude, in key of D flat major, is a genial and interesting parlor piece, with a flowing middle theme and a splendid close. The Second Caprice is the most highly developed of the three pieces, being a Sonata Rondo with introduction, and color but for all that, it is as capricious and dainty as may be.

G. SARAKOWSKI.

Im Walde. (In the Woods.) .75
A descriptive piece in the style of Bachmannoff; the imposing march of the giant trees and the rustle of leaves falling in the woodland solitudes are both represented by charmingly contrasted themes. It cannot fail to be an intensely acceptable concert number, and is, without exception, pianistic and not at all difficult.
