 Of all the girls I've e - ver seen In all the climes I've roved, Believe me, dearest, you're the Queen, The on - ly one I've loved. It may be true, as you've been told—That's what men al - ways say, In fai - ry tales of sui - tors bold Who love—and ride a - way. But I think I'd break my heart If we e - ver had to part, And there's no - thing you can ask I wouldn't do. Oh, it is - n't fair to chaff, For I vow, though you may laugh, That I mean them, all the words I say to you. Oh, I think I'd break my heart If we e - ver had to part, And there's no-thing you can ask I would.n't do, For I love but you a lone, And I want you for my own, 'Cos there's no one in the world like you.

You

ask me if there'll come a day When I shall half regret Those whisper'd words that lov.ers say But husbands may for-get; How shall I make you understand That I'd lay down my life To clasp in mine your lit - tle hand And claim you for my wife? Oh, I think I'd break my heart If we e-ver had to part, And there's no-thing you can ask I would.n't

do. Say it was - n't fair to chaff, And you did - n't mean to laugh, For you know that ev - 'ry word I said was true. Oh, I think I'd break my heart If we e - ver had to part, And there's no - thing you can ask I would - n't do, For I love but you a - lone, And I want you for my own, 'Cos there's no one in the world like you.
